ELECTRIC RATE CUT FORECAST FOR NEXT YEAR

Utilities Body Will Call Public Hearing in January.

MEETING DELAY SEEN AS SLIDING SCALE AID

Change Eliminates Making Estimates as Basis for New Charges.

A substantial reduction in the Potomac Electric Power Co.'s rates to consumers looms for 1932, as the result of an announcement late yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission that a public hearing on electric rates will be held the first of next year, probably late in January, instead of in December, this year.

By postponing the hearing date the commission, in effect, disregarded the consent decree under which electric rates have been fixed for the past seven years, and gave an indication that it will base next year's rates on the sliding scale adopted last spring, unless the courts prevent.

This postponement also will enable the commission for the first time to have the exact figures on the power company's return for the past year, and will not have to estimate the revenue for the last two months as in past years. During the last two years Washington consumers lost about $80,000, which would have been reflected in lower rates by the method followed under the consent decree.

Return Is Underestimated.

In 1929 the commission underestimated the company's return for the incompleted period by $150,000 whereas in 1930 it overestimated the revenue by $70,000. Thus, the actual loss to the public for these two years also was $80,000.

The power company was notified yesterday that its report on December operations must be in the hands of the commission no later than January 20. A public rate hearing, the date of which will be set at the end of ten days, will be held shortly after receipt of this report.

Indications, based on the revenue of the power concern this year through September, are that the excess earnings for the entire twelve months' period will reach $1,500,000. The company's estimate rate of return, on the same basis, is 9.34 per cent, unweighted, or 9.36 per cent weighted.

Results to Consumers.

As either of these percentages, under the new sliding scale, would entitle the consumer to five-sixths of the excess profits, to be reflected in rate reductions for the new year, the household electric rate may drop for 1932 from 4.2 cents per kilowatt hour to between 3.5 and 4 cents, according to tabulations of officials associated with the commission. The closest guess is 3.6 cents.

These figures are predicated on a weighted rate base of $55,000,000, and an unweighted base of $57,000,000. The weighted base takes into consideration the length of service of a capital addition within a certain period.

Excess earnings for 1930, upon which the 1931 rates were based, amounted to $1,660,000, and the rate of return of the power company was 10.41 per cent, unweighted. This was in excess of 7½ per cent allowed under the consent decree, whereas the new sliding scale has cut the company's rate of return to 7 per cent for this year. But only half of this additional profit, or $830,000, was used to lower rates last year, and thus the drop was only from 4.6 cents to 4.2 cents.

Consent Plan Forestalled.

This move on the part of the commission forestalls the efforts of the power company to bring the hearing under the consent decree again. A motion was made in the District Supreme Court last week by the utility commission that the hearing on the sliding scale case be advanced so that the commission might hold its annual hearing in December.

The District Supreme Court has already, in effect, sustained the abrogation of the consent decree by the commission, but it has not heard arguments on the merits of the new sliding scale. Should this case be undecided, or should the scale be declared unfair, the commission probably would have to establish the 1932 rates on the basis of the old sliding scale, or else fix arbitrary rates and place the burden on the power company to prove that they are unjust.

As a result of the postponement in the hearing date, the present electric rates will be effective in January, 1932, but this possible loss to the consumers will be offset by the lesser amount which will be charged in January, 1933, if the rates are reduced as planned.

Lindbergh Dares Fog; Arrives in New York

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here tonight on his return flight from the South, where he inaugurated a new air service across the Caribbean.

Forced down by inclement weather, Col. Lindbergh, flying from Jacksonville, had remained at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., two and a half hours tonight. He was received by the officers of the post and taken to the home of Col. E. M. Shinkle, commandant of the reservation, for [illegible]. The plane was serviced by mechanics and made ready for [illegible] in the lifting fog that country side.

China Accepts League Program to End Strife

Nipponese Commander Hears Mah Plans to Seize Tsitsihar.

(Associated Press.)

Southern Manchuria was peaceful yesterday, but trouble loomed in the north.

Japanese headquarters at Mukden heard that Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, whose forces were routed on the Anganchi-Tsitsihar field two weeks ago, had reorganized his army and was advancing on Tsitsihar.

Reinforcements were sent from Mukden to repel the expected advance on the walled city.

The Chinese commander of Chinchow was informed of this decision, and instructed to communicate it to foreign military observers there, one of whom is the American military attache at Peiping. The Chinchow situation, it was said at the Nanking foreign office, is considered by China to be in the

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, Nov. 30.—One of the main barriers to settlement of the Manchurian conflict was removed by China tonight.

The Chinese League of Nations delegation announced its government was ready to accept the league council's program for composing the conflict without any provision for a definite date for Japan's troops to evacuate.

This acceptance was predicated on proof of the truth of reports that the Japanese forces have retired from the Chinchow area to positions across the Liao River.

A Chinese spokesman declared his delegation was inclined to credit reports of this withdrawal and therefore considered the situation much more hopeful.

"If information that the Japanese forces are retiring from the Chinchow area and beyond the Liao River is

FOODSTUFF TARIFF VOTED BY BRITAIN

Fruits and Vegetables, Also Flowers, Are Affected by Commons' Action.

London, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—A British tariff on certain agricultural products, including fruits, vegetables and flowers, was authorized by the House of Commons tonight.

A government resolution authorizing a duty on fresh fruits, early vegetables, flowers and bulbs was passed by a majority of 317.

The board of trade had announced the next batch of tariffs to go into operation under the "abnormal importations act" would become effective Friday.

Duties of 50 per cent will be assessed by the board's order against household linens, glass bottles and jars not containing merchandise and excluding scientific glassware; battery carbons; yarns, wholly or partly of wool; candles; sporting guns and rifles; airguns and pistols, and domestic spoons and forks of metal other than gold or silver.

Sir John Gilmour, minister of agriculture, who presented the agricultural tariff resolution passed tonight, announced that Canada and other dominions would receive a full exemption.

Sir John announced the importations affected amounted to about $55,000,000 a year, based on 1930 figures. The resolution was aimed chiefly at early crops such as potatoes from North Africa and the Canary Islands, and Sir John argued these products could not be considered as food for the people, as they are sold at extravagant prices.

His resolution was modified to allow the minister to fix specific duties whenever necessary as a substitute for ad valorem duties, with the provision that the specific duties do not exceed 100 per cent

Brand, House Member From Ohio, Will Retire

(Associated Press.)

Representative Charles Brand (Republican), Ohio, yesterday said he would retire from politics at the close of his present term.

He has served in the House of Representatives for the last eight years. At the last session he was on four committees—elections, merchant marine and fisheries, public buildings and grounds and roads.

U. S. CITIZEN GIVEN IRISH PRISON TERM

Naturalized Repatriate Is First Sentenced Under Public Safety Act.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The first man sentenced by the new military tribunal created by the public safety act, which heard its first cases today, was a naturalized American citizen.

John Mulgrew, of Mulranny, County Mayo, who went to America in 1923, became a naturalized citizen and returned a year ago, was sentenced to six months hard labor for being a member of Saor Eire, outlawed Communist organization.

The court decreed that when he has served his time Mulgrew must be deported. Evidence was produced that he was a member of the executive council of Saor Eire.

The new tribunal of three men, meeting in the Collins barracks, disposed of its cases rapidly. Little attention was paid to it in Dublin. A few persons gathered outside the barracks gate when the prisoners arrived, but they were soon dispersed.

Two young farmer boys, Daniel McKiernan and Peter Mitchell, from Drumdiffer, County Leitrim, who were charged with belonging to the Irish republican army and with possessing arms, promised to behave themselves in the future and sentence was deferred.

John Sheehan, of Beaufort, County Kerry, a farm worker, charged with being a member of the Irish republican army, was remanded in custody of the court.

The public safety bill was passed after a series of disturbances in the vicinity of the Ulster Free State border. It permits trial of offenses against the government before the military tribunal.

The measure was approved after much bitter debate in the Dail, the members of which were guarded by soldiers carrying fixed bayonets and by detectives.

President William T. Cosgrave explained strong action was needed because there was "sedition in every town" and because "Irishmen trained in Russia" were causing unrest throughout the land.

Capt. Hawks Is Ready For Assault on Record

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Capt. Frank Hawks, who will leave here tomorrow on an attempt to lower the flying time between Canada and Mexico, arrived late today from Seattle. Capt. Hawks expects to leave at 9 p. m. on his record seeking flight.

Rocket Air Flight Over Sea Within Few Hours Forecast

"Space Ship" Soars Almost 6 Miles Above Earth in Test Trip Over Island Off German Coast; Inventor Is Well Pleased.

Editor's Note—A successful "space ship" flight across the Atlantic Ocean within a few hours was forecast yesterday after the first test of a new model aircraft, of the rocket type, on Wangerooge Island, off the German coast. In the following dispatch the inventor, Reinhold Tiling, explains his test flight and his plans for mail ships across Europe and regular service to America.

(Copyright, 1931, by the United Press.)

Wangerooge, East Frisian Islands, Germany, Nov. 30 (U.P.).—A 60-inch model "space ship" rose slowly from Wangerooge Island today, gathered speed and soared almost 6 miles above the earth.

At the peak of its flight, wings unfolded from the [illegible] Monday at Sixty short] the ship and it came down as a [illegible] landing some 5 miles from the [illegible] g point.

Reinhold Tiling[illegible]ntor of the model ship, watched [illegible]he flight with obvious satisfaction.

"Eventually a man[illegible]ized space ship will fly the Atlantic Ocean within a few hours," he remarked.

The test of the model ship, which carried 6½ kilograms of explosives and 5 kilograms of cargo, was the first complete experiment with Tiling's space ship. He said he would make more complete tests before attempting to build a full-sized ship which would carry a crew.

In Tiling's opinion, his ship is far superior to all other rocket designs because he has overcome the greatest obstacle to successful flight in such craft. That has been done by elimination of usual strain caused by jerks and terrific pressure when the ordinary rocket ship is under complete control at the start, so that it is not suddenly shot into the air, but instead is taken aloft slowly. The ship gains momentum rapidly, however, and soon reaches a maximum speed in the air.

"I believe it will be possible to establish regular mail airways over Germany and later to establish transatlantic lines when we have installed a system of liquid explosives, instead of the present powder-propelled apparatus," Tilling said, explaining that he was still working on the liquid system in his laboratory.

He has two models. The first, designed to carry men, has wings folding back over the tail controls much in the manner of a bird's wings at rest, except that they extend far back.

RESERVE BANKS OPPOSE HOOVER ON REDISCOUNT

SENATORS CONSIDER TAXES AND FARM AID

(Associated Press.)

Disapproval of proposals to liberalize rediscount requirements, as suggested by President Hoover, came yesterday from the Federal Reserve system in answer to a questionnaire from the Senate subcommittee on banking.

Meanwhile, taxation and farm relief arose on Capitol Hill again to vie with banking in holding the interest of senatorial circles in preliminary legislative skirmishing.

Chairman Jones, of the appropriations committee, joined others in advocating higher income taxes to help meet the deficit.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, gave an idea of what might be expected if threats are carried out to abolish the Farm Board. He said he would offer a bill to give the board another revolving fund—this time $1,500,000,000, or three times that agency's original fund.

Banking Committee Meets.

Under his proposal, the board would be empowered to fix prices on staple farm commodities.

The banking subcommittee, headed by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, buckled down to the task of revising a rough draft of a measure to tighten Federal Reserve credit against stock speculation. In addition, it made public the replies of the Reserve banks to the questionnaire.

When President Hoover launched his national credit pool plan he told assembled party leaders he favored changes in the Federal Reserve act under which certain types of paper not now eligible for discount at the banks of the system would be made so. The purpose of the move was to enable smaller banks to liquidate sound paper now classed as "frozen assets."

Banks Oppose Change.

With a few exceptions, the twelve reserve banks were against altering existing regulations, rulings of the Reserve Board or provisions relative to paper eligible for rediscounting, now largely notes that can be readily liquidated.

The replies of the banks are expected on Capitol Hill to be given serious consideration in studying President Hoover's proposal.

Glass has opposed making certain types of paper eligible for rediscount particularly railroad securities, which many small banks now hold and are unable to liquidate conveniently. He has promised a bill for early submission to Congress, however.

The general purpose of the bill will be to plug up the holes through which millions of dollars of Federal Reserve credit have leaked out into the stock market for speculation. It also will seek to curb chain banking.

Vandenburg Questioned.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, was questioned by Senator Glass' subcommittee this afternoon. Two proposals from Vandenberg have been placed before the committee.

These were worked out in conjunction with Gov. Roy A. Young, of the Boston Reserve Bank, he said, and had been approved by the majority of State banking commissioners. His first suggestion would broaden the rediscount privilege to include tax-supported bonds, such as obligations of cities, counties, school districts and other governmental subdivisions.

The second proposal would create an emergency rediscount privilege which would be invoked at the option of the reserve banks and board. He also proposes that debentures of the recently formed National Credit Corporation and any subsequently organized central mortgage bank be eligible for rediscount.

The banks, in answer to the subcommittee's questionnaire, also gave their opinions on methods of restricting credit policies to offset speculative use of the money. Only two said acceptability requirements were

300 Police to Guard Hearing on Mooney

Walker Uses Will Power to Cure Cold on Eve of Meeting.

San Francisco, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Declaring "I won't think sick and I won't be sick," James J. Walker, ill with a cold, followed his physicians' orders in part today as he put the finishing touches on study of the Tom Mooney case.

Tomorrow the Mayor of New York will join in an appeal to Gov. James Rolph, jr., to pardon the man who has served fifteen years in San Quentin Prison after conviction on a charge of murder following the bombing of a San Francisco Preparedness Day parade in 1916.

William J. Quinn, chief of police, detailed 300 uniformed policemen and plain clothes men to preserve order at and near the State Building, where the hearing will be held in the chambers of the supreme court. The guard was ordered after the police granted a permit to the International Labor Defense Trade Unity to parade to the civic center in which the State Building is located.

NEW RUM VOTE GAINS FAVOR IN CONGRESS POLL

"FOLLOW-UP" WORK PLANNED BY WOMEN

More Than Half of Replies Thus Far Support Move, Canvass Shows.

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—With its canvass less than half complete, the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform tonight announced that 149 members of the Seventy-second Congress had replied affirmatively to its question of submitting the eighteenth amendment to popular vote.

Forty-nine of the 251 members so far responding replied negatively, while 53 were noncommital. The question, sent to all 531 members of the House and Senate, was:

"Will you consider—and will you vote in favor of—a proposal under Article V of the Constitution of the United States, for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment thereto, to be submitted to conventions in the several States for ratification or rejection?"

Mrs. Charles Sabin, national chairman of the women's antiprohibition organization, computed the number of replies at 47.3 per cent of the congressional membership, of which she said 59.3 per cent favored submission, 19.5 per cent opposed, and 21.1 per cent were noncommittal.

Will Submit to Committee.

She made public the report just before leaving for Detroit, where tomorrow she will submit it to the national executive committee of the organization.

She said the canvass was "the first time that the Congress had been polled on the question of submission."

She pointed out that 280 members of Congress were yet to be heard from and asserted 66 of those "are known to favor revision or submission."

"We are especially proud of our women representatives," she continued. "Four of the five women in the House have replied to our letter and every one of them is for submission. Representative Ruth Bryan Owen is one of the avowed prohibitionists who believes in the people's right to vote."

The women's antiprohibition organization, she said, planned "follow-up work on the noncommittal members and those who have not yet replied."

15 Senators for Submission.

Mrs. Sabin's report showed 15 senators for submission, 15 against submission and 14 noncommittal, while 134 representatives favored submission, 34 opposed and 39 were noncommittal.

The list of senators favoring submission she gave as follows: Bingham and Walcott, Connecticut; Broussard, Louisiana; Tydings, Maryland; Walsh and Coolidge, Massachusetts; Couzens and Vandenberg, Michigan; Pittman, Nevada; Copeland and Wagner, New York; Bulkley, Ohio; Metcalf, Rhode Island; Blaine, Wisconsin, and Carey, Wyoming.

Those against submission: Bankhead, Alabama; Costigan, Colorado; George, Georgia; Robinson, Indiana; Brookhart, Iowa; McGill and Capper, Kansas; Hale, Maine; Stephens, Mississippi; Howell, Nebraska; Frazeur, North Dakota; Thomas and Gore, Oklahoma; Connally and Sheppard, Texas.

Those whose replies were noncommittal:

Willing For Voters' Voice.

Mrs. Sabin said Vandenberg, Couzens and Carey "do not favor repeal, but are willing to accord the people an opportunity to vote on repeal or retention of the eighteenth amendment."

Kean, New Jersey, and Kendrick, Wyoming, Mrs. Sabin said, "favor

Paris Asks Million For New Embassy

Bill Providing Fund for Building Here Placed Before Deputies.

Paris, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The government introduced a bill in the Chamber of Deputies today to appropriate $1,040,000 for a new French embassy at Washington.

Of the total, $500,000 would be taken from the 1931-1932 budget. The Senate already has approved the project.

Paul P. Cret, Philadelphia architect, submitted plans for the new French Embassy, to be located at Sixteenth and Euclid streets northwest, to the French government more than a year ago.

The proposed structure will overlook Meridian Park. Mr. Cret, a native of France, also designed the Pan-American Building here. The present French Embassy stands on Sixteenth street, a short distance south of the site of the proposed new building.

G. O. P. MAKES SNELL ITS SPEAKER NOMINEE; CURTIS TO RUN AGAIN

Vice President Announces He Would Accept Renomination.

SETS AT REST RUMORS OF SENATE CAMPAIGN

Declines to Reveal Factors Determining Decision; Friends Optimistic.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Vice President Curtis ended his long season of political meditation yesterday by announcing his willingness to stand for renomination.

He will not seek election to the Senate from Kansas, and if the Republican national convention should tender the vice presidential nomination he will accept.

This decision was published in The Washington Post last Tuesday, with the announcement that Mr. Curtis favored the renomination of President Hoover and anticipated a sweeping national victory for the Republican ticket.

Upon his return from Chicago yesterday morning, where he made a "very optimistic" speech Saturday, the Vice President dictated a brief statement outlining his plans.

Careful Consideration.

"There has been presented for my decision," it said, "the question whether I shall be a candidate for the United States Senate from Kansas in 1932, and if not, whether I shall accept another nomination for Vice President in the event of its being tendered me.

"Many reasons have been assigned by my friends to support either course I pursue.

"After careful consideration I have decided not to be a candidate for the United States Senate from Kansas in 1932, and further, that if the next Republican national convention nominates me for Vice President I shall accept."

Declines Further Talk.

Obviously relieved that the great decision was out at last, Mr. Curtis submitted in good humor to a determined cross-fire of interrogation by newspapermen, but would add nothing to his carefully prepared text. He declined to say whether he had discussed the matter with President Hoover. Nor would he reveal what factors on the political horizon determined his course. He was known to have inclined strongly toward entering the Kansas senatorial primaries, but his statement gave no clew as to why that project had been abandoned.

The decision was welcomed by Republican leaders on Capitol Hill, and many influential party spokesmen expressed confidence that the national convention next June would renominate Mr. Curtis without a serious contest.

A Washington Post poll six months ago of the delegates and alternates to the Republican national convention of 1928 disclosed an overwhelming majority for the same ticket in 1932. A total of 492 delegates pledged their support to President Hoover against 12 for former President Coolidge. Mr. Curtis led the vice presidential poll with 247 delegates against 60 for Theodore Roosevelt, Governor of Porto Rico.

Plans No Active Campaign.

Mr. Curtis plans no active campaign for the vice presidential nomination. His friends believe, however, that despite his 72 years he will be ready again next summer to take a leading part in the national campaign. In 1928 he covered more than 25,000 miles, carrying the Republican appeal to 33 States.

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, who recently forecast President Hoover's renomination without convention opposition, predicted yesterday that the 1928 ticket should come through next year "with a handsome margin." Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, said he saw no reason why Mr. Curtis should not have the nomination again if he wanted it. Senator Capper, of Kansas, pledged his enthusiastic support for another vice presidential term for his

U. S. SEEKS SOURCE OF 'RED' TELEGRAMS

(Associated Press.)

Secret Service operatives in several cities were active yesterday checking the sources of telegrams to President Hoover demanding free food and lodging for the self-styled "national hunger marchers" converging upon Washington for a demonstration.

The name "hunger marchers" was applied to the group in unsigned literature it has disseminated. Some of this is in the hands of the Secret Service officials of which have said the movement is led by Communists.

Immediately upon receipt of fresh telegrams to the President, long-distance telephone calls set agents at work in determining whether Communist leaders are connected with the demands for food and shelter.

This was part of a far-flung inquiry instituted when similar messages were received at the White House last week. The Secret Service said at least one organization involved was "straight out and out Communist" and that one signer of a message was a "radical Communist."

All but one of the telegrams received at the White House over the week-end from various cities were similarly worded. Each lodged a "demand" that food and shelter be provided, and one asked for a hall in which to hold "march" meetings.

A different type of telegram came from Baltimore. It was signed by the International [illegible] Defense League

Crisp Not to Enter Floor Leader Race

(Associated Press.)

Representative Charles Crisp, of Georgia, yesterday announced he would not be a candidate for the Democratic leadership at the party caucus Saturday.

The Georgia Democrat said he had been requested to become a candidate and considered the matter for several days but that because of his health he had decided not to permit his name to go before the caucus.

This announcement virtually assured Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, the post. The only other candidate remaining in the race is Representative O'Connor, of New York, an antiprohibitionist. All other Southern candidates have withdrawn in favor of a Northern man for the leadership because the speakership is slated for Representative Garner, of Texas.

HEATED CAUCUS HELD BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Further Fight Is Seen When House Is Organized Next Week.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of Potsdam, N. Y., is the choice of the House Republicans for Speaker. In a bitter party conference behind closed doors in the House chamber yesterday the New Yorker was nominated on the seventh ballot over Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut.

The fight really was for the office of Republican floor leader, which office Mr. Tilson has held for six years.

It now seems certain that the Democrats will control the House and will elect Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, as Speaker.

Further Fight Foreseen.

As a rule, the defeated candidate for Speaker becomes the floor leader of the minority party, which in this case seemingly will be the Republican party.

The prospect last night was that Mr. Snell, after being defeated for the speakership, would be chosen as the minority leader. First, however, the fight between him and Tilson must go another round.

Snell's friends say that the whole parliamentary history of the House shows that the defeated candidate for Speaker becomes the minority floor leader. They cite the case of Champ Clark, the last Democratic Speaker, who, after the Republicans captured the House in the Wilson administration, reverted to minority floor leader, Finis Garrett, of Tennessee, gracefully making way for him.

Tilson, however, insists that, since he was chosen as floor leader at the last party conference in February, he should continue as the leader in the Congress that convenes Monday.

A resolution that would settle the question was argued at length yesterday, but in the end it was decided to postpone a showdown until after the House has met and it is known which of the two big parties will be in control.

The expectation is that the Republican conference to settle the question will be held Monday night.

Rules Session Is Today.

This afternoon at 1 o'clock the Republicans will meet again to consider resolutions to liberalize the House rules.

Reporters were not admitted to yesterday's conference, but it was evident that it was a hectic one. When the conference was over and they were admitted, they found Snell and Tilson both apparently worn out from the struggle.

The two men, survivors of the once famous Longworth-Snell-Tilson triumvirate of the House, had been through the most bitter internal political battle that has been witnessed on Capitol Hill since the late Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, fought it out with the late Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, for the seakership. Before that there had been a similar battle between James R. Mann, of Illinois, and Frederick H. Gillette, of Massachusetts.

Snell Avoids Gloating.

Following yesterday's balloting, Snell said nothing that could be construed as a gloat, and Tilson tried bravely to be a good loser.

Though he had been shorn of his power, and though his friends were saying that the Snell-Bacharach-Parker group had actually endangered his chances of reelection in Connecticut, Tilson readily agreed to pose for photographs alongside of Snell.

It must have been an ordeal for both of them. Not only did they have to stand together, but, at the direction of the cameramen, they had to grasp hands and smile.

Hoover "Slap" Seen.

Quite a few Republicans regarded the defeat of Representative Tilson as a "slap at President Hoover." Tilson has always been a stanch supporter of the President, even upholding him on the soldiers' bonus bill, a measure loaded with political dynamite for any man who opposed it.

Representative Snell, who was

Mrs. Boy-Ed's Citizenship Will Be Restored by U. S.

The American citizenship of Mrs. Virginia Grace Mackay-Smith Boy-Ed, widow of Capt. Karl Boy-Ed, famous German naval officer and propagandist, will be restored today when Mrs. Boy-Ed appears before Justice F. D. Letts, presiding over the naturalization branch of the District Supreme Court.

Mrs. Boy-Ed is the daughter of Mrs. Alexander Mackay-Smith, of 1325 Sixteenth street northwest, who has been socially prominent here for many years. Her father, the late Bishop Alexander Mackay-Smith, of Pennsylvania, was rector of fashionable St. John's Episcopal Church here before his elevation to the bishopric.

The marriage of Virginia Grace Mackay-Smith and Capt. Boy-Ed took place in Hamburg in 1921, although they had been betrothed for several years. Their wedding was delayed when Capt. Boy-Ed, who was attached to the German Embassy here prior to America's entrance into the World War, failed to receive a cable from his chief, Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, granting permission for the marriage. It later developed that the message was held up by the American Secret Service, which believed the communication to be in code.

Capt. Boy-Ed was recalled from his connection with the German Embassy here in December, 1915, after the State Department had so requested his government. The State Department moved for his recall after the German naval officer was linked with the appearance of fraudulent passports, with sabotage activities among munitions plants and with other banned operations. His recall caused a sensation in social and diplomatic circles, although the press had been clamoring for such action for some time.

Mrs. Boy-Ed made her debut here and was widely popular. In 1923 and in 1926 she returned to this country to visit her mother. Capt. Boy-Ed died on his estate near Hamburg on September 14, 1930, as the result of injuries suffered in a fall from a horse. He was 58 years old at the time of his death. Mrs. Boy-Ed returned to reside in this country on September 6 of this year.

CURTIS' MOVE OPENS FREE-FOR-ALL RACE

Limit on Field in Drive for McGill Seat in Senate Seen in Kansas.

Topeka Kans., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—A free-for-all race for the Republican senatorial nomination in Kansas next year was in prospect tonight unless party leaders and prospective candidates decide to limit the field in a united effort to recapture the seat now held by Senator George McGill Democrat.

Vice President Curtis' announcement that he will not be in the running for his old place in the Senate occasioned no particular surprise.

With Mr. Curtis, the veteran campaigner, out of the way as a receptive candidate for the vice presidential nomination again, the senatorial aspirations of half a dozen or more Republicans may be permited to bloom in the open.

McGill to Run Again.

Senator McGill is expected to be a candidate for reelection and it was predicted today by Dudley Doolittle, Democratic national committeeman, that McGill would be unopposed for the nomination.

Doolittle forecast an easy victory for McGill over any nominee of the Republicans and interpreted the Curtis announcement as the Vice President's decision to "sink with the Hoover ship of state rather than go down with the smaller craft."

As the result of last year's victory at the polls by McGill and Gov. Harry Woodring, Democrat, in a normally Republican State, and continued dissatisfaction among many voters over agricultural relief, there have been indications that Republican leaders believe the burying of factional differences is essential to success in the coming campaign.

Allen Pledges Support.

Former Senator Allen, who served part of Curtis' unexpired Senate term by appointment of former Gov. Clyde M. Reed, and was defeated by McGill, suggested such a course today and said he would "support any good Republican of senatorial dimensions who can be agreed upon by the factions."

Both Allen and Senator Arthur Capper expressed the opinion that Curtis could have won election if he cared to seek his old Senate seat.

Allen, a close personal friend of President Hoover, said a bitter primary contest might result in defeat of the Republican nominee at the general election next November.

The former senator, however, gave no hint as to his own possible candidacy, although he has been prominently mentioned for the nomination.

Among other possible candidates are Reed and Ben G. Paulen, former governors; Representative Homer Hoch, Representative Harold McGugin, W. H. Sproul, former representative; James F. Getty, former State senator, and Dr. J. R. Brinkley, "goat gland" specialist and unsuccessful independent candidate for governor in 1930.

Former Gov. Paulen has been aligned with the Curtis wing of the party in Kansas.

Allen, who supported President Hoover when Curtis was a "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination, and Reed have been the leaders of another faction.

Curtis Is Commended.

On Curtis' recent visit in Kansas his enthusiasm over sentiment he found over the West led to speculation he had decided to cast his lot again with the Hoover administration.

John Hamilton, Republican State chairman, said "I think it commendable for the Vice President to stay with the Hoover administration."

Emmett George, former Republican State chairman, said the decision was "the happest solution of the situation that could be brought about, and many of Curtis' friends in Kansas will heartily agree with his decision."

CURTIS ANNOUNCES FOR RENOMINATION

former colleague. He predicted there would be no opposition to the renomination.

"At no time have I thought he would do othewise," said Senator Smoot, of Utah.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the assistant Republican leader, predicted the announcement would meet with general approval throughout the party.

No comment on the announcement was offered at the White House.

Free for-All Primary.

Mr. Curtis' positive withdrawal from the Kansas senatorial contest paves the way for a Republican free-for-all in the primary there next spring. Former Senator Henry J. Allen, who was appointed to the seat vacated by Mr. Curtis, but was later defeated by Senator McGill, a Democrat, in the special election, is known to have considered seeking reelection. He said yesterday, however, that he would make no decision until he had an opportunity to canvass the situation with political friends in Kansas.

Meanwhile, he urged the party factions to unite behind some strong candidate, pledging his own support of "any good Republican" who can be agreed upon in the party councils.

Senator McGill declined to comment on the Vice President's statement. McGill's term expires in March, 1933.

Secretary of War Hurley, who had been mentioned as a possible vice presidential nominee in the event of Mr. Curtis' withdrawal, was happy to hear of the decision.

"From the very beginning I have been for Mr. Curtis," he said. "I supported him at the Cleveland convention in 1924 for that office and again at Kansas City in 1928." Several months ago Secretary Hurley announced he was "for Charley first in 1932."

New G. O. P. House Leader Reached Top by Hard Work

Bertrand H. Snell Started in Lumber Industry; Is Rich, But Prefers Not to Talk About It; Popular Because of His Forthrightness.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Bertrand H. Snell, Republican, who has been returned to each succeeding Congress since elected to the Sixty-fourth to represent the Thirty-first District of New York, yesterday sat on the throne of leadership of his party in the House of Representatives, and sought to rid the minds of Republicans and others of any thought of bitterness, incident to the tilt in which he unhorsed Representative John Q. Tilson (Republican) of Connecticut, who had been the Republican floor leader of the House for six years.

"I said before the vote, and I repeat now, that whatever the outcome it would be but a family matter and that afterward we would be united in our efforts," Mr. Snell said, which was not so startling a statement as to give an illuminating picture of the new Republican nominee for the post made vacant by the death of Nicholas Longworth.

Mr. Snell is a man of medium stature and heavy set. He was born in Colton, which is in St. Lawrence County, N. Y., on December 9, 1870, a date which is interesting because it is likely he will assume the formal leadership of his political party in the House on the eve of his sixty-first birthday anniversary. He has a ruddy complexion and white hair, which he keeps close cut.

Prefers Silence on Wealth.

His jaw is not prognathous, his shoulders are not squared and his carriage is not tilted forward as though he were a strong man breasting a cunrent, but rather he is erect, though settled, as might become a calm rock in the midst of a stream. Not that Mr. Snell is so phlegmatic as to resemble a rock.

"Whatever I've got," he says, leaning earnestly across his desk, "I've earned. I've done more menial work, I've done more hard labor than most of the members of this House ever will do."

"How wealthy are you?"

"Well, I've got enough to live comfortably and, perhaps, I could afford to devote my salary to keeping things going back in my home district—but I wish you wouldn't make mention of that. There isn't any question about whether I am rich, comfortably fixed, or poor. It is a question of the party and what it stands for and how we are to carry out a program which shall work for the best interests of the country."

Representative Snell was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth. His father was a foreman in a lumber camp in the Adirondacks. He died when Bertrand was 20 years old. There must have been a strong bond between father and son, because lumbering was the first thing to which the youth turned his hand when he was on his own, after finishing college.

He had seen lumbering operations from camp to newsprint. His first job was as a bookkeeper in a pulp mill where paper was made. His pay was $70 a month. Then he went out on his own in the tempestuous warfare of the lumber industry. He bought forest stands and logs which had been cut. He saw others cut and he rode the drive down the river in the spring freshets, and during the hectic days of the drives, the New York representative, who would consider such a thing a hardship now, slept in his clothes night after night.

It was out of his funds that he accumulated in the lumbering business that he purchased an interest in a dairy products concern.

He married when he was 33. He has two daughters, Mrs. Helen L. Cheel, who lives in Ridgeway, N. J., and Miss Sara Louise Snell, who is a sophomore in Vassar College. His home is in Pottsdam, N. Y. In Washington he resides at 2400 Sixteenth street northwest, where he has lived for 14 years.

He is liked because he is forthright. He won the respect of one man when he told him he would not support the measure urged and why. When those objections were ironed out he was as flatly in favor of it as he had been against it.

Representative Snell is popular with the newspaper reporters who attempt to tell of the doings of the House because he seemingly is always aware of the sentiment of the House membership and he is frank and not misleading.

Had Unhappy Appointment.

As chairman of the rules committee, Mr. Snell's lot was not altogether a happy one. To use a slang expression, he frequently had to "take the rap" for the President.

Thus it was when legislation was pending to liberalize the retirement law for the workers in the Federal Government. At each session, the Senate would pass a retirement bill and send it over to the House. It was evident that the House was just as enthusiastic about the bill as was the Senate.

President Coolidge, however, was violently opposed to the bill, and so told the House leaders, of which Snell was one. Such were the rules of the House and so huge was the Republican majority that a few leaders could effectively block any bill they chose to block.

The thankless task of blocking the bill was unloaded on Snell, for the reason that he was chairman of the rules committee and could refuse to issue a rule permitting consideration of the bill.

Ultimately, after President Hoover entered the White House, a retirement bill was enacted, and nobody was happier than Snell.

Table of G. O. P. Ballots In Speakership Battle

The following table shows how House Republicans voted yesterday in the contest for the Republican nomination for Speaker. There were seven ballots.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Britten, Illinois	11	3	1	—	—	—	—
Clague, Minnesota	9	8	1	—	—	—	—
Cooper, Ohio	10	9	—	—	—	—	—
Dowell, Iowa	9	9	9	2	—	—	—
Hoch, Kansas	8	8	12	11	14	13	11
LaGuardia, New York	1	4	4	3	4	4	2

Tilson, Connecticut	59	64	65	69	67	66	64

When Snell polled 96 votes on the seventh ballot, Tilson moved that his nomination be made unanimous.

chairman of the rules committee, joined Speaker Longworth and other members regarded as stalwarts and voted in favor of the bonus.

Rumors had been current that President Hoover was supporting Tilson for the Speakership nomination. It is understood, however, that the White House made it clear to Snell's friends that the President was maintaining a hands-off policy.

Tilson Led at First.

Just before the balloting started yesterday, both Tilson and Snell were confident of victory. At least they said they were. It became apparent at the outset, however, that quite a few of the men whom Tilson was counting on for support had deserted him.

True, on the first ballot, Tilson was in the lead, but the lead was not as great as he had expected it would be.

He received 59 votes. Snell was next with 55 votes. Then came 11 favorite son candidates with from 1 to 11 votes.

Barbour, of California, got 3 votes; Britten, Illinois, 11; Clague, Minnesota, 9; Cooper, Ohio, 10; Dowell, Iowa, 9; Hoch, Kansas, 8; Mapes, Michigan, 11; Purnell, Indiana, 5; LaGuardia, New York, 1; Schneider, Wisconsin, 3; Luce, Massachusetts, 1.

One Behind on Second Ballot.

On the second ballot Snell began closing the gap between himself and Tilson, moving up to where he was only one vote behind Tilson. Both men had picked up votes from the favorite son delegations, but Snell had picked up more than his rival.

The same thing happened on the third ballot when Snell took the lead, receiving 70 votes as against 65 for Tilson. From that time on the New Yorker continued to strengthen his lead.

When the seventh ballot was taken, Snell had 96 votes, 1 short of a majority of those voting. Tilson had only 64.

At this point Tilson arose and moved that the nomination of Snell be made unanimous.

While the Republicans were squabbling over the speakership, or, rather, the minority leadership, another harmony note was sounded in the Democratic ranks.

Representative Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, announced that because of the state of his health he would not be a candidate for floor leader. He was the third Southern candidate to announce his withdrawal. It would now seem a virtual certainty that a Northern Democrat will be the floor leader.

There are two avowed candidates remaining, Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, and John J. O'Connor, of New York. Rainey would appear to be an overwhelming favorite in the race between the two.

New Jersey Vote Today.

Today a special election will be held in New Jersey to fill one of the two remaining vacancies in the House, that caused by the death of Representative Carl Ackerman, a Republican.

The Democrats are confident that their candidate, Percy Stewart, will win, thus increasing the Democratic plurality in the House to four.

The remaining vacancy, that caused by the death of Representative Fletcher Hale (Republican), of New Hampshire, will not be filled until January 5, nearly a month after Congress convenes.

Both Senate Sides Will Meet Friday

Republican Independents May Hold Program Conference Today.

(Associated Press.)

Senate Democrats and Republicans will talk about the same things next Friday—organization and party policy in the coming session.

The Senate Republican Independents, under the leadership of Senators Borah and Norris, are also planning a conference on ways and means this week, possibly today.

Almost in control of the Senate, Democratic leaders have been in frequent consultation on a legislative program. It is their general view that no definite stand should be taken pending announcement of the administration's program expected in President Hoover's annual message to Congress.

As for organization, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, is due to continue as floor leader, with Senator Walsh, of Montana, as assistant. Senator Pittman, of Nevada, is to be the party choice for President pro tem.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, called his party conference. He is in line again for leader, with Senator McNary, of Oregon, as assistant.

New York Budget Adopted.

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The board of aldermen, by a strictly party vote of 61 to 3, today adopted the record city budget of $631,000,000.

WET LIKELY TO WIN NEW JERSEY VOTE

Both Parties' House Candidates Favor Dry Change as Election Opens.

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The "wet" bloc in Congress will receive a new recruit from New Jersey tomorrow unless the voters in the Fifth Congressional District forsake party lines entirely. Both the Republican and Democratic candidates for the House seat left vacant by the death of Representative Ernest R. Ackerman, a dry Republican, have declared themselves for modification of the Volstead act to permit manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

Democratic State leaders, including Gov.-elect A. Harry Moore, who have taken an active part in the campaign of their party's candidate, Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield, predicted tonight he would win on a program asking repudiation of the national administration. Moore, campaigning for governor on a similar platform, ran up a plurality of about 11,000 votes in the Fifth District in the State election early this month.

Donald H. McLean, of Elizabeth, was just as confident the normally Republican district would sweep him into office. He has indorsed the policies of President Hoover and promised to uphold the administration.

A challenge to the major party's hopes was issued by Alexis L. Clark, prohibitionist, who asserted the dry voters of the district would vote for him with such unanimity the hopes of the wets would receive a setback. Harry F. Kopp, a Socialist, and Morris Laudec, Communist, also are on the ticket.

McLean won the Republican nomination two weeks ago against a field of three opponents. Stewart was unopposed in the primary. Although the special election will have an important bearing on the alignment of the congressional session opening December 7, a light vote was expected to be cast. The Democrats now have 218 seats in the House of Representatives to 214 for the Republicans with one Farmer-Labor and two vacancies, including the New Jersey Fifth.

Tumulty Not Seeking Morrow's Senate Seat

(United Press.)

Joseph P. Tumulty, White House secretary to Woodrow Wilson, expressed surprise last night at reports from New Jersey mentioning him as a possible candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination there. "Frankly the so-called Tumulty senatorial boom is news to me," Mr. Tumulty said. "Certainly I have never directly nor indirectly encouraged it."

Gov. Larson is expected shortly to appoint a successor to Morrow, who will serve until the next election, when the seat will be filled for the remainder of Morrow's term.

Mrs. Sabin said Tilson, Keller, William E. Hull, Rainey, Dallinger, Treadway and Bohn, were "considered wet."

Victory in Recount Claimed by Heflin

Asserts Senate Will Find Bankhead's Election Was Fraudulent.

(Associated Press.)

J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, who is contesting his defeat for reelection to the Senate by John H. Bankhead, issued a statement yesterday under the heading of "Senator Heflin said" claiming he would be given the disputed seat by the Senate.

"When the task is completed of separating the wheat from the chaff, the legal from the illegal, the spurious from the genuine, I will have a majority of the legal ballots and the result will sustain my charges that the election was fraudulent," he said.

The Senate's elections subcommittee considering the Heflin-Bankhead contest will meet here later this week to prepare a report.

W. B. & A. DECLARED TO BE MISMANAGED

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 30.—Charges that the Consolidated Gas & Electric Co. mismanaged the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Railway were made today by counsel for some of the railway's security holders at an informal hearing before Judge William C. Coleman in United States District Court.

The hearing was on a petition of the gas company that the property of the Annapolis & Chesapeake Bay Power Co., a subsidiary of the railway, be sold at auction to satisfy creditors.

Both the railway company and the power company were placed in the hands of receivers last January, when George Weems Williams was named receiver for the W. B. & A., and Albert G. Towers for the power company.

In opposing the petition of sale, Edgar Allan Poe, attorney for stock and bond holders of the concern, pointed out that in 1927 the gas company purchased 54 per cent of the stock of the W. B. & A., which owned the entire stock of the power company.

After declaring that the president of the gas company was made president of the railway company, Mr. Poe asserted that the affairs of the latter corporation had been mismanaged.

He also declared that the gas company had lent $1,700,000 to the Annapolis & Chesapeake Bay Power Co. on demand notes, knowing that the money could not be paid out of earnings.

This action, he declared, showed that the gas company intended and expected to gain control of the power company.

Charles Markell, attorney for the promptly. Request for appraisal had mismanaged the affairs of the W. B. & A., and asserted that he was perfectly willing that an appraisal be made, but asked that it be done promptly. Request for appraisal had been granted.

Grimes Quits Post In Revenue Bureau

Federal Attorney Plans to Enter Private Law Practice Here.

Announcement was made yesterday of the resignation of Warren W. Grimes, an attorney in the general counsel's office of the Internal Revenue Bureau, to enter private law practice. Mr. Grimes, who is well known in legal, fraternal and musical circles, will join the firm of Hardy & McCawley, with offices in the Investment Building.

Entering Government service as a messenger boy more than 25 years ago, Mr. Grimes has steadily risen in the Government service. He was formerly a special assistant to the Attorney General.

During the war, Mr. Grimes was identified with Government intelligence operations and was decorated as a chevalier by the late King Ferdinand of Roumania. He is connected with a number of Masonic organizations here and is prominent in choral work at St. Alban's Cathedral.

Dog Team Will Aid Two Missionaries

Marooned Flying Brothers Must Stay in Mountains for Another Week.

McGrath, Alaska, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Another week will pass before a dog team, fighting through deep snow west of here, can rescue Brothers George Feltes and Martial Lapeyre, flying missionaries, marooned near Crystal Peak since November 22, when they made a forced landing in the mountains.

A plane, which might have brought the priests here in a few hours, has been flown to their snow-bound camp twice by Harry Blunt, but was unable to land. "Brother Feltes used excellent judgment and picked the only spot in the mountains where he could land without smashing up the plane," said Blunt.

Accompanied by Deputy United States Marshal Stanley J. Nichols, Blunt circled over the priests for the second time late Saturday, dropping a sack of food and a note saying a dog team left that day from Tacotna.

Methodist Missionaries Are Brought to Tientsin

(Associated Press.)

Frank P. Lockhart, American consul general at Tientsin, in a cablegram dated November 28, reported to the State Department that the remaining American members of the Methodist mission in the Chinese city had been brought into foreign concessions by Consul George Atcheson, jr., and three officers of the American Infantry contingent stationed at Tientsin.

Those brought to safety were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Coale, Denver, Colo.; Miss Myra A. Jacquet, St. Paul, Minn.; Miss Mary E. Bedell, Seattle, Wash.; Miss Zella Prentice and Miss Maggie May Prentice, both of Wray, Colo., and a Miss Baronn, of whom the State Department has no record of address.

MARINE CORPS' HEAD ASSAILS FAVORITISM

(Associated Press.)

Resentment of Marine Corps officers against discrimination in favor of naval officers in the question of relative rank was expressed yesterday by Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the corps.

After elaborating in his annual report on the "Devil Dogs" during the past fiscal year, Gen. Fuller added:

"The officers of the Marine Corps feel very deeply the discrimination against them in their relative rank with the officers of corresponding rank of service in the Navy, and a prompt adjustment of this condition is most urgently needed."

It was less than a week ago that Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler charged in a magazine article that the partiality shown by "swivel-chair admirals" in Washington to Naval Academy graduates had prevented his appointment as commandant and prompted his retirement from the corps.

For economy, said Gen. Fuller, enlistments were curtailed, with a net loss of 586 men for the fiscal year, cutting the corps to 17,579 men. Since the end of the fiscal year further reductions to 16,008 have occurred.

Praises Service Warmly.

The commandant praised the work of the marines serving at home, on ships and in foreign countries. The foreign service, particularly in Nicaragua, was commended, and tribute was paid the marines who, during the Managua earthquake last March, "worn out and exhausted as they were by this strenuous duty * * * performed excellent and commendable work by turning to tasks at hand, wholeheartedly in a magnificent showing in fortitude, cooperation and initiative."

Eleven officers and enlisted men were killed and four died of wounds received in action in Nicaragua during the year. Complete withdrawal of Marines from that country in 1932 has been decided upon by the United States.

In China and in Haiti the Marines also are serving.

The Fourth Brigade of 63 officers and 1,145 men is at Shanghai as a continued measure of protection of American lives and interests against the hazards incident to the disturbed political conditions and the resultant strife still existing in that unfortunate country."

Ready for Any Situation.

Likewise in Haiti the First Brigade, with 39 officers and 635 enlisted men, exclusive of 118 serving with the local guards, was reported maintained "in a state of preparedness to meet any situation likely to arise."

Gen. Fuller reiterated the need for a thoroughly trained and efficient reserve force as the "initial step toward preparedness in the event of a major national emergency. For this, he said, peace-time strength of the Marine Corps is inadequate."

The work of planes in Nicaragua, and the relief work during the Nicaraguan earthquake and Santo Domingo hurricane was cited as proving aviation "an indespensible arm to an expeditionary force."

English Pound Declines To Low Level for Year

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The British pound sterling today fell 12 cents to $3.40 for cables, a new low for the year.

It was the heaviest fall in this currency since the initial break when England suspended the gold standard in September. With the exception of Scandinavian moneys, other European currencies displayed quiet strength.

One of Wealthiest Of Texans Is Dead

Daniel Sullivan, Banker Was Father of Wife of Maj. Gen. Clem.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Daniel Sullivan, sr., San Antonio banker and one of the wealthiest men in Texas, died at his home here today. He was a native of Ireland.

His fortune, reputedly exceeding $100,000,000, grew from the small private bank he established here more than 50 years ago. He was a veteran of the Confederate Army. Surviving are three children in San Antonio and a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Clem, of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Clem, who lives at 1870 Wyoming avenue northwest, left last night for Texas immediately upon receiving word of her father's death. She is the wife of Maj. Gen. John L. Clem, U. S. A.

Why people like to be "guests"

"Our 'guest meals'—the menus on which our patrons can have a second helping of any dish—or even a third, if they want it—have been a tremendous success," a vice president of Childs told us. "But I think you could say there are three main reasons behind the popularity of Childs. First, the food is cooked in small quantities—no standardized taste. Second, having the kind of service that makes people like to eat in our restaurants. Third, a really high standard of purity in food and everything else. That's where American Ice comes in—your filtering, the water four times before freezing naturally appeals to us."

POLICE PROMOTIONS AND CHANGES MADE

Third Precinct Is Affected Most by Long Awaited Transfer Series.

The long predicted series of promotions and transfers in the Police Department become effective at 8 o'clock this morning under an order issued yesterday by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford.

Farewell and welcome ceremonies were held at the Third Precinct yesterday when members of that command welcomed Capt. Edward J. Kelly as their new superior officer and said good-by to Inspector James F. Beckett, their former captain, and Lieut. Frank Varney, who have been transferred to headquarters. Sergt. Emil Desch was promoted to a lieutenancy.

Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, in addition to his duties in charge of the bureau of personnel, statistics and information, was designated executive officer.

Inspector T. R. Bean was relieved of his assignment in charge of the special investigation squad and transferred from administrative headquarters to command of the First District.

Capt. Beckett was transferred from the Third Precinct to administrative headquarters for such duties as are assigned him.

Lieut. B. W. Thompson was transferred from administrative headquarters as liaison and complaint officer to the detective bureau as assistant to the chief of detectives, with the rank and pay of captain while so assigned.

Sergt. T. T. Heffernan was transferred from the Seventh to the Third Precinct.

Private J. M. Larkins was promoted to the grade of sergeant and transferred from the Eleventh to the Seventh Precinct.

Navy Will Continue Private Band Jobs

Judge Advocate General Calls Issue Raised by Union Settled.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy Department indicated yesterday its bands would continue to perform as usual despite the complaint of the American Federation of Musicians against the participation of service bands in private entertainments.

President Joseph N. Weber again called to the Navy's attention Sunday the federation's belief that the law prohibited the 56 service bands from playing at private functions or the Washington Navy Band going on paid tours.

The Navy replied that the contention was an old one previously settled. The judge advocate general said his interpretation of the law was the same as that of his predecessors who permitted the activities to which Weber objected.

RESERVE BANKS OPPOSE PLAN TO EASE DISCOUNT PROVISION

raised during speculative periods. They were Atlanta and Boston.

The first question in the subcommittee's list of fourteen queries was: "State the changes, if any, that you would suggest be made (1) in the provisions of the Federal Reserve act relative to the type of paper eligible for rediscount, (2) in the rulings and regulations of the Federal Reserve Board relative to the interpretation of these provisions."

The replies, as set forth in a digest by the subcommittee:

With a few exceptions, the Federal Reserve Banks did not favor changing the provisions of the Federal Reserve act relative to paper eligible for discount or the rulings or the regulations of the Federal Reserve Board interpretative of these provisions.

Extensions Recommended.

The Chicago Federal Reserve Bank offered as a suggestion for temporary action in extreme emergencies that the maturity date on otherwise eligible paper be extended from 90 days to six months.

That the Federal Reserve Banks be permitted to make loans to member banks not exceeding 90 days on notes secured by bonds which are now acceptable by the Treasury Department as security for war loan deposits.

The Dallas bank suggested that landlords' obligations, such as loans to tenant farmers, be made eligible for rediscount, and that the statutory maturity limit on advances to member banks secured by notes, drafts, bills of exchange or bankers' acceptances eligible for discount and purchase be increased from 15 to 90 days.

The Philadelphia bank suggested that at times it might be advisable to advance funds to individual member banks in distress against any of their assets.

Emergency Steps Outlined.

The Richmond bank recommended that in a national emergency, the existence of which should be determined by the Federal Reserve Board, the reserve banks might be permitted to make advances, secured by high-grade bonds, to banks lacking eligible paper.

The other banks, the subcommittee pointed out, agreed generally there should be no changes in the regulations.

"No" was the answer from banks at Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Kansas City, Minneapolis, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, St. Louis and San Francisco to the question of whether acceptability requirements were raised to follow restrictive credit policies.

Atlanta replied they were raised "especially in periods when this bank was endeavoring to prevent the use of Federal Reserve credit in speculative channels." The Boston bank explained that in this connection the need for the requested credit was investigated carefully as well as the character of the bank.

Unanimous on One Point.

All expressed opposition to repealing reserve provisions permitting member banks to borrow on fifteen-day promissory notes secured by Government obligations as a means of preventing use of Federal Reserve credits for speculative or investment purposes.

Five indicated, however, it might tend toward reducing the amount of credit used for speculation and investment. They were Cleveland, Dallas, Kansas City, New York and San Francisco. Among the reasons given in opposition to repeal were: Convenience to member banks; strengthening the market for Government securities; banks in communities where there is a dearth of eligible paper would be embarrassed or discriminated against.

The banks reported "moral suasions" in use of credit had been used to a varying degree by each. The effects were good in the following districts: Atlanta, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Kansas City and St. Louis. New York, Richmond and Boston banks replied rate control was preferable. The St. Louis bank said rate control was not practicable in that district, because of varying legal contract rates.

Commissioner Is Upheld In Denying Patent Plea

The failure of William D. Shoemaker to file properly with the Commissioner of Patents a petition for a patent, justified the Commissioner in refusing to consider the application, the Court of Appeals decided yesterday.

The case had been taken to the Court of Appeals on the ground that those who, for some reason, have a patent rejected, may apply to the Court of Appeals for a review. The court found that the patent was not rejected, but that the application for one was, on the basis of not being properly signed.

4-Year Term Given Closed Bank's Head

Uniontown, Pa., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Linford F. Ruth, 73, former president of the closed Title & Trust Co. of Western Pennsylvania, at Connellsville, today was sentenced to four years in the county jail and fined $5,000. He was convicted of misapplying $60,000 of the bank's money.

The State charged Ruth, who had been living in Washington, D. C., loaned money illegally to the Waynesburg Coal Co., of which he also is president. The aged banker was taken directly to jail from the courtroom and began serving his sentence.

Ruth was arrested here on February 2 after police traced his name in the telephone directory and went to his home at 1709 New Hampshire avenue northwest. He was turned over to Pennsylvania authorities and later released under a bond of $20,000.

INDIANS BEG LIBERTY BEFORE MACDONALD

Gandhi Makes Stirring Plea; Conference Passes Into History Today.

London (Tuesday), Dec. 1 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi emerged dramatically from his customary Monday of silence with the fervor of a crusader to launch into a stirring speech in behalf of Indian independence at the round-table conference early today.

India's foremost orators previously had joined in dramatic midnight appeals to Prime Minister MacDonald to ignore "diehards" and give India a federal constitution with responsibility at the center.

Sitting at St. James' Palace, where the final plenary sessions of the conference are being held, the assemblage resembled a great court trial with the prime minister acting as a judge and members of his cabinet sitting as the jury, while India's advocates pleaded for their country's liberty.

Throughout the day there had been a torrent of addresses lasting thirteen hours.

In the midst of the flood of oratory, the mahatma, in his lion cloth, sat mute and inscrutable until the end of his day of silence. Then he suddenly spoke:

"I would strain every nerve to secure an honorable settlement without exposing the millions of India's men, women and children to the terrible ordeal of civil disobedience," he said; "but if the fight has to be faced, I will renew it with joy."

The prime minister is expected to deliver his final speech outlining the government's maximum terms to India at noon today, when the second round-table conference will pass into history.

Daughter of Willys, Envoy, Seeks Divorce

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The former Virginia Clayton Willys, who was married in 1929 to Luis Mercelino de Aguirre, son of an Argentine cattle raiser, is seeking a divorce in Paris, her father, Ambassador John N. Willys, admitted today.

Ambassador Willys, on a furlough from the Warsaw Embassy, said, "I saw Virginia in Berlin and she said she was going to seek the divorce. It is true I was not very keen about her marriage. I didn't think it would last. But she was determined."

Walker Quiz to See Records of Morgan

Seabury Probers Seek to Learn Stock Holdings of New York Mayor.

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan & Co. has been subpenaed by the Hofstadter legislative committee, it was disclosed today, to produce certain records the committee hopes will throw light on the affairs of Mayor Walker and Russell T. Sherwood, described as the mayor's missing financial agent.

The subpena was served last week and is returnable this week.

Jacob Gould Schurman, jr., an associate of Samuel Seabury, committee counsel, said the order called for the stock records of a specified list of companies for which the Morgan firm acted as a transfer agent. The names of the companies were not made public.

Mr. Seabury was out of the city, but at his office it was said the committee's latest move was not "a shot in the dark," but was based on certain definite information recently unearthed.

Sherwood, whose whereabouts are unknown, has been directed to face the committee before December 15 and show cause why he should not be fined for contempt of court for refusing to answer a subpena served on him in Mexico while he was on his honeymoon.

If he does not appear his property, up to the value of $100,000, may be seized.

Tom Mix Is Recovering From Peritonitis Siege

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Physicians said tonight that Tom Mix, motion picture and circus star, is definitely on the road to recovery after lying near death for a week as a result of an attack of peritonitis.

Tonight's bulletin from Dr. R. Nichol Smith reported: "His condition is satisfactory, and it looks now he will be out of the hospital in a couple of weeks."

SPAIN IS DECLARED DOMINATING CHURCH

Montavon Says Separation Would Have Been Given Catholics' Approval.

Separation of church and state which would have been welcomed by Spanish Catholics has proved to be, in effect, domination, regulation and suppression of the church by the government without rewards, William F. Montavon, well-known attorney and member of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, told an audience at Catholic University last night.

Recently returned from the new Spanish republic, where he spent two months studying political developments of the country, Mr. Montavon stated that antichurch legislation in the adoption of the constitution was the result of the betrayal of Catholic desires and of the peculiar aspect of the political situation.

Because the overthrowing of the monarchy came, not as the result of efforts of a revolutionary faction, but was the inevitable end of progressive deterioration and decay, there were no organized political parties prepared to pick up the task of organization, he said.

25 Separate Factions.

In consequence an election resulted in more than 25 separate factions in the national legislature. To this incongruous and divided assembly went the task of framing a constitution.

Because of this state of affairs, Mr. Montavon said, the tract was not the effect of a majority's platform, but was a series of concessions and compromises, in which one relatively small group, the socialist radicals, has been able to obtain adoption of the articles which suppress the activity of the church.

Another reason for passage of these enactments was a jealousy of the religious orders by certain of the secular clergy, he said.

Constitutional Suppression.

According to the constitution, the Jesuit Order is to be suppressed, orders which have industrial purposes are to be suppressed, and education in religion outside the church forbidden.

The future of the Spanish republic depends, Mr. Montavon believes, upon the ability of the nation to organize politically on a country-wide basis, and not, as now, with small parties which with the exception of the Socialist and the Catholic groups are regional and sectional in nature and aims. He does not believe that former King Alfonso will ever return.

Jellicoe's Daughter Engaged.

London, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today by the engagement of Lady Myrtle Jellicoe, second daughter of Earl Jellicoe, admiral of the British fleet, to Lionel Balfour, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Balfour.

CANNON CASE OPENS WITH FIGHT ON LAW

(Associated Press.)

Bishop James Cannon, jr., came to court yesterday to hear a barrage of legal verbiage directed at an indictment charging him with Federal law violations during the 1928 presidential campaign.

The Southern Methodist churchman sat holding his crutch within the enclosure of the District of Columbia Supreme Court's Criminal Division. Nearby were his six attorneys, supporting his demurrer alleging the corrupt practices law is unconstitutional.

Two of his counsel spoke, and Assistant District Attorney John Wilson began the Government's reply. Argument will be concluded this afternoon, and Justice James Proctor will take the case under advisement.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, Va., treasurer of the bishop's anti-Smith Democrats committee and named with him in charges of willfully failing to report properly $65,300 of campaign contributions from Edwin C. Jameson, New York Republican, did not attend the hearing.

The clergyman listened closely while Robert H. McNeill, his chief counsel, contended that presidential electors are State officers, and, therefore not subject to Federal regulation. He smiled several times when Levi H. David argued that the indictment was defectively drawn and bad.

Mr. Wilson barely began his answer before the court adjourned. He will finish today, and then Harry W. Nice, former Republican gubernatorial candidate in Maryland, will close for the defendants.

The Southern Methodist churchman reached the courtroom 15 minutes before Justice Proctor, and conferred with his attorneys. He carried a single crutch and replied to an inquiry about his health: "Oh, I'm hopping along."

M'Adoo Shrugs Over '32 Chances of Democrats

Kansas City, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—William G. McAdoo shrugged his shoulders here last night over Democratic presidential possibilities and said it appeared that only wets had been mentioned for the nomination.

"It would take columns to say what I think about Democratic prospects," the former Secretary of the Treasury said. "It would take hours. the train leaves in a few minutes." Accompanied by Mrs. McAdoo, he is en route to New York on business.

BALANCED HEAT
• OIL HEATING •

WITH the fidelity of a well-balanced scale, the amount of heat supplied to your house under the McIlvaine method increases or decreases exactly as the temperature outside demands. Thus an even temperature is maintained indoors, hour after hour and day after day, all Winter long. Unlike all other heating systems, the McIlvaine method of oil heating maintains the entire heating plant throughout the house at a steady, even heat. This is done by means of a perfected heat regulator which insures exactly the right size of flame in a new type of burner that never quite goes out yet almost never is required to fire at full capacity. Almost imperceptibly, the McIlvaine flame is slightly increased or diminished by this automatic regulator and balanced heat is maintained, enabling you to live in the comfort zone all Winter long.

Free yourself from the hazard of FIRE or EXPLOSION which is possible with other types of oil or gas heating methods. Your property and family are too valuable to face this risk.

The savings run as high at 50%, and in some cases more, compared to most Oil or Gas burners—and a substantial saving to the users of hard coal.*

No Gas Pilot—No Electric Ignition
No Fire or Explosion Possible—Clean
Odorless — Smokeless — Graduated

DEBUCHI DESCRIBES JAPANESE RETREAT

Stimson Told Troops Are Being Moved Back to Treaty Zone.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Japanese Ambassador Debuchi called at the State Department yesterday to report to Secretary Stimson the general tendency of Japanese to recede into the treaty zone in Manchuria and to complete the explanations from the foreign office which have effectively resolved the tension between the United States and Japan. The recent incident which involved the American Secretary of State and the Japanese foreign office is "closed," according to the Japanese. Secretary Stimson maintained the most impenetrable silence about the Manchurian situation at his press conference, so it was presumed the incident was closed from the State Department viewpoint as well.

The visit of the Japanese Ambassador lasted for almost a half hour and enabled the Secretary and the ambassador to go over the details of the situation in Manchuria before the meeting of the league council today in Paris. The meeting today is believed to have a definite effect on the appointment of the commission of inquiry and upon the delimitation of a neutral zone for the pacification of both the Japanese and the Chinese.

Debuchi Sees "Silver Lining."

For the first time in many days the Japanese Ambassador declared he was able to see "the silver lining in the cloud." However, he was as blandly Oriental as ever when he added that clouds are sometimes variable and one never knows just what they are going to do next.

The Chinese charge d'affaires, Hawkling Yen, was also a visitor at the State Department yesterday, but it was explained his visit had nothing to do with the immediate Manchurian problem. He had come to discuss consular matters with the department.

The strategical withdrawal of the Japanese army under Gen. Honjo toward the treaty zone prescribed by international agreement lifted a weight of concern from Secretary Stimson. His dispatches from Paris revealed the importance attached by the league council and American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who observes the council's decisions from his suite at the Hotel Ritz, to a conciliating military move from Japanese headquarters, if the plenary meeting of the council today is to achieve any definite result.

Ambassador Dawes Informed.

He at once communicated to Ambassador Dawes the general tenor of Ambassador Debuchi's assurances with regard to Japanese recessions in Tsitsihar, Chinchow, Mukden and Tientsin. Ambassador Debuchi declared formally that Japan has no intention of taking Chinchow and that the troops which had been directing their maneuvers toward that objective, had been drawn back into Mukden. The total number of Japanese soldiers in the vicinity of Tsitsihar, which Gen. Honjo took from Gen. Mah with little loss of life last week, has now been cut to two battalions, less than 1,000 men. In "due course" this number will be still further reduced and even the troops on duty in the region will be allocated in the treaty zone of Japanese railway interest.

Since Sunday afternoon, Ambassador Debuchi declared, there had been quiet in Tientsin. The offending Chinese police who had used their arms to attack the Japanese concession had been drawn off to another part of the city. Secretary Stimson announced that American Consul George Atcheson, jr., had brought into the foreign concessions of Tientsin six American members of a Methodist mission which was carrying on its work in the native section of the Chinese city outside the protection of the allied forces.

Americans Given Refuge.

Capts. Brown and Barrett and Lieut. Royce, all of the Fifteenth United States Infantry, under Col. James D. Taylor, jr., accompanied the consul in his search for the Americans outside the protected foreign concession, and aided him in bringing them back under American protection.

When correspondents pressed Ambassador Debuchi for a statement on the recent savage criticism of Secretary Stimson by a Japanese foreign office spokesman, the ambassador declared that explanations had been given by every one concerned. The Japanese director of the news agency had given an explanation and the foreign office spokesman had given an explanation, and so there was nothing more about it. The offending Japanese foreign office spokesman was, however, still at his function, the ambassador declared, in response to a question.

The Japanese newspaper correspondent had cabled to his American correspondent here for the Stimson statement, and then, when he had realized his error, the Japanese newspaperman took full responsibility for the mistake and had informed the Japanese foreign office he was giving the fullest publicity to his explanation. As for the foreign office spokesman, he had made the critical statements regarding Secretary Stimson without the knowledge of Baron Shidehara, foreign minister, and the spokesman had immediately revoked his remarks when he had realized his mistake.

MAH PLANNING RECAPTURE OF TSITSIHAR, JAPAN HEARS

hands of the neutral observers on the spot.

The Tokyo government expected negotiations to clear away all difficulties hampering the establishment of the zone of neutrality.

At Peiping both Chinese and Japanese authorities denied agreement had been reached to stop hostilities, but said negotiations were under way.

Tientsin, China (Tuesday), Dec. 1 (A.P.).—A Japanese regiment arrived here today and was lined up on the English bund awaiting orders to enter the Japanese area.

Their equipment, which included machine guns and winter overshoes and gloves, indicated that the regiment did not expect to be garrisoned in the Japanese concession.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Mukden, Manchuria, Nov. 30.—Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, diminutive Chinese commander, whose army was turned into a fleeing rabble two weeks ago in the Anganchi-Tsitsihar battle, has reorganized his scattered forces and is advancing on Tsitsihar, Japanese headquarters heard today.

Information of Gen. Mah's movements, gathered by the Japanese intelligence service, was considered so menacing that reinforcements were dispatched to Tsitsihar.

The garrison at the walled city, reduced to a few battalions after the occupation had been effected, has been ordered to be in readiness to move at a moment's notice, it was learned from Japanese sources.

The strength of the reinforcements leaving here today was not announced, but the unit was described as "the main body of a brigade." Gen. Mah's army was said to be advancing from the direction of Hailun.

When the Chinese were defeated in the Anganchi-Tsitsihar area in the heaviest fighting of the Manchurian conflict, they fled to the northeast in the face of a driving blizzard. The battle that routed them was fought in subzero weather.

Since that operation the scene of activity has shifted to southwestern Manchuria, and troops were withdrawn from Tsitsihar by Japan in anticipation of a possible engagement at Chinchow.

An army of 10,000 started from Mukden for Chinchow last week, but was recalled midway. That army has almost completed its withdrawal from the Chinchow area, headquarters announced today, and the Chinese have advanced progressively as the evacuation took place.

China Accepts League Plan.

Nanking, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—China today accepted the proposal of the League of Nations that a neutral zone be established between Chinese and Japanese troops in Manchuria.

Word of this decision was dispatched to the Chinese commander at Chinchow, last stronghold of China in the province, and he was directed to inform foreign observers there, one of whom is Lieut. Col. Nelson E. Margetts, American Military Attache at Peiping.

The situation at Chinchow, the foreign office said, now is considered by China to be entirely in the hands of the neutral observers on the spot.

Japanese Officials Hopeful.

Tokyo, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Japanese officials declared today they expected negotiations to clear away all difficulties in connection with the proposal that a neutral zone be established between the forces of China and Japan in Manchuria.

The question of policing the area of neutrality—between Mukden and Shanhaikuan, at the Great Wall on the southern boundary of the province—seemed to be the chief difficulty.

In official quarters it was said this might be disposed of by an arrangement permitting troops to enter the zone whenever they were required to stamp out bandit activity. Such a plan already operates in the Kwantung territory, which is leased by Japan.

The stir caused by the misunderstanding of Secretary of State Stimson's remarks about the Manchurian question last week had died down today.

The newspaper Nichi Nichi, discussing the exchange of notes by Col. Stimson and Foreign Minister Shidehara, said the foreign minister's "alleged communication to the United States of a military order before it actually was issued is a question of serious importance."

It was said the House of Peers might attempt to investigate the conversations between Baron Shidehara and American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes. In government circles, however, the incident was not considered serious and it was understood the foreign minister had explained his actions to the cabinet and Minister of War Minami to their complete satisfaction.

RAILROAD HEAD DIES AT NEW YORK HOME

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Henry Walters, once described as the wealthiest man of the South, died at his New York home today at the age of 83.

He ranked with Harriman, Hill, Morgan and Schiff as a builder of railroads and was still active as chairman of the board of the Atlantic Coast Line and of the Louisville & Nashville road.

He had been ill only a few days when death came, at 4 a. m. His widow survives.

Mr. Walters was known outside the railroad world as a yachtsman and art collector. The yacht Harada belonged to him and he was a member of the syndicate organized to build the America's Cup defender.

He maintained three offices, in New York, Wilmington, N. C., and Baltimore, Md. The latter place was his regular residence.

Funeral Service in Baltimore.

Private funeral services will be held at the New York home at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and burial will be in Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore, in the afternoon.

Mr. Walter's father was one of the original organizers of the Atlantic Coast Line system and he began his own railroad career as an engineer for the Valley Railroad, in Virginia, after studying at Georgetown University, the Lawrence Scientific School and in Paris.

He was with the Valley road for only a brief period. He then became a member of the operating superintendent's staff on the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad.

Soon after going with the Atlantic Coast Line he became general manager and merged it with the Plant System of Florida. He further expanded the road by purchasing control of the Louisville & Nashville System.

Founded Famous Art Gallery.

He founded and stocked the Walters Art Gallery in the heart of Baltimore. The gallery contains the works of many old masters, including a self-portrait by Rafael and a supposed self-portrait of Michelangelo. On certain days he admitted the public for a fee which he donated to charity.

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—George B. Elliott, president of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, today announced all offices here would remain idle for one minute tomorrow when Henry Walters, who was chairman of the board of the railroad, is buried in Baltimore.

Today the general offices of the railroads, which has its headquarters here, were draped in mourning for Mr. Walters.

Mr. Walters frequently visited Atlee-on-the-Sound, a large estate on Wrightsville Sound, which has been opened the past several years by his widow so that the public might view the azalea gardens. The proceeds went to church benefits.

PROGRAM OF LEAGUE ACCEPTED BY CHINA

correct, this is a very important fact amounting to the first step toward evacuation," the Chinese statement said.

"This fact must evidently be confirmed by neutral observers. If this should prove true, China in these conditions will be ready to accept substantially as it is the council's resolution without specifying any definite date for the completion of evacuation.

"Naturally—and this is important—any new advance toward Chinchow or any similar aggressive operations would create a situation demanding a new examination of the whole arrangement."

This declaration aroused great hopes in league quarters that a pacific solution of the Far Eastern problem might soon be set in motion by agreement of all parties to the council's program.

The main feature of this program is an international commission of inquiry with wide powers to study the whole Sino-Japanese trouble. The United States already has approved the plan, and if the Japanese withdrawal is proved to the satisfaction of China it should be adopted promptly.

The next problem of the council is to cope with two points maintained by the Japanese throughout the series of secret discussions held today.

The Japanese insisted on the right to chase bandits wherever they might be found, and demanded that Chinese troops evacuate the proposed Chinchow neutral zone and take positions behind the Great Wall of China.

Both the Japanese and Chinese spokesmen argued exhaustively with the council's drafting committee, and subsequently the committeemen conferred with their colleagues on the council.

The drafting committee was authorized by the council to work all day tomorrow on the text of a new resolution, and hope was expressed that the final formula might be presented to the twelve members of the council (excluding the Chinese and Japanese) by Wednesday.

A Japanese official said late tonight the committee had accepted all Japan's suggestions with the exception of the one concerning Japan's right to take action against bandits.

Aristide Briand, council chairman, sent a note to the Japanese delegation in which he declared the proposal to send neutral observers to Manchuria did not constitute "imposition of third parties," to which Japan objects.

Although the Japanese government is represented by three ambassadors at the council's negotiations—Yoshizawa, of Paris; Matsudaira, of London, and Yoshida, of Rome—today's discussions were handled by Nobumi Ito, a little man about the size of a 12-year-old boy, who is the legal adviser of the Japanese league delegation.

GERMANY'S FINANCE CRISIS NEAR CLIMAX

Conferences to Be Held Soon at Berlin and Basel Will Determine Fate.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The German situation is gradually reaching its climax, and two conferences to be held in the near future will to a considerable extent determine the economic and political fate of Germany.

This view was expressed in an interview today by Dr. John T. Madden, dean of the school of commerce, accounts and finance, and Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of finance, at New York University.

They explained that at present Germany's total amount of short-term debts may be conservatively estimated at between $2,200,000,000 and $2,500,000,000. This substantially above the $1,900,000,000 estimate in the report of the Higgin committee.

In discussing the cleavage of opinion between France on the one hand, and Great Britain and the United States on the other, they said: "If the French are to have their way, Germany will beforced into bankruptcy which may lead to political upheavals which will not only weaken the status of the private creditors, but will also destroy Germany's capacity to pay reparations."

Dr. Madden and Dr. Nadler are well known in the financial world as director and assistant director, respectively, of the Institute of International Finance. They emphasized, however, that in discussing the German situation today, they were speaking strictly as individuals, and not as representatives of the institute. This institute was founded five years ago by the Investment Bankers Association of America.

Prominent New York bankers have been reluctant to issue any formal statements on the German situation, in advance of the discussions at Berlin and Basel, for which Albert H. Wiggin and Walter W. Stewart sailed on Saturday. In informal interviews, however, they take a somewhat optimistic view of the matter, pointing out that it now is in a bargaining stage, which may be expected eventually to develop into a more conciliatory attitude all around.

American short term private credits to Germany have been estimated as high as $600,000,000, but are now understood to have been somewhat reduced.

Waldecker Rites To Be Held Today

Services for Noted Captial Musician to Take Place at St. Paul's.

Funeral services will be held this morning at 9 o'clock in St. Paul's Church, Fifteenth and V streets northwest, for William Waldecker, 71 years old, Washington musician, who died Saturday at Georgetown Hospital following a brief illness. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Mr. Waldecker was a native of this city. He studied music at the German Conservatory of Music at Leipzig, and had been organist at St. Matthew's, St. Dominic's, St. Aloysius and St. Mary's Catholic Churches. He served with the latter for more than 25 years. He also at one time conducted the Sangerbund Choral Society.

Many outstanding Washington musicians are among Mr. Waldecker's pupils. Mr. Waldecker lived at 1415 Chapin street northwest. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Greenwell Waldecker, and a son, Louis Waldecker.

Mrs. Ruth Judd's Trial Postponed to Jan. 19

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Judge Howard C. Speakman in superior court today postponed Winnie Ruth Judd's trial to January 19.

It originally had been set for December 15, but Herman Lewkowitz, one of the attorneys for the confessed slayer of Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, asked for a later date on grounds the defense could not have its case prepared.

Col. Carroll's Rites Are This Afternoon

Bar Head Names Group of Members to Attend at Residence.

Funeral service for Col. John Haycock Carroll, prominent railway attorney who died Sunday at his home, 2029 Connecticut avenue northwest, following a long illness, will be this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late residence. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Following members of the District of Columbia Bar Association were named to attend the service by George P. Hoover, president: Charles H. Baker, John S. Barbour, Levi Cook, J. Harry Covington, George E. Hamilton, Frank J. Hogan, J. Miller Kenyon, John M. Littlepage, Thomas P. Littlepage, Frederic D. McKenney and A. Rea Williams.

Surviving Mr. Carroll are his wife, Mrs. Priscilla Woodrow Carroll, a son, John H. Carroll, jr., of Chicago, and a daughter, Mrs. Philip Lantz, Shields, Pa.

Ames' Death Is Blamed On Excessive Drinking

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Oedema of the brain and a slight disorder of the heart were given today by Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, city toxicologist, as the cause of the death last Friday of Robert Ames, stage and screen actor.

Dr. Gettler said oedema of the brain is the result of excessive drinking over a long period. When Ames was found dead in a hotel room there were several empty liquor bottles on a table.

35 Students Hurt in Bus Crash.

Dothan, Ala., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Thirty-five high school students were injured today in a head-on collision between a school bus and an automobile driven by Judge J. A. Carnley, of Enterprise, on a fog-covered highway near here.

$500,000 Fire in St. John's N. F.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Fire swept Water street in St. John's today, causing damage estimated at $500,000. Buildings destroyed included a number of stores and offices.

Actor in Films Defeats Attempted Extradition

Sacramento, Calif., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The Governor's office today refused to extradite Duncan Renaldo, Hollywood motion picture actor, to New York on charges of child abandonment sworn to by Suzette Renaldo, his divorced wife.

Renaldo, who played a prominent part in "Trader Horn," appeared at the Governor's office with counsel and evidence to show he contributed $2,750 during 1930 and 1931 for the support of his son, Renaldo, jr. This contradicted his wife's claim that he abandoned the child in New York City last July.

MAGRUDER, SLADEN, ELY LEAVE SERVICE

Rear Admiral and 2 Major Generals Retire With Long Records.

New Orleans, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Under the roar of guns and the lowering and hoisting of flags, Rear Admiral Thomas Pickett Magruder retired today from the long and meritorious career in the Navy.

The ceremony was held before the personnel of the naval station at Algiers. It marked the retirement of Rear Admiral Magruder as commanding officer there, and ushered in the administration of Rear Admiral H. H. Christy, his successor.

The two-starred flag of Magruder was lowered under the rear admiral's salute, and that of his successor was raised. Admiral Magruder, a veteran of 40 years service with the Navy, was placed on the retired list officially at 11 a. m. today.

Guest at Banquet.

Admiral Magruder was honored last night at a civic banquet tendered him on his sixty-fourth birthday by Mayor T. S. Walmsley and other city officials, consuls of the foreign governments, officers of the United States destroyer Claxton, stationed at Algiers, and business men. He said he would reside for a while at "a little town in Mississippi," with his friends.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore Md., Nov. 30.—Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, for three years commander of the Third Corps Area here, formally joined the retired list today, having reached the stated age limit of 64 years.

Gen. Sladen graduated from West Point in 1890 and served in various sections of the country and in the Philippines and China. He commanded the Fifth Brigade of the Third Division during the World War. He was once commandant of cadets at the United States Military Academy.

Succeded by Gen. Malone.

Gen. Salden retired from command of the Third Corps Area, pending his formal retirement from the Army, on August 3. He was succeeded by Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone. Gen. Sladen reached the retirement age on November 24, but the law provides for uniform retirement and he did not formally go on the list until today.

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Cannon firing a 13-inch gun salute, a regimental band playing "Auld Lang Syne," troops of his last command at present arms. Thus Maj. Gen Hanson E. Ely—"Ely of Cantigny"—was mustered out of the United States Army today.

A tall, soldierly figure, ruddy of face, white-haired, he rose from his desk at headquarters of the Second Corps Area, on Governors Island, at noon today, followed an escort of honor down the roadway to the ferry house and, after a farewell glance at the Manhattan skyline, veiled in mist and rain across the harbor, departed for Washington, where he is to make his home.

Age Retires Him.

Gen. Ely was 64 years old a week ago today and that automatically retired him. For 44 years and 5 months he was an officer in the United States Army, and his military career extended from skirmishing with the Indians on Western frontiers, into the Spanish-American War, out to the Philippines and into the trenches on the western battle-front in the World War.

He reached the high point in his career when he led the Twenty-eighth United States Infantry into the battle of Cantigny early in the summer of 1918. It was the first and one of the most famous American assaults. His men acquitted themselves with high honor, and thereafter he was known in Army circles as "Ely of Cantigny."

He retired today as commanding general of the Army's Second Corps Area. His last post before coming to Governors Island was as president of the Army War College in Washington.

Automobile of Diplomat Stoned.

Madrid, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—An automobile in which Octavio de Peppo, counsellor of the Italian Embassy, was riding, was stoned today by an anti-Fascist fanatic but the counsellor was not injured. His assailant was arrested and found to be armed.

Trucks and Motor Horns Tied as Noise Champions

Motor trucks and auto horns were tied as the leading sources of disturbing and annoying sound waves, it was shown by compilation of nearly 400 answers to The Post anti-noise questionnaire.

Both of these noises were mentioned 85 times in the replies received. Following closely, street cars proved to be disturbing to 72 persons.

Loud speakers, the neighbors', were not slighted as producers of annoying ethereal reverberations, as 69 answers mentioned them.

Several noise sources are of about equal importance, as approximately the same numbers of complaints were made about them. About 50 persons objected to noise which came from each of this group.

These equal causes of annoyance are buses, auto cutouts, screeching auto brakes, newsboys, ambulance sirens and fire sirens.

Too oft-repeated choruses of "Sweet Adeline," hilarious laughter and other manifestations of what are termed parties, brought complaints from 32 persons, while 31 answers blamed milkmen, with their clatter of bottles and the beat of steel-shod hoofs on the pavement, for disturbance.

Replies of 32 citizens stated that the roar of airplane motors was an annoyance. Last upon the list were seven persons who said that pneumatic drills disturbed them.

Answers to the last item of the questionnaire, which was "What one noise is most annoying" brought out several sources which were not mentioned in the printed list, but the traditional yowling cat upon the back fence and the recently discussed dawn song of the zoo's whooping cranes were ignored.

Not all the replies received listed the "most annoying noise," but trucks, street cars and radios were most frequently mentioned, each being listed by nearly 40 persons.

Auto horns, which were tied for the leadership of noise sources, dropped back, as only 27 persons mentioned them as the most annoying.

Barking dogs and children, neither listed upon the questionnaire, were each listed as "most" annoying by eighteen persons.

Other sources not listed on the questionnaire which were mentioned among the most annoying were bowling alleys, church chimes, telephone bells, automobiles running over loose manhole covers, railroad trains and musicians.

Many answers of the quiz sent letters which reflect the opinion of the citizen residents upon the question of unnecessary nerve-straining noise.

A woman who lives near Sixteenth and U streets northwest comments:

"Aside from the added difficulty for pedestrians; the worst result of the new left turn rule is the additional noise. After the installation of lights, the honking of horns decreased until the streets were comparatively free from that maddening noise—except in the case of swains calling for their ladies to come out—but now, alas, the honking is terrible * * * it is a strain on nerves and much of it is absolutely unnecessary."

Fire sirens are the topic of a downtown resident. He says:

"I have been living in Washington for three years, and have lived in other cities, and never in my experience have I seen the situation allowed here, where ambulance and fire sirens are permitted to dominate and destroy the peace and quiet of the citizens. Other cities use fine toned bells which are rung only when necessary."

A resident of a hotel near the Union Station suggests that traffic be routed away from hotel streets so that an unpleasant impression is not given to visitors to the city.

A visitor from New York City writes:

"Perhaps some sort of rubber tiring could be used to lessen the torture of street car noise, or some new method of building new cars, not so heavy as the present ones."

Too much noise from ambulance sirens can be avoided, a citizen who lives near Washington Circle states. He says, "Ambulance sirens can achieve all the practical clearance necessary if audible only two or three blocks instead of shrieking to be heard a mile in every direction."

More arrests from unnecessary honking of auto horns would decrease the downtown noises, one citizen writes.

In many replies the installation of traffic lights was blamed for an increase in disturbance to the sounding of horns.

There will be a round table discussion of "needless noises" at the Cosmos Club, under auspices of the Research Service, at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow evening.

COURT MAY WRITE DRY RAID MANUAL

What May Be Seized Is to Be Decided in Promised Review.

(Associated Press.)

A manual telling dry agents what they may seize as evidence during a raid, and how they may seize it may be written by the Supreme Court.

The questions are involved in a case which the Court promised yesterday to review.

Prohibition officers confiscated books and papers found in a room at 1547 Broadway, New York City, after a raid which resulted in the arrest of Daniel M. Lefkowicz and Pauline Paris.

The Second Circuit Court of Appeals ordered books and papers taken from desks and closets returned, describing the search as exploratory and illegal.

Solicitor General Thatcher said it was "very, very important" that the court determine whether such searches and seizures were lawful.

Not Illegal to Sell Hops.

In another prohibition case, the Court today refused to review the decision of the Missouri Supreme Court that it was not a violation of the law to sell hops, even though it was known they were to be used in the manufacture of home brew.

Danciger Bros., of Kansas City, Mo., had claimed to sell packages containing malt extract, hops and other home brew material. Warned by prohibition officials they might be prosecuted, they had a change of heart and tried to cancel contracts they had made to buy hops. A verdict of $9,000 and costs was returned against them in the suit which followed.

The court sustained another chain store tax in passing upon the license tax imposed by Virginia on distributing warehouses. The attack was made by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

It ruled invalid the Wisconsin statute requiring husbands to pay taxes on the combined incomes of themselves and their wives when they are living together.

Holmes Among Dissenters.

This case brought a dissenting opinion from Justice Holmes in which, as in so many previous cases, Justices Brandeis and Stone joined.

Albert A. Hoeper, of Marathon County, Wis., challenged the constitutionality of the law. He married a widow on October 22, 1927, she having an income which she continued to enjoy in her own right.

Justice Roberts in the majority opinion reviewed Wisconsin laws to show that the wife's title to income was separate from her husband's and that her property was subject to her own debts and not those of her husband.

Movie Studios to Slash Pay 20 to 30 Per Cent

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The first move in Hollywood's new economy program was taken today by the joint Warner Bros. and First National Studios when notification was given that salaries were to be cut 20 to 30 per cent.

Players under contract to the two producing companies, among the largest in Hollywood, were asked to take reductions and nonunion employes not under contract received notification that, effective this week, their pay would be cut.

ROCKET AIR FLIGHT OVER SEA FORECAST

When the highest point is reached and the descent starts, the wings unfold and come into regular position. The model then functions as an ordinary glider and, in the hands of an expert, can gain altitude and continue for many miles.

In the second model, called the "mail plane," the take-off is the same, but the plane can not glide after reaching its highest point: The wings open, and through an undisclosed method of tail control, it sinks to the ground something like a parachute. Thus the distance over which the mail is to be carried would be judged and the explosive measured to carry just far enough.

"The first task was to achieve a slow, even start," Tiling said. "After much experimentation I have been able to build a model which will carry a pilot without forcing him to undergo great strain at the take-off.

"The present model gives promise of being suitable for liquid explosives when such a system is perfected.

"My next goal is a practical demonstration of the models under various weather conditions. I am not going to try to attain my goal suddenly. I have gone ahead step by step, so that everything is on a scientific foundation. I will personally test the first model to carry men—but I'm not going to try to fly to the moon or anything of the sort."

Tiling is 35 years old. During the war he was an aviator and later took over direction of the flying school at Osnabrueck. Baron von Ledebur provided him with facilities for experimentation at Arenshorst Castle, where he has worked for several years.

Decision Reached On Parole of Fall

Belief Grows in Capital Former Cabinet Man Will Be Freed.

(United Press.)

Decision on the parole of Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, has been made by the Federal Parole Board, it was learned last night. Asked when the decision will be announced, parole authorities said "a public statement might be made in several days or two or three weeks may lapse."

This information coincided with the news that several members of the parole board, now sitting in Washington, will leave the city during the week.

Fall, now serving a sentence of a year and a day at the New Mexico State Penitentiary for conviction of accepting oil bribes, has been eligible for parole for ten days. Belief continues to grow in the Department of Justice and other Government departments that Fall's parole is virtually assured.

U. S. KEEPS CLOSE WATCH ON RESORTS

Woman Who Leased Roadhouse, Murder Scene, Sought by Police.

All resorts in nearby Maryland suspected of being disorderly houses are being watched by Department of Justice operatives, as the investigation of the Old Colonial Tea House shooting is continued by the Bureau of Investigation, Baltimore detectives and Prince Georges County police.

County officers were yesterday seeking a woman who was said to have leased the tea house less than a month ago, Chief Jeremiah Crowley said.

Justice agents are to question the wife of one of the men who was wounded in the affray, it was learned.

Philadelphians to Be Quizzed.

Cisberto Renzuli and Nicholas Trunco, who were arrested in Philadelphia following the shooting, were ordered released by Chief Crowley. However, it was said that the Department of Justice had placed detainers against them and would quiz them about white slave racketeering on the Eastern Seaboard. Neither was connected with the Bladensburg slaying, it was stated.

An attractive woman, who gave the name of Mrs. Helen Carey, rented the roadhouse about a month ago, Chief Crowley said. She was said to have told the real estate agent that her husband was a boxing instructor at the Naval Academy and that her two sons attended Maryland University. The story was checked by police and found to be false.

Roadhouse Was Watched.

The tea house was placed under surveillance a few days after it was rented, Chief Crowley stated. The guard, who watched it almost constantly, saw no signs of lawbreaking, the county police head asserted.

An automobile, which was parked on a vacant lot near Twentieth and Franklin street the night of the shooting and which bears bullet marks will be examined by Baltimore detectives who will also question a man and a woman arrested near the Baltimore waterfront on charges of violating the Mann act. The two are said to have admitted connection with disorderly resorts in the Maryland city.

MR. CURTIS DECIDES.

The announcement by The Post last week that Vice President Curtis had decided to accept renomination for the Vice Presidency if it should be tendered to him was verified by Mr. Curtis yesterday in a formal statement announcing that he would not be a candidate for senator from Kansas, and that if tendered renomination for his present office he would accept. His decision means that the Republican party will present the same candidates who won the victory of 1928. The difficulties and possible embarrassments of a contest over the second place on the ticket are removed by Mr. Curtis' decision.

The Vice President is a stalwart party leader with far-reaching influence, especially in the agricultural regions of the Middle West. His decision to stand by President Hoover in the 1932 fight will solidify the strength of the Republican party. Prospects of a factional fight in the national convention have been eliminated. The party can unite all of its strength behind the record of the present administration in wrestling with one of the most difficult situations that have ever confronted the Government.

Mr. Curtis recently completed a survey of conditions in all sections of the country. He is convinced that the Republican party will win the 1932 election. Otherwise he would have asked Kansas to send him back to the Senate. The Vice President is an astute political observer with many years of experience. He has surveyed the political situation as carefully as a physician would diagnose a disease. When he chooses to cast his lot with the administration, to stand with the President and the Republican leaders in Congress on the party's record during the last three years, it is the strongest possible indication that the Republican leaders are certain of success.

The prospects for harmony within the Republican party during the 1932 campaign are in striking contrast to the apparent schisms in the Democratic ranks with respect to both candidates and issues. The Republican party has now cleared the hurdle of candidates, and the questions to be covered by the platform may be fairly forecast by studying the acts and attitudes of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis. The Democratic party, on the contrary, has not the remotest idea of the identity of its candidates, or how the platform must be shaped to fit them, or they are compelled to shape their views to fit the platform. There are elements of explosive violence in this situation, intensified by the iron compression of the two-thirds rule.

AMERICANS SWINDLED.

It is little wonder that German bonds are low, with prospects of becoming worthless. American investors were repeatedly warned not to buy German "securities," both before and after the Young Plan was floated, but international bankers pressed them upon the public and vouched for their soundness.

Over $2,500,000,000 has been lent by Americans to Germans and German institutions. Germany has not only borrowed all the sums which she paid for reparations, amounting to $2,375,000,000, but in addition has borrowed from other countries $3,750,000,000.

Germany now blandly announces that she can not pay even the reparations bill, which amounts to $420,000,000 annually. The stupendous debt owed to private investors all over the world, including hundreds of thousands of American suckers, must wait until reparations have been paid, according to Premier Laval, of France. He gives notice that France will not reduce German reparations unless the United States makes a corresponding reduction of the debt owed by France.

When pressed for information as to whether President Hoover had actually promised to bring about a reduction of France's debt, if German reparations were reduced, M. Laval was reticent, intimating that he could not divulge what had been agreed upon in Washington without embarrassing Mr. Hoover in his plans to obtain ratification by Congress of his intergovernmental payment holiday.

Frantic efforts are now being made by British and American bankers to induce France to reduce German reparations as a prelude to the reduction by America of the war debts. This would ease up on Germany, whereupon the chances of obtaining part payment of the private debts would be improved. In other words, American taxpayers are to be asked to assume a burden of $11,000,000,000 in order that American and British holders of German bonds shall recover some of their money.

The American bankers who palmed off these bonds have already collected their commissions, amounting to more than $10,000,000. But they are anxious to bring about debt cancellation, because they could then claim that Germany's credit had been restored and that fresh German bonds would be a highly desirable investment for fresh American suckers.

Stanley Baldwin, speaking for British victims, has declared that private claims against Germany should have precedence over reparations claims. Imagine Premier Laval accepting this arrangement!

Germany's enormous borrowings from foreigners have been sunk in industrial enterprises and extravagant municipal and social improvements which yield no return. Germany claims to be bankrupt, and on paper she can prove it. Actually, Germany can pay reparations, and possibly she might make small payments on the private debts owed abroad, but she does not intend to do so. Not a dollar of German money has ever gone to France as war tribute. Every dollar paid in reparations has been borrowed from other foreigners, including Americans. The world can not be convinced that Germany is in such dire straits that it can not scratch up a single dollar with which to pay debts.

Those who have lent money to Germany have been swindled. Now it is proposed to perpetrate a swindle upon American taxpayers by compelling them to pay a part of Germany's debt.

MR. SNELL AS LEADER.

After a spirited contest the Republicans of the House have voted to support Bertrand H. Snell for the Speakership. Upon his expected defeat by Representative Garner Mr. Snell probably will become minority floor leader.

John Q. Tilson, Republican floor leader for six years, is retired from that place. He is left without important committee assignments, and unless his party colleagues make way for him he will suffer grievously from yesterday's actions. He would have been nearly at the head of the ways and means committee at this time if he had not surrendered his place in order to serve as floor leader. His party should see that he does not suffer because of Mr. Snell's victory.

Mr. Snell may become Speaker, but the chances of such an outcome in the forthcoming election are very slight. His qualifications for the Speakership or for floor leader are unquestioned. Under him the Republican minority will have the benefit of keen foresight, parliamentary skill and courageous leadership. Yesterday's result proves, of course, that he enjoys the confidence of his party colleagues. Thus, except for the personal losses suffered by Mr. Tilson, the action of the Republican conference ought to be satisfactory to all concerned.

No doubt Mr. Tilson's friends are deeply disappointed, but they are loyal to their party as well as to their friendships. Therefore, it may be expected that House Republicans as a whole, including Mr. Tilson himself, will stand solidly behind their leader.

CANADA'S RAILROAD FAILS.

Present difficulties confronting American railroads make it of interest to consider similar troubles afflicting the Canadian transportation system. The two great organizations in the Dominion offer an exceptional opportunity to compare the advantages and disadvantages of government ownership and operation, since the Canadian National, nearly 24,000 miles long, is owned by the government, and the Canadian Pacific, over 17,000 miles in length, is one of the large private railroad corporations of the world. They are both in much the same plight as the American lines. Expansion and improvements made during a series of prosperous years have been hard to carry during the last two lean years.

The two Canadian systems indulged in expensive competition, building parallel lines and duplicating service. When it came to making retrenchments the advantage of private ownership was evident. The Canadian Pacific, by drawing upon reserves, was able to maintain its 10 per cent dividend last year, though this year it has been cut in half. The government-operated Canadian National, hampered by political opposition to reductions in either personnel or service, has seen its net earnings fall from more than $50,000,000 to about $2,000,000, or an income barely more than sufficient to pay fixed charges, with no interest whatever for more than $1,000,000,000 invested by the government and held by the Canadian people as railroad securities.

Competition between the government lines and the private system, which was looked upon as an ideal arrangement during the years when business was plentiful and before trucks, buses and automobiles cut so seriously into both freight and passenger traffic, has not been able to stand the test of a heavy reduction in business. The two systems have been forced to make some working agreements to reduce expense, but these have not been sufficient to solve their many pressing problems. A government commission has been appointed to investigate the entire transportation question in Canada.

The government investigators will take up not only the difficulties of the railways, but will study waterway and highway transportation in an attempt to harmonize these various interests. It is believed that nothing short of consolidation of the two great railways can accomplish the economies that are necessary. A merger under one management that could eliminate duplications and overhead expenses could effect an estimated saving of $100,000,000 a year.

About the only thing the United States can learn from Canada's railroad difficulties is that even such well-conducted government lines as those of the National system can not compare in efficiency and economy of operation with privately-owned roads.

A NEW ECONOMIC LEVEL.

A changing attitude toward the depression is slowly taking shape. Immediately after the stock market crash two years ago the people could not realize that a major economic derangement had set in. Consequently every effort was made to stem the tide of deflation and to restore conditions to the "prosperity" level. The effect of those endeavors has been to delay but not to prevent the inevitable deflation. Widespread suffering and violent upheavals have been avoided because the measures taken to prevent deflation have result in gradual readjustments.

Economists are agreed, however, that deflation is essential before an equilibrium can again be established. A survey by the Guaranty Trust Co. resulted in the following conclusion:

> We are passing through a relatively peaceful economic revolution from the years of post-war inflation to a new era of deflation. Before any substantial recovery can be obtained, this process of deflation must be completed. Only as we push the necessary readjustments along the sound lines of demonstrated economic law and experience can we expect progress in the future.

No one can be blamed for failing to see two years ago, or even last year, that a far-reaching economic revolution was under way. There is no excuse, however, for failure to recognize that fact now. Industry must find a new level from which it can build for the future. Prices and wages must be stabilized in accordance with the new order of things and without much reference to the standards of 1929. The time has come, says the Guaranty Trust survey, to recognize the fact that the dollar of 1931 is not the same monetary unit as the dollar of 1929, and that policies based on the assumption that the 1929 levels could be maintained are no longer tenable.

This does not mean that prospertiy has vanished for an indefinite period. Prosperity is a relative term. It denotes comfortable living circumstances, not inflated prices and high wages. Any sound adjustment that may be made will involve a more equitable distribution of the fruits of industry among wage earners, but it is unimportant whether that adjustment is worked out on the present monetary value of wages or on an entirely new level.

The present need is for the establishment of a new balance. Some industries doubtless have achieved that end. Others are in the transitory period. The country has had a taste of inflation and found it bitter. What the people are looking for now is not enormous profits, inflated prices or wages, but elemental economic soundness.

JAPAN'S CABINET SYSTEM

By RODNEY GILBERT,
In the New York Herald Tribune.

The amount of domestic negotiating that has to go on in Japan before Premier Wakatsuki and what is presumed to be his government can pledge Gen. Honjo and his subordinates in Manchuria to any particular line of conduct is a source of much puzzlement and confusion in the Occident, because the peculiar disabilities of a Japanese Cabinet are little understood outside of Japan. The first of these disabilities is that technically the Cabinet does not exist. It is in no way provided for in the constitution of 1889, and is not even mentioned in that document.

Through the gradual building up of precedent and convention the Japanese government has come to assume much the appearance of the British. It appears that from the strongest party in the Diet, or supreme legislative body, the emperor calls upon a recognized leader to form a government, and that that government is then responsible to the Diet and the country, enjoying full administrative authority over all the departments of government. Although Japanese Cabinets have for some years been chosen and have functioned in this way in the discharge of all normal business, the premier's and Baron Shidehara's recent difficulties with the military are a reminder that the Cabinet's acquired powers are extra-constitutional and that they may be completely ignored in an emergency.

The Japanese constitution devotes one brief clause to "ministers of state," in which a minister is defined as a responsible adviser to the emperor, whose seal must appear upon all laws, imperial rescripts and the like before they are promulgated. Until 1898 there was no such thing as a party Cabinet in Japan. Premiers and Cabinet ministers were chosen without reference to the political make-up of the Diet, but to suit the tastes of such superior bureaucratic institutions as the privy council, the college of marshals and admirals and the genro, or body of recognized "elder statesmen." Each Cabinet member was simply an executive secretary to the emperor, responsible to nothing lower than the privy council for the policy he pursued in his department. His agreement with his colleagues was not important if he was confident of his authority from above, and the premier was simply a presiding officer over the ministers in conclave and could dictate no course to them that they did not care to accept nor pledge them to any policy without their consent, unless he was in a position for the moment to quote imperial authority.

An effort to build up a Cabinet system in emulation of the British began in 1898, when a grudging bureaucracy was prevailed upon to have a few leaders from the dominant party in the Diet appointed to ministerial posts. But for twenty years more the bureaucrats retained control over appointments, sometimes admitting Diet members to the Cabinet, sometimes ignoring the party system altogether. It was only when Hara accepted the premiership in 1918 and chose the majority of his ministers from his party colleagues that the campaigners for a Cabinet system thought they had added an unwritten clause to the constitution binding the emperor and the privy council to recognize the responsible party Cabinet system.

The Vice President will accept a renomination. Come on now, Al, what do you really think about Franklin D.'s candidacy?

It is plain from Secretary Adams' report that he favors economy, but he just wants more money for the Navy.

The shoe trade is prosperous. Why not? It's smart; it changed styles to two-inch slippers and sells them for more than the old ten-inch shoes.

Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Canton rebel government, complains because Nanking does not more actively oppose the Japanese army in Manchuria. And how Canton helps!

The Occidental mind couldn't understand all the Chino-Jappo complications in the Manchurian situation even if the proceedings were all conducted in English.

There's good in everything. Among depression benefits it must be listed that 28 Americans were relieved last year of the burden of caring for incomes in excess of $5,000,000 per year.

Japan also has some Hirama Johnsonikas who want to see all the secret diplomatic notes.

The Business Economic Digest puts Washington at the head of cities offering major sales opportunity. And there are lots of captains and lieutenants here, too.

Senator Fess in a Sunday lecture said that his position as chairman of the Republican National committee "is more embarrassing than you might think." The senator belittles our powers of imagination.

A visitor complains that the new British slogan, "Buy British," is as ungrammatical as a local street car sign which urges passengers to "Mount Pleasant."

A noted writer cites England's improving trade, due to a depreciated pound, and in the same column advocates improving the value of China's silver to accomplish the same thing. But beware, he might quote Emerson to the effect that "a foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds."

We don't often question Commerce Department figures, yet there must be some mistake in the statement that there are only 12,078,345 radio sets in this country.

Don't be misled by talk about China buying imports with silver; China, on the contrary, uses a large percentage of her exports to buy silver.

BEAUTY.

The love of beauty once possessed
Outlives the sordid dust and grime,
And holds its dwelling in the breast
Against the ravages of time.

And this is why a woman wan
And grayed and beaten by defeat,
From day to day will struggle on
To keep an ugly dwelling neat.

Day after weary day will see
Her battling with the dirt and dust,
Fighting the filth of poverty
Because her nobler nature must.

So fond of beauty humans are
That often in a squalid room
A woman fills with stones a jar
And brings a lily bulb to bloom.

Will You Lend Him More Money to Make a Crop if He Spent the Last for a Car?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

SOME years ago a man named Fritz, who had delusions of grandeur, got drunk and ran amuck on the premises of his neighbors. He broke and destroyed everything he could reach.

When he was sober again, having been overpowered and lodged in jail, he promised his neighbors to pay for the damage done. The money he possessed wasn't sufficient, but he gave notes for the full amount—many notes, to be paid one after another on the first day of each month.

The neighbors were satisfied. But the thought of paying so many notes irritated Fritz and he thought of a little scheme. He began to sign more notes, hundreds of them, and deliver them to his family and relatives. Soon these bits of paper filled the neighborhood and the neighbors said: "Fritz never can pay these things. They are worthless."

That was what Fritz wanted. He didn't go bankrupt. But he made his signature worthless and frightened the neighbors who held his first notes.

Then he said to them: "You see the shape I'm in. I can never pay out. Reduce the amount of my debt and I'll give you new notes that I can pay."

The neighbors agreed. After all Fritz was a hard worker and seemed honest. He would pay.

Pay he did, month after month, but this is the way he did it. His credit was good again and he began to borrow from his neighbors. He borrowed enormous sums. And after using the borrowed money to pay the notes as they fell due, he had enough left to improve and modernize his farm until it became the finest place in all that region.

Then he said to his neighbors: "I can pay no more. My boys threaten to quit work if I keep paying out what they earn. And I owe so much I can't get credit to carry on my farming. You must lend me more money or I am ruined."

"But what security have we?" asked the neighbors.

"You have none," said Fritz. "But unless you lend me all I need, I'll go broke and you'll lose all I have borrowed. What is more, my boys will run wild and maybe destroy your property as well as mine."

That is the whole story. It is the history of Germany since the war. She has "paid" $2,350,000,000 in reparations. She has borrowed $3,750,000,000—most of it spent for extravagant improvements. Now she demands more loans and forgiveness of war debts under threat of bankruptcy and bolshevism.

Only suckers trust a man who has once gone bankrupt to dodge his debts.

PRO AND CON

Robinson's Revenue Ideas.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

In contrast with some of the radical proposals touching methods of securing additional revenue for the Federal Government next year, which have emanated from Washington lately, is the sane, statesmanlike utterance of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader in the Senate, on his return to the National Capital to prepare for the work of the new Congress.

Senator Robinson discloses that he realizes as fully as does any one else that the Government must have more money, but he very wisely urges upon Congress caution in the matter of increasing tax levies. He is not opposed to increasing the rate on incomes in the higher brackets, but he warns against putting such a load on investment and business that productive enterprise will be discouraged.

Wants More Laws.

Duluth Herald.

Ever since Wisconsin turned over its affairs to the La Follettes the State has largely depended upon politics to solve its troubles. If anything is wrong, pass a law and it will be corrected. Yet after twenty or more years of this philosophy the people of that State do not seem to be any happier than they are in Minnesota or any other State. There are still complaints of high taxes, while unemployment and other evils of depression are just as conspicuous there as anywhere. No matter. Pass some more laws. So naturally Gov. La Follette has called a special session of the Legislature.

Raskob a Good Financier.

Minneapolis Journal.

Chairman Raskob is said to hold a mortgage on the Democratic party by virtue of its heavy pecuniary obligations which he has assumed. As mortgagee, is his right to determine whether the platform is to be wet or dry, or neither, superior to the rights of the contributors who have been questionnaired? Can he veto their decision?

Other questions will suggest themselves as the implications of the Raskob questionnaire are studied. For instance, if contributors to the campaign fund are to write the platform, why should they not also name the candidates?

Indeed, it is quite possible that Chairman Raskob by thus raising mere contributors, who have heretofore been contumeliously investigated by the Senate, to a status of power and influence will fill the party's coffers so well that his mortgage may be raised. Not only that, but there will be more competition to contribute in future than has been evident in the past—a welcome change.

Chairman Raskob may not be an acute politican, but he is certainly a darn good financier. He may make the mistake of committing his party to wetness, but at any rate he will also rehabilitate the despised campaign contributor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tells How Radio and Aircraft Came to the Aid of Eleven Stricken Mariners.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Twenty minutes after the cargo of salt in the freighter Baden-Baden had shifted in water-filled holds and sent the motor ship under the stormy Caribbean Sea off the Colombian coast, a seaplane, swinging low through rain and swirling fog, sighted the 15-foot lifeboat that held the eleven survivors of the crew of sixteen. Although the plane had room for twenty more passengers, tumultuous seas made it impossible for it to descend. Perhaps the worst suffering the castaways experienced in their 68 hours adrift was the disappearance of the plane. They had seen the pilot's wave of assurance, but did not know the radio operator had tapped out a call for assistance. Two small ships about 70 miles away heard the signals, but were unable to fight their way through the storm.

Searching aircraft from a Canal Zone naval base and from Barranquilla, Colombia, hummed overhead without seeing the cockleshell that pitched from crests of foaming monster waves to wallowing green troughs. With no water and scant food, the men, drenched by rain and suffering from chills and fever, strained madly at the oars as they sought to keep the lifeboat bow on to the crashing seas that meant death if they struck on the quarter. Sometimes they wasted energy pulling toward a cloud on the dipping horizon that had semblance of a ship. Then the stack of the United States minesweeper Swan appeared, disappeared and reappeared on the horizon, following a change in radio orders. Buoyed by new hope, they rowed to the limit of their strength until they reached the Swan.

And so eleven mariners postponed their appearance at Fiddlers' Green down in Davy Jones' locker, and another step in the ascendancy of radio and aircraft over bearded Neptune's domain of fog and smashing wave is recorded. EX-MARINER.

Destruction of Beautiful Trees in Washington Can Be Made to Help the Unemployed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To judge from what has been going on in recent years, the time is approaching when Old Washington's splendid growth of street trees will be sacrificed in the name of civic improvement. The sacrifice of the Capitol Hill elms is simply another step in line with what is bound to happen. I don't like to see it, but wider automobile driveways are considered absolutely necessary, and the trees must fall before the traffic juggernaut in spite of the protests of nature lovers.

The trees must go, because in the minds of a great majority of automobile owners, utility in this connection is likely to take precedence of beauty. It seems as if it would be a good thing, therefore, to make a preliminary survey for the rearrangements of streets to meet future requirements.

I would suggest that now, when work for the unemployed is in demand, would be a good time to make the start. There are many rows of trees, such, for example, as the elms on New York avenue, west of Ninth street which are sure to be sacrificed to permit a free flow of traffic in the near future. By selecting trees in this class to be felled and chopped into cordwood by the unemployed during the next three months or so, the proper authorities could relieve the present extraordinary unemployment situation to a very great extent. C. J. P.

Interjection or Parenthetical Phrase Does Not Control Verb Form of a Sentence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In The Post of November 27 appears an article calling attention to a controversy over a question of grammatical usage. I am interested in this discussion, since I was for twenty years a professional teacher in the schools of one of the Middle Western States, during which time I always felt a deep interest in the subject of English grammar.

The controversy above referred to is concerning the constructive wording of the following sentence: "It is evident that the Mussolini ambition, or rather its latest ramifications, have a depressing effect." It is apparent to me that the expression, "or rather its latest ramifications," is merely an interjected expression in the sentence, as is indicated by its separation by commas from the rest of the sentence. That interjected expression is not a "clause," as some seem to claim, but simply a phrase. I hold that the detached expression should have no control over the verb form of the sentence and for that reason I regard the use of the singular verb "has" is correct, since it fully agrees with its singular subject, "ambition." JOHN R. WEATHERS.

Citizen Gives List of Questions Regarding Community Chest.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: William S. Waudby is to be congratulated on his article appearing in the press last Wednesday in relation to the funds of the Community Chest.

How many are on the Community Chest pay roll?

How much is paid out in salaries?

What is the overhead?

How much to Boy and Girl Scout organizations?

How much to Community Welfare and other organizations whose sole activities are for entertainment?

Why are funds given to Y. W. and Y. M. organizations, where the public must pay for everything obtained?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TOPIC OF LECTURE

Detroit Member of Board Outlines Predictions of Mary Baker Eddy.

A lecture on "Christian Science: Its Logical Interpretation of Scripture," was delivered last night in Constitution Hall by William Duncan Kilpatrick, C. S. B., of Detroit, Mich.

Mr. Kilpatrick is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. He was introduced by Wilbur E. Yocum.

The lecture was under auspices of First, Second, Third and Fourth Churches of Christ, Scientist, of this city.

The lecturer said in part:

"In her various works on the subject, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, has included many wide and far-reaching predictions. History has proved and is constantly proving not only the verity of these predictions, but the further fact that they evidenced a keen spiritual faculty, vision and foresight. In her book entitled "Pulpit and Press", (p. 22), Mrs. Eddy makes this statement: "If the lives of Christian Scientists attest their fidelity to truth, I predict that in the twentieth century every Christian church in our land, and a few in far-off lands, will approximate the understanding of Christian Science sufficiently to heal the sick in His name. Christ will give to Christianity His new name, and Christendom will be classified as Christian Scientists."

"This prediction was made relatively a short time ago. Very recently, according to reports appearing in the press of the country, one of the large Protestant church denominations in the United States, at its regular, general convention, was presented with a report submitted by a joint committee composed of bishops and deputies of that organization, after six years of careful study and investigation on the part of the committee, which report finds as follows:

"'1. That Christian healing has passed beyond the stage of experiment and its value can not be questioned.

"'2. That throughout the world spiritual healing is no longer the hope of a few, but the belief and practice of a large and rapidly increasing number of persons.

"'3. That such healing is an experience of mankind that can no longer be questioned.

"'4. That while faith in any supposed remedy produces some effect, vital faith in God, as revealed in Christ, is followed by results which are more sure, more lasting and of a more evidently spiritual character.'

"That report was signed and submitted not only by bishops and deputies of the church, but by some of the leading physicians and surgeons of the United States."

Crime Board Member Considered for Bench

(Associated Press.)

Kenneth MacIntosh, of Seattle, who was a member of the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission, is under serious consideration by President Hoover for appointment to the vacancy on the Federal Circuit Court for the Ninth District, embracing Pacific Coast States.

Mr. Hoover also is considering Federal Judge Edward Cushman, of the Western Washington District, for the same post. Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington, who recommended Judge J. Stanley Webster, of Spokane, to the circuit bench yesterday informed the President that Webster could not accept the post for personal reasons.

French Official Silent On British Trade Treaty

Paris, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Finance Minister Pierre Flandin, returning today from a week-end of shooting in England, declined to comment on reports he really had gone there to start negotiations for a trade treaty as a result of the new British tariffs. While he was in England he dined with Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

Since he speaks English fluently, it was widely believed he had been sent to look over the possibilities of an arrangement which would relieve French business from some of the burdens of the new duties.

Competition Has Killed Spirit of Profiteering

—By JOHN J. DALY.

RIOTS in Indiana mark the advance of the National Hunger Army, a great gathering coming on to the Nation's Capital in motor cars, from the humble jitney to the stately limousine, with trucks carrying supplies.

Perhaps in no other nation could such an event take place—men and women, hungry, starving, and riding on to their Nation's Capital in modern conveyances more glorious than the chariots owned by the kings of Babylon, the emperors of ancient Greece and the rulers of the Aztec dynasties.

From East and West, North and South they come, the great gathering marshaled by an urge to see the Capital and to lay before the lawmakers of the land all the ills they know not of—the high cost of gasoline, for instance, which is 16 cents a gallon in Illinois, 14 in Iowa, 22 in old Kentucky and 2 cents more a gallon in Virginia and Maryland than it is in the District of Columbia.

Only in the nearby suburbs will the advancing army see signs such as this, "D. C. Prices."

* * * *

THEY mean that competition has killed the spirit of profiteering; that the gasoline people who own stations immediately adjoining the Nation's Capital do not dare charge the outrageous prices for gasoline that obtain in far remote precincts of the nearby States.

So, as these observers advance on the Capital, they will be able to gather data of great importance to the Commerce Department.

In a Nation such as this, there is no reason why one State should be taxed so much for gasoline to run its motor cars when another State and its people are enabled to get along on a smaller price. This is the law of incompetence, operating to take the place of the law of compensation, the law of compensation in this case being that a man might gladly pay, say, 10 cents more per gallon for gasoline that will take him out of a certain State.

Anyway, the boys and girls marching on to Washington are seeing the sights, and the deplorable state of a land which permits one set of citizens to pay 10 cents more for a national commodity than is charged in another set. Thus they will expose the inequalities of life as it is lived on this continent.

* * * *

As they rumble over the roads, enjoying the sights, the poet laureate of the Shenandoah dashes off these few lilting and limping lines to commemorate an advance that will go down in history alongside that other great spectacle, the advance and retreat of Coxey's army:

Herewith the laurel wreath, to be recited as the vanguard reaches Pimlico, stopping over for a day at the races, where secret service papers will be served with the compliments of Chief Moran:

"There's a Hunger Army marching
On the way to Washington
With a lot of throats a-parching,
All as thirsty as the Hun.
Men and women, in their motors,
What a stately cavalcade!
Though they haven't got the price
Of a humble bowl of rice
They are buying gas to stage the Big Parade.

Bump, bump, bump, the gang's a-riding
Riding in their limousines;
Hear the motor trucks a-gliding,
Gliding through historic scenes;
Gettysburg and famed Antietam,
Hear the cry for folks to feed 'em
On the way to Washington!

HUNGER ARMY IS GUARDED ON ITS MARCH TO CAPITAL

and demanded the immediate release not only of fourteen demonstrators arrested here Friday, but of any arrested en route to Washington.

The fourteen in jail here for parading without a license remained under $500 bond each last night. They will be brought to trial today. Three are being investigated for possible deportation proceedings.

Meanwhile, quiet preparations have gone forward in the Capital by both Federal agents and Metropolitan police to handle any possible law breaking by demonstrators expected here by the end of the week.

Herbert Benjamin, describing himself as an official of the Washington arrangements committee of the "national hunger march," said in a statement "a vast red hysteria is being fomented by the Federal authorities in an attempt to draw a red curtain of obscurity across the path" of the march. He asserted the reports of the Secret Service were the "work of provocateurs."

Benjamin conferred yesterday with Inspector Edwards, of the Washington police. He said he told the police official "we will do our best to prevent provocation and we will demand only that we not be discriminated against or denied our rights" and received a reply that the marchers would not be interfered with so long as they obeyed the law.

Benjamin plans to call today on Gov. Ritchie of Maryland.

Indianapolis, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—A march around the Indiana State Capitol was started this afternoon by a detachment of the "national hunger army," en route to Washington.

State and city police kept the marchers on the move about the capitol grounds.

Several marchers succeeded in entering the statehouse and called at the office of Gov. Harry G. Leslie. They insisted the governor had promised them an audience at 2 o'clock, but police refused to permit them to enter the executive's office.

Steubenville, Ohio, Nov. 30 (A.P.) Forty-three men taken from a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train here last night were freed in municipal court today and permitted to continue their journey to Washington, D. C., to discuss World War compensation.

Detroit, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Approximately 100 men, en route to Washington, D. C., in a hunger march, arrived in Detroit late today and prepared to spend the night here.

The men, who came in ten trucks and three or four passenger automobiles, were met at the city limits by police squadrons and escorted to a Communist hall at Martin and Lindsay avenues, where they planned to spend the night. There was no disturbance and no attempt at speechmaking.

SHIPPING BODY ASKS INCREASE FOR LOANS

(Associated Press.)

The Shipping Board yesterday asked Congress to let it lend more money for the purpose of building up the American Merchant Marine.

Under the Jones-White law, it is equipped with a revolving fund of $250,000,000, out of which construction loans totaling not more than $185,000,000 are permitted. Submitting its annual report, the board yesterday asked that this maximum limitation be increased.

In addition, these recommendations were made:

That "voyages to nowhere," short trips to sea returning to the point of embarkation without touching a foreign port, be prohibited to foreign flag vessels by an amendment to the laws regulating coastwise shipping.

That the board be given additional regulatory authority over common carriers by water, a step of particular need, it was said, with respect to jurisdiction over minimum rates.

Also higher compensation for mail carrying ships of exceptional speed; deductions from taxable income of operating profits of ship lines when devoted to new construction in American yards; and some form of assistance for American ships not receiving the benefit of mail contracts.

An increase in loans from the revolving fund was reported, as was progress in the board's program of selling Government ships to private lines.

Seventy-three vessels were sold for $1,088,680 during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1931, reducing to 398 the number in Governmental control. The sales figure included 8 vessels disposed of but not delivered, and excluded 31, the sale of which was authorized but not consummated.

Advances on construction loans, totaling $28,704,796, as compared with $20,384,100 for the 1930 fiscal year, were cited as "further evidence of the beneficial effect of the Jones-White act in stimulating activity in American shipyards."

The board, which last year said the end of the Government's shipping business was in sight, said yesterday subnormal conditions in international trade and resultant idle tonnage had added to its difficulty in disposing of its remaining ships.

The total operating cost of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, in charge of the Government fleet's operation, was given as approximately $9,245,000, or $1,000,000 below the 1930 loss. It was described as "the lowest in point in a gradual scale of reductions from the total loss of $41,000,000 reported in the fiscal year 1924."

Undercover Agent Is Held in Shooting

Claims Self-Defense and Says Boy, 17, Aided in Holdup Attempt.

Chicago, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Daniel L. Gilday, 65, vice crusader and undercover agent of the State's attorney's office, was held tonight in connection with the shooting of Herman Knol, 17, who, with a companion, sought to aid Gilday as they were on their way to church last night.

The boy's condition was very serious, physicians said, but there was some hope of recovery. The charges to be placed, prosecutors said, by the recovery or death of the youth he admitted shooting.

Herman Alkema, 16, said, and three boys who claimed to have been witnesses, substantiated his story, that he and Knol approached the elderly man because he appeared to be intoxicated. He said they helped Gilday stand up and offered to take him home but that the man pulled out a pistol, shot Knol, and then fell to the sidewalk. Gilday said the two boys tried to hold him up and that he shot in self-defense.

Slavery in Mississippi Charged by Labor Men

Gulfport, Miss., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Charges of "hideous slavery" and "cold blooded brutality" in contractors' camps in the Vicksburg area of the Mississippi River levee system, for which approximately 30 contractors "apparently are directly or indirectly culpable," were made here today in statements issued by Thomas E. Carroll, of Washington, D. C., and Holt Ross, of New Orleans, general representatives of the American Federation of Labor.

They came here at the conclusion of a survey of several weeks along the levees in Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi. The statements of the two labor leaders followed the text of their written report to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Kleberg Ready for Capital Trip.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Richard M. Kleberg (Democrat), of Corpus Christi, today was issued a certificate of election to the seat in Congress left vacant by the death of Representative Harry M. Wurzbach, Republican. Kleberg plans to leave tomorrow or the next day for Washington.

U. S. IS RANKED FIFTH IN LAND WAR PLANES

Trubee Davison Says Adding Navy's Craft Puts U. S. in Fourth Place.

(Associated Press.)

America is ranked fifth by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, in land fighting planes.

In a radio address summarizing his annual report to Secretary Hurley, he said with the Navy's planes counted, the total air forces of the United States would be lifted to fourth place among the nations.

He added, however, that the Navy's planes could not be considered as land planes since they would be with the fleet. The other leading nations are France, Great Britain, Italy and Russia.

Willingness of the Air Corps in common with the rest of the War Department to share curtailed expenditures during the period of economic stress was emphasized by Davison. He noted, however, that shortage of bombs and ammunition and lack of suitable practice ranges had prevented the corps from attaining proficiency in bombing and gunnery.

Praising the safety record, Davison noted that Army airplanes flew during the year a distance equal to 175 flights around the world and a total of 71,000 hours more than during the previous fiscal year, with but one fatal accident for each 2,000,000 miles.

The Assistant Secretary expressed regret that the five-year expansion program of 1926, contemplating 1,800 serviceable airplanes, 15,000 enlisted men, 1,650 regular officers and 550 reserve officers was "meeting its objective only in enlisted strength." At the fourth year, he said, the Air Corps had 1,476 serviceable planes and a shortage of regular officers and reserve officers. The personnel problem of the corps, both as to numbers and promotion, "remains unsolved," he said.

. . . . A generation or so ago the doctor called at your home and brought his own medicine with him. Relatives or neighbors did the nursing.

To-day an accident means an ambulance to the hospital, X-rays, surgeon's fee, nurses, private room and many other expenses.

It's wiser to spend a small, definite sum for accident insurance, than to risk the expenditure of hundreds of dollars in case of accident.

A modern accident policy issued by The Travelers will take care of these unusual expenses for all kinds of accidents.

Analyze Your TELEPHONE

ANY chemist would tell you that your telephone contains rubber, copper, steel, brass, carbon, and many other materials.

But any user would say that it is made of equal parts of pleasure, utility, and protection.

Pleasure—because it opens the door to so many happy social events, so many friendly chats.

Utility—because of the countless steps and time it saves, the trips to the stores or to business firms a block or a mile away.

Protection—because it is ever-ready to summon help for you in emergencies—to call the doctor, the fire department, or the police.

Analyze your telephone. Compare its value with the price you pay for it. Where can you find anything that gives so much for so little?

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

HELPING THE "OTHER" WOMAN.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Is there any hope at all for a woman who is always jealous and suspicious? Here am I, a woman of 37, with everything the average woman could want, and sometimes feel that I'll go insane from all sorts of jealous thoughts and imaginations. And it all started from a little thing—a girl's name and telephone number on the back of an envelope in Oklahoma. You see We've been married almost ten years and have two gorgeous children, a boy of 9 and an exquiste little girl 11 months old. Just as I was about to start for the hospital on the eve of my baby's birth my husband came home from a five weeks' trip, and while helping him unpack I saw this address and, though he explained it away in a more or less satisfactory manner, I have thought and brooded about it so much that it is affecting the happiness of my home.

Now, I am slim and attractive looking, ten years younger than my husband. We have an unusually beautiful home, a fine car, and my husband, knowing how I feel, really accounts for every minute of his time He is a devoted father and his greatest interest is his home, and still my mind is filled with doubts, fears and suspicions, and though he has argued with me and I've read all sorts of books on psychology, the fact remains that since he returned from that trip I think he does not love me and I am miserable. I have lost about ten pounds since this happened, and though I keep busy and cheerful, every once in a while, with the least excuse, I will make a silly, foolish scene and all my recent efforts at behaving are in vain.

Am I hopeless? Isn't there something that could be done for me? My husband gets more disgusted with me every day. He used to think I was "the queen"—but not any more. I have fallen from grace. What can I do? It would be sad indeed if a gorgeous, happy home like ours was should have to be boken up. With thanks for your patience, sincerely,

KATHRYN.

Yours is the very best method known of helping the "other" woman. Ordinarily a man automatically forgets the telephone number girls when he finds himself once more at home where all his interests center. But if he happens to have the sort of wife who appoints herself a sort of cheer leader for the girl he left behind him, and who sees to it that that girl is kept constantly in his thoughts, then neither the girl nor her phone number is forgotten! Is that your objective? If not then be intelligent if you can not be modern, and give the whole subject a much-needed rest.

Do you know one thing we have never been able to understand is why a man ever gives a nagging, jealous wife a single moment's consideration. Of all pests, the person who wants to know every thought, every act, where were you and why, what did you say, what did they say, and what time was it when you left and what kept you so long. Pests. If we were a husband with such a wife, we would begin by saying that when away from home we would be everything our beloved spouse expected us to be, and let that answer all future questions. If she expected that a telephone number meant a broken marriage vow that would have to stand. Never would we deny anything of which she was capable of charging us. We would let her think exactly according to the sort of mind she possessed—and like it.

So now you have our reaction. It may not be your husband's reaction at all. He may still think you a high-minded, broad-minded, pure-minded human being worthy of his entire respect and confidence. But then again he may think something quite different. And what he thinks may not matter to you. But then again it may matter considerably. If it does, you will stop promoting the other woman and do a little promoting for your own cause. It by this time must need it—if your husband is one bit like most men. So take your mind off this fancied injury. If your husband is innocent of your accusations your crime against him is almost unforgivable. In any case your attitude is petty and—great for the other woman.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4:50 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:10 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:40 p. m.

Under the beatific astrological influences on December 1, the world will be your oyster, and you will feel for the moment as though life were something which could be molded at your will. Good deeds will be performed, kind words will be spoken and charitable thoughts will be fostered.

The child born on this December 1 will have a tactful, ingenious and clever nature. It will be essentially domestic and fond of home and home life. It will not be afraid to exert itself and will fight for those things which it most desires. Outdoor activities will appeal to it.

The keynote of your character can be given in the one word, "reliable." You may be depended upon to carry out any responsibilities intrusted to you, both on time and in an efficient manner. Your word is your bond; your honesty needs no proof. You are trustworthy as a friend, and in this respect are an asset to any one. You can keep a confidence, and you are loyal when others fail.

Your efforts are not brilliant; your successes are not stupendous; your actions are not heroic, but you do your best. There is no one living clever enough to make a fool out of you, for you are level-headed and emtionally stable. You do not get into messes for you look before you leap. You will never join the bread line through foolish extravagance or an unwillingness to try anything in time of need. You are too afraid of debt to take a gamble, even on "almost" certainties. Your safety first policy has probably clipped your wings and kept you from attaining great heights.

You have a heart of gold and can not hurt a living creature. The unavoidable misery of the world often unduly depresses you. You are able to "feel" for others, as though the sorrow or suffering were your own. You are willing to burden yourself with responsibilities which belong to others, who are ready to shirk.

Successful people born December 1:

Jane Corbett Interprets the Mode

Panama, Nov. 30.

AGNES was responsible, way back in the forgotten styles of a few seasons ago, for the little knitted cap that looked like nothing at all in the hand, but which, on the head, flattered the wearer as few of her other hats did. And, undoubtedly, the Agnes influence is what started American milliners thinking along the little cap line at the present time.

And the result, my deahs. Utterly charming little hand-knitted or crocheted caps, of chenille, or bouclette, or some lustrous novelty woolen which are individually adjustable to suit every mood, occasion and coiffure. You see, it's this way—the milliners weren't satisfied with making up these little caps in a variety of colors and materials and letting it go at that. They finally hit on the idea of having some little quill or bow or clip which could be removed and put on easily at angle the wearer liked—and the latest idea is to sell the little caps with a set of three or four trimming gadgets to make miladi's repertoire with that particular hat an extensive one.

• • • •

When and Why of Today's Lipstick.

What sort of a lipstick would you use, my deahs, with costumes of green, woodsy brown, black or white, or if you were blessed with flaming red hair, or snowy white tresses? If you used a rich flame tint, high-spirited and gay—a youthful color—you would prove your knowledge of the finer points of make-up.

Brown in several harmonizing shades is one of the best combinations for outdoor wear this winter—but there are many more reasons than this for the popularity of the suit from Bruyere that I have illustrated today. In the first place the suit coat, which is of brown wool where it isn't brown astrakhan, is of the new length, between hip and three-quarter, which is so much more becoming than either. Then the astrakhan is incrusted in the new waistcoat effect, and forms the lower part of the sleeves and a snug, high crush collar. And last but not least, the coat is belted in emphatically about the waistline with a brown leather belt.

• • • •

'N' if you'd have your symphony in brown as smart as this one, you'd better insist on some of these details for your own version.

• • • •

Feathery trifles, applied to give that high-brow effect to Miladi Moderne, or sleek cire ribbon trimmings, as sketched above, are two indications of hat sophistication at the present moment.

I predict a trip for you. Yes, sir, because I have made a magic leaflet which absolutely promises you an enjoyable and interesting and immiment trip, once the leaflet is in your hands. Just send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for "Gangplank Romance," the leaflet of the week, and see if I'm not the champion predicter. CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE LANGUAGE OF BIDS.

BIDDING at Contract, when properly done, is a beautiful thing. When bids mean what they say, the partner of the bidder can draw correct inferences and, upon the foundation of the bidding already made, can erect a superstructure, of which both partners can be proud.

That superstructure in Contract Bridge is known as reaching the best contract in the combined hands. Whenever a bid is used to convey incorrect information to the partner, the bidder has only himself to blame if the best result is not attained. Alert adversaries, anxious to defeat the aims of their opponents by means of "nuisance bids," adroitly interjected, may bring the structure down in ruins or may even prevent its completion.

Mr. W. H. Wood, of Johnson City, Tenn., sent me the hand below, recounting that his sacrifice bid had brought him marvelous dividends; in fact, the thrill of a Grand Slam bid defensively, but no less impressive in the honor score, when it was triumphantly made.

West—Dealer.
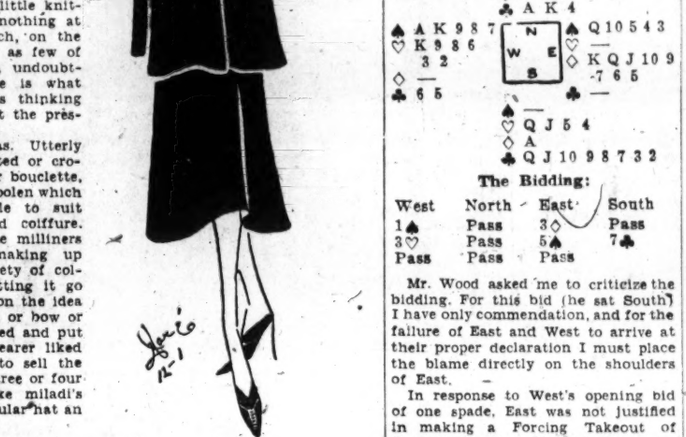
East-West vulnerable.



The Bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♠	Pass	3◇	Pass
3♡	Pass	5♠	7♣
Pass	Pass	Pass

Mr. Wood asked me to criticize the bidding. For this bid (he sat South) I have only commendation, and for the failure of East and West to arrive at their proper declaration I must place the blame directly on the shoulders of East.

In response to West's opening bid of one spade, East was not justified in making a Forcing Takeout of three diamonds. East's hand was an unusual freak. It contained eight diamonds and five spades and was void of the remaining suits. Instead of bidding three diamonds, his correct bid was six spades. What was there to fear? His partner must hold at least four spades with Ace, King at the top; or, if his suit is longer, then there is not more than one loser in the spade suit at most. There is a fair chance, if the opening bid of one spade was based on such a holding as K x x x x or A x x x x, that it would include the Ace of diamonds. In any event, the hand is of such freakish distribution and so weak in honor-tricks, but so strong in distribution, that East should not risk playing it for less than a Slam in the best bid of the combined hands, and this, quite evidently, is spades. If East had bid six spades, it is doubtful if Mr. Wood would have gone to seven clubs, but if he did so, then certainly East, as a defensive measure if nothing else, would overcall with seven diamonds and partner, assured not only of adequate but of unusual support for his spade bid and of a distributional monstrosity opposite his weak two-suiter, would have carried the bid back to seven spades, which it is, of course, evident can be made laid down.

A Forcing Takeout has a very definite and clear meaning. The player who makes it declares that he is certain there is game in the hand, that he has a minimum of about 3 honor-tricks, but is uncertain as to where the fit of the combined hands may be. East thus, in making a Forcing Takeout, was wrong on two of the three counts. He did not have 3 honor-tricks and he did know the glovelike fit of the hands. Against him must be chalked up the difference of some 2,800 or 2,900 points, due to his faulty bidding.

Mr. Wood's courageous and beautiful bid deserves commendation.

"I thought it would be cheaper to go down 4 tricks doubled rather than let East and West reach a makeable Slam, so I bid seven clubs, hoping to muddy the waters. The ruse succeded," Mr. Wood wrote.

It deserved to succeed, as the making of it showed both imagination and good judgment, but the chance for its success was based upon a faulty Forcing Takeout by East.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: What is needed to raise one notrump to two notrump?

Answer: Inasmuch as 5 honor-tricks will produce about 8 tricks (Rule of Eight) we raise to two notrump, holding honor-trick strength to total about 5 honor-tricks in the combined hands.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

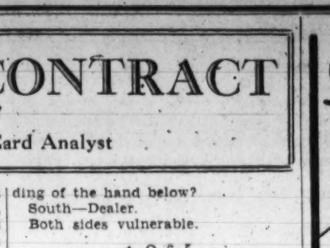
South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



Answer. The proper bidding of this hand would be:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠(1)	Dbl.(2)	2◇(3)	Pass
3♡(4)	Pass	3NT(5)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—Of course South, with 4 honor-tricks in his hand and two biddable major suits, opens the bidding, as Dealer, by naming the higher ranking of his two suits of equal length.

2—West holds 3½ honor-tricks, and thus his best course is a Double rather than a minimum Overcall.

3—North holds 1½ honor-tricks plus and is not deterred by West's Double from giving his partner the information that he holds the strength requisite for a bid.

4—South, holding 4 honor-tricks and with the knowledge that his partner probably holds 1½, now makes a Forcing Takeout, justified in thinking that a game is probable at the best declaration in the North and South hands.

5—North has a close choice between bidding three notrump and supporting the spade suit. The bidding would make game at notrump more probable than at spades, as it is possible that East holds four or even five spades. North has the club suit, the only one not bid by him or his partner, apparently safely stopped so notrump would appear to be the most probable game-going declaration.

The Lure of Slams.

Question: Will you kindly give the correct bidding of the inclosed hand, North and South not bidding?

	WEST
Spades	A J x x
Hearts	A x x x
Clubs	K x
	EAST
Spades	K x
Hearts	K 10 x x
Diamonds	9
Clubs	A Q J x x x

Answer: Correct bidding is:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

DECLARER	PARTNER
1NT	3 Clubs(1)
4NT(2)	5 Clubs
6 Clubs(3)	Pass

1—A Forcing bid to show about three honor-tricks.

2—A three notrump response would show a minimum Opening bid; therefore, Declarer, holding 1½ honor-tricks in addition, should bid four notrump.

3—After partner's Forcing bid and Rebid of the club suit, East should know that they have practically a solid trump suit and about 7 honor-tricks in the combined hand.

Always the Suit.

Question: Is an Opening bid of two notrump the correct bid on the following hand:

Spades	9 8 7
Hearts	A K J
Diamonds	A J 10 6
Clubs	A 10 9

when playing the Culbertson System, but deciding in advance that partner need not take out if holding a bust card, would two notrump then be justified?

Answer: In the Culbertson System a four-card minor suit should be bid in preference to notrump Therefore, the correct Opening bid with the above hand is one diamond. If partner hasn't enough strength to overcall, there is no chance to go game at notrump. The Opening bid of two notrump would show about 5 honor-tricks with all suits stopped and would deny a biddable suit.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

THE WHY OF BLINKING.

A CORRESPONDENT wrote us about a child that was given to blinking his eyes. The communication told of circumstances that showed that the blink was an intentional procedure, one of those bad habits that children sometimes develop as a means of attracting attention. The question was asked: What should be done to correct this? In the answer punishment was given as one line of treatment suitable to many cases.

This answer provoked two letters. One was from a physician, who thought I should have told the parent to have this child's eyes examined. Fatigue resulting from eye strain might have been the cause. A woman wrote somewhat less temperately. She suggested that the child's general physical condition needs toning up and that he has weak eyes, perhaps even more serious eye trouble. She thought my advice was dangerous.

Both are right, up to a certain point. Eye strain sometimes causes a certain amount of discomfort, which causes a person to blink as something of a reaction. A parallel is found in belching due to swallowing air. The act itself is the result of nervousness, but underlying it there may be some stomach disorder producing local irritation. This is the exciting cause of an act which is due essentially to nervousness.

Therefore, it is wisdom to have the eyes examined when a child has the blinking habit. That does not change the situation, or even the treatment in its more important phases. In most cases, blinking is consciously performed and for a purpose. Its cure is a matter of training. Punishment has a place in training. Especially is this true when the disorder is a habit of the hysteria group; that is, when the behavior is for the attainment of a purpose.

A longer and more inclusive answer would have elaborated the need for search for a source of irritation and proper local treatment of that and would have followed with some counsel on habit training.

Years ago a boy developed a blink. His father had him taken for treatment to a distinguished neurologist. The medical man recognized the nature of the trouble and advised the parents to keep a pin handy and ready to jab the boy in the face whenever he blinked. The cure was magical, and the boy of that day is a very successful business man of this day, and with no habit spasms. I have printed this story more than once, and each time horrified, anti-punishment people register violent protests.

The boy was saved not only from his blinking habit, but from a certain point of view, and that's what counts. Meanwhile, the world is full of woe because so many people are opposed to discipline, firmness and everything else that makes for strength of character.

SHINGLES.

S. J. C. writes: What causes a disease called shingles and what is the remedy?

REPLY.

Shingles, called herpes, is a form of neuralgia. It is generally located along an intercostal nerve. It is caused by infection of a nerve root.

As a rule, shingles is left to get well of itself and it does. If the neuralgic pain is too great, some salicylate is given for relief. Some simple ointment is used locally.

BICARBONATE OF SODA.

Mrs. T. H. writes: Is it harmful to take 10 grains of bicarbonate of soda three times a day?

REPLY.

It is unwise to take any drug habitually. This is true of soda addiction. However, 10 grains three times a day is not much of a dose. Some people get that amount in breads and vegetables cooked with soda.

WILL DO NO HARM.

1. Will Epsom salts be injurious as a means of reducing?
2. Will it aid in reducing?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No.

FOLIAGE PLANTS FOR THE HOUSE.

THE crassula arborescens, or Chinese rubber plant, is now a well-known plant cultivated for house use. This is the plant that was used by the Chinese as a model for so much of the most beautiful carved jade. This exceedingly decorative plant came into popular use with the advent of the dish garden. Its stubby, fleshy leaves and stout stems grow very slowly. For this reason very large plants, several feet high, are unusually costly.

Old plants which have grown tall rather than bushy may be made to branch by removing the tips of the shoots and allowing the soil to become dry for a while. When the new growth appears, watering must be resumed. While tip cuttings can be easily coaxed to grow in sand, leaves will also root readily provided they have been cut off the plant with a sharp knife. Leaves which fall or which have been broken off do not develop roots so easily.

Sanseverias, which are so popular at this time, will stand almost any amount of neglect. If, however, they are given good care they will develop many leaves in a season. These plants will live in a north room, but really should be grown where there is plenty of sunshine and fresh air. When the weather is clear water your sanseverias every other day. In dull weather they will do very well with water only twice a week. Of course, at each application they must be given enough to moisten all the soil in the pots.

The polypodium ferns are among the most beautiful ferns we have for house use. This is the variety with the hairy roots and large, wavy undulated fronds, which are of an attractive, glaucous, blue-green color. A well-grown specimen is always decorative and just the plant for a sunny bay window. This is about the only variety of fern which really stands sun. Most of the other ferns which are grown for house use do best in a light but sunless window. It is for this reason that ferns are so well suited for use in northern windows.

Rex begonias, which are grown for the beauty of their foliage, usually do well in the house in a northern or eastern window. It is necessary to give all members of the begonia family plenty of fresh air, as the warm, dry air of the house is apt to cause their leaves to drop. It is also necessary to keep the soil in the pots quite loose.

Former Capitol Guard At Annapolis Dies at 81

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 30.—John W. Smith, 81 years old, many years a guard in the State Capitol Building, died at the home of his son, Frank O. Smith, 74 Charles street, Annapolis. He had been in ill health four years. He was a widower, and is survived by two other sons and three daughters, among the latter being Mrs. Wirt Johnson, Washington.

Mr. Smith was a carpenter by vocation in his earlier days and was an expert swimmer and huntsman. Half a century ago he conducted a swimming class in Spa Creek, and hundreds of men and women of Annapolis recall their first strokes under his instruction.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

SHE'LL LOVE IT.

Even small daughter is affected by Paris styles these days.

And isn't this one practical? Don't you like the way the skirt joins the tuck-in blouse?

An extra blouse of linen will add variety and charm.

Style No. 615 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2¼ yards of 39-inch material with 1¼ yards of 39-inch lining and ¾ yard of 39-inch material for blouse.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

New Plan By Makers of Vicks VapoRub for Better "Control-of-Colds"

Another advance in "Control-of-Colds" has been perfected by the makers of Vicks VapoRub. A third of a century ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern, external method of "treating" colds. Now, Vick Chemists introduce Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. These two are companion products—they aid and supplement each other. Together, they make possible the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax"—in money, loss of time and health.

1.—Before a Cold Starts

At that first sneezy, scratchy irritation of the nose or upper throat—Nature's unmistakable warning that you are "catching cold"—use Vicks Nose Drops promptly as directed. Many colds can be checked at this stage and bad colds avoided.

If you catch cold easily, the wise plan is to use just a few Vicks Nose Drops up each nostril after exposure to any particular condition that your own experience tells you is apt to give you a cold—for instance, a night on a Pullman—a dusty automobile ride—over-smoking, overheated, over-crowded rooms, etc.—and you feel the slightest stuffiness of the nasal passages. Vicks Drops are especially designed to aid the nose—Nature's "preventor" of colds—when over-taxed by such emergencies of our artificial present-day living.

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled freely all night long. During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops as needed for ease and comfort. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub).

This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children—and lowers body strength at a time when Nature most needs it to resist disease. Don't "dose" colds except on your doctor's advice.

Trial Offer to Vick Users

The Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" has been tested — and proved. But the makers want all users of Vicks VapoRub to test it for themselves in their own homes. Get a bottle of Vicks Drops from your druggist today. Try the plan as directed. If results are not more than satisfactory, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

Gunmen, supposed to be members of the Chinchow gang, held up the Fifth avenue jewelry store of Rosenblatz, Kenkichi & Grandi and escaped with the gravest crisis so far faced by the league in the Sino-Japanese trouble. There were four in the gang, including Article XI. They entered the store by the Taonan-Anganchi line, penetrated the Sinmin area and executed the robbery so speedily that no trace of them could be found when the police arrived. Detectives Nanking, Tientsin and Grandi are investigating.

Papers were filed in an action for divorce brought by Mrs. Theodore P. Winkle against her husband, Wang Ching-wai, the well-known Chicago wheat operator. The suit alleges violation of the bi-lateral treaties and Briand-Kellogg pact. Mrs. Winkle charges that her husband once beat her with Clause II, Section XVIII, and told her openly that he was in love with Premier Laval, S. Parker Gilbert, Sir John Simon and the mother of Tom Mooney.

He recovered consciousness this afternoon and said his name was General Ma.

TWO CAR INSURANCE AGENTS GETS TERMS

Capital Men Sentenced in Fairfax; Clients Claim Policies Fraud.

Two men charged with obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with an allegedly fraudulent automobile insurance scheme were given six months sentences by Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie, of Fairfax, yesterday, and tongue lashings by two dozen persons who felt they had been cheated.

The two men, Joseph Brenner and William P. Herrick, who gave their addresses as 202 E street northeast, Washington, were arraigned on only one of several warrants which had been sworn out against them. After they were sentenced their attorney, Charles Henry Smith, Alexandria, who represented Herbert Campbell in the Mary Baker murder case, noted an appeal. Bond was set at $1,000, which the defendants could not furnish.

Brenner and Herrick were arrested Tuesday night by Sheriff E. P. Kirby, Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarty, Traffic Officer Carl McIntosh, Special Officer John B. Dowden and State Prohibition Agent Virgil Williams.

Card Promised Privileges.

The warrant on which they were tried yesterday was sworn to by T. M. Harrison, of Centerville, Va., who testfied that the men came to his home and sold him one of the policies. They accepted $12 as a premium from him, he stated, but he never received the policy. Mr. Harrison produced a receipt for the $12 the men had given him, but counsel for the defendants objected to having this bit of paper read as evidence.

Under terms of the insurance he was promised, Mr. Harrison said, he was presented a small card, which he was assured would "get him off" for almost any traffic charge.

After sentence was passed a number of residents of Fairfax and Prince William Counties and Maryland and Washington pressed around the two defendants and subjected them to a severe tongue lashing until Fairfax officers moved the pair from court to the county jail where they are held pending their appeal.

Crowd Fills Courtroom.

The hearing was scheduled for yesterday morning, but approximately 50 alleged victims of the insurance scheme in varying amounts gathered until Justice Ritchie's office was packed to overflowing. Then the hearing was postponed until the regular session of Fairfax County Circuit Court was completed, so that all interested parties could be present.

Fairfax County authorities said the two men were arrested after complaints began to flood in that persons who had purchased the insurance had attempted to collect after accidents, or to obtain copies of their policies and had met with refusal from the company. The firm for which the two men are said to work is known as the National Motorists Corporation, with a branch known as the National Motors Corporation.

More than $1,000 is said to have been paid into the two "insurance companies" by farmers in Prince William County and about as much from residents of Fairfax County. Sheriff Kirby said the firm had at least 75 "representatives" working over the country and had branch offices in Washington, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities.

In addition to the warrant on which Brenner and Herrick were tried yesterday, officials said seven additional ones had been sworn out already.

Mt. Rainier Association To Get Idle Relief Cash

The Mount Rainier Welfare Association has been designated as the Mount Rainier, Md., organization to handle funds from the President's unemployment relief donations of Government employes, William A. Jones, president of the organization, was notified yesterday by Gov. Thomas E. Campbell, head of the Federal employes committee.

The Welfare Association is the official mayor's committee of Mount Rainier for unemployment relief named by Mayor John H. Beall. It comprises a representative from the churches, the fraternal organizations, the business men and the women's organizations.

Maryland Girl Awarded Blue Ribbon at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Dorothy C. Hinder, of Long Green, Md., today won a blue ribbon from judges who appraised the first section of exhibits, ranging from canned peas to window curtains, that 4-H Club girls have entered in the Tenth National Congress, held in connection with the International Livestock Show.

Miss Hinder won the ribbon in competition with 30 States for a smart and economical complete sport or street clothes outfit. Her exhibit was a brown and yellow two-piece cotton frock, the cost of which, including shoes, hat, undergarments and accessories, was $16.38.

Hysterical Bride Delays Jailing of Convicted Youth

Wife of Laurence McCullough Swoons After Parting With Mate, Found Guilty in Death of Two Companions in Automobile.

The grim processes of the law halted last night while love held away in the dingy courtroom at Rockville, Md. A bride of two months clung so tightly to her husband, convicted of manslaughter, that Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale had to stand waiting while hysterical farewells were exchanged.

Laurence McCullough, 22 years old, of 4307 Ellicott street northwest, had just been found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in the court when his youthful brunette bride flung herself into his arms and started passionately kissing him, the while she wept hysterically and refused to let him to taken off to jail, where he will await sentence.

Sheriff Lansdale told them to take their time and stood patiently at the side. Finally, with a heartbroken sigh, the wife let go. As the husband was being led away, she cried: "Just one more kiss, Laurence!" and staggered to a bench. The husband kissed her again and turned to the sheriff to leave. The girl, groaned and toppled back from the bench to the floor in a faint, striking her head on a chair. Policemen, lawyers and court attaches ran to her side, but the husband was there before them. He had vaulted the four-foot railing and raised her head in his arms. Finally, restored, she left the courtroom on the arm of the youth's attorney, Kenneth Lyddane, and of his sister, Miss Catherine McCullough.

Young McCullough, a trusted employe of the treasurer's office of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., was the driver of an automobile which shortly before 3 a. m., May 17, crashed into a telephone pole on the Rockville pike. Two other youths, Ludwell L. Lee, 21, of Bethesda, and Calvin L. Brown, of Woodmont, Md., were fatally injured. The trio had been to Glen Echo with a party of young men.

McCullough told State's Attorney, Detective Theodore Vollten the afternoon after the accident that he had been feeling several drinks he had taken prior to the accident and that the car was speeding at a rate of about 55 miles an hour. On the stand he said he had taken two drinks and that the car was not exceeding 40 miles an hour.

State's Attorney Stedman Prescott told the jury that they could find McCullough guilty of manslaughter for three reasons: Driving while under the influence of intoxicants, speeding and negligent driving. The jury stayed out an hour and three-quarters.

Theadore Lucas, of Bethesda, a State witness in the case, was fined $10 for contempt of court by Judge Robert B. Peter, who presided. When court adjourned for lunch at noon Lucas went on home and court was detained for more than an hour while police located him and brought him back to Rockville.

POLLARD TO ATTEND FETE IN ALEXANDRIA

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia and the members of the State Bicentennial Commission yesterday accepted an invitation to attend the celebration to be held in Alexandria the afternoon of February 22 next.

Former Mayor William Albert Smoot, chairman of the committee in charge of the celebration, which will be arranged by the George Washington Birthday Association, extended the invitation personally. He was accompanied to Richmond by J. William May, an officer in the association.

President Hoover has been invited to be present, and has stated that he is at the disposal of the Bicentennial Commission on that day, and should that body select Alexandria as the official city for the day, all Government officials will probably be here.

Sixteen of the 23 persons fined in police court yesterday morning went to jail in default of the payment of the fine imposed. Alexandria City Jail is at present overcrowded because of the number of prisoners who claim the depression has affected their fine-paying ability.

Alexandria Lodge, No. 758, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will hold the annual memorial service on Sunday night next at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Elks Home. Seven members of the local lodge have died in the past year.

Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of the corporation court, collected in November $1,938.50 in prohibition fines, an increase of $198.50 over October.

John Ellis, R. F. D. No. 1, Alexandria, reported to the police yesterday that the night before his hennery was invaded and between 35 and 40 chickens stolen.

Repairs to Church Are to Be Blessed

Ceremony Planned Tonight at Rockville Catholic Edifice.

Recent repairs and additions to St. Mary's Catholic Church at Rockville, Md., oldest standing church in Montgomery County, will be blessed at solemn ceremonies tonight. The ceremonies will begin with a procession at 7:30 o'clock from the rectory to the church, which has been completely renovated at a cost of nearly $11,000.

The Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, will officiate at the ceremonies. Four monsignori and 40 priests from the archdioceses of Baltimore, Wilmington and Richmond will be present and participate in the procession and services. Bishop McNamara will bless the new work and will deliver the sermon. The Rev. Charles R. O'Hara, who is the twenty-sixth pastor of the church, will talk on its history. The services will be closed with a solemn pontifical benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The visiting clergy will be guests of Father O'Hara at dinner at 5:30 o'clock in the rectory.

BOARD IN ARLINGTON HEARS WATER PLEA

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

After several months' effort to have the county take over the community water system in Virginia Highlands, J. L. Price, its owner, again appeared before the Arlington County Board of Supervisors at the courthouse yesterday to renew his request. Mr. Price pointed out that water from one of his wells has been found impure; he said he was forced to cut off this supply.

After considering the proposal, the board informed Mr. Price that as soon as financial matters have been settled the county engineer will proceed to make the necessary connections and installation of meters.

The water department was authorized to return to Miss Bessie Christian $1,400, a part of the $3,400 she placed with the county in 1928 for installation of a water main in Radnor Heights to her home.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier was authorized to advertise for bids for the purchase of 6,000 feet of fire hose. Bids will be opened by the board December 15 at 10 o'clock. The hose will be distributed among all but the Jefferson District Department.

The board authorized purchase of three motorcycles to be used by the county police department.

Over the protest of Chairman Edward Duncan, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier was authorized to deliver the fire engine now stored at the county property yard to the colored fire department at East Arlington.

Mrs. Rachel Tabor, representing the Arlington County Council Parent-Teacher Associations, asked that a concrete sidewalk be constructed from the railway tracks to the Washington-Lee High School along Clements avenue.

Mrs. Tabor declared that some action should be taken for the safety of the children who walked to the school.

After a recess of several months the Arlington County Bar Association will hold a luncheon meeting today at Windsor Arms, Glebe road, at 12:30 o'clock.

The Arlington Chapter No. 149, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will hold the December meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. Cora A. Fields, Wilson boulevard, near Ballston.

Fairfax Welfare Board Vacancies Are Filled

To fill vacancies in the Fairfax County Welfare Board, Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, has appointed the Rev. Herbert Donovan, of Fairfax; Mrs. William Cleveland, of Annandale, and Mrs. J. W. Cox, of Accotink. Mrs. Eleanor Aud, county welfare superintendent, will call a meeting soon to reorganize and arrange a program of work for the year.

Herndon P.-T. A. Elects.

Mrs. George R. Bready has been elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association at Herndon, Va. Mrs. A. H. Buell was elected vice president, Mrs. B. F. McGuire, secretary, and Mrs. A. H. Kirk, treasurer.

Woman Sues Chaplin on Aid In Getting London Publicity

London, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—A British woman who sat up nights thinking of ways to get Charlie Chaplin's name in the headlines went to court today to sue for £100 in what she claims are back wages.

Miss May Shepherd, the film comedian's woman secretary and publicity agent, testified during the trial, and told an amusing story of her efforts to keep Chaplin constantly in London's eye.

Once he accepted a verbal invitation from Alistair MacDonald to dine with the prime minister at No. 10 Downing street, she recounted, but went to Berlin instead and "asked me to make his peace with the prime minister."

The letter she wrote to Mr. MacDonald professing disappointment at his being called away on urgent personal business was read in court. It expressed the hope that he would be able to tender his apologies in person upon his return and was signed by the actor. She said she pointed out to him the importance of his engagement, but he did not seem to appreciate it.

The frail little woman, who testified she had done publicity work for Mary Pickford, Jackie Coogan and the late Rudolph Valentino, averred she had arranged an invitation with London's lord mayor, Maurice Jenks, for Chaplin to dine with him. She also arranged a statement in a London newspaper under the heading "Myself and the Duke," she said, to counteract a story that he had kept the Duke of Connaught, King George's uncle, waiting at Nice for an hour.

The contention of the defense was that Miss Shepherd had lived in state at the Carlton Hotel, drinking cocktails and champagne and taking her meals at the comedian's expense, and that this balanced her salary demands.

DEMOCRATIC GROUP ELECTS IN BETHESDA

Paul Clark, publicity; Miss Lola Atwood, parliamentarian; Mrs. John McKay and Mrs. H. Latane Lewis, auditors; Mrs. W. Ernest Offutt, Mrs. H. H. Howlett and Mrs. E. L. Pugh, editorial staff.

Mrs. W. Ernest Offutt, Rockville; Mrs. W. W. Skinner, Kensington; Mrs. James C. Ord, Chevy Chase; Mrs. James B. Maughlin, Boyds; Mrs. Mehrle Haines, Laytonsville; Mrs. Clifford F. Peters, Glen Echo; Mrs. William J. T. Farquhar, Olney; Mrs. Emory Bogley, Friendship Heights; Mrs. Joseph C. Cissel, Silver Spring; Mrs. Claude V. Norton, Conduit Road Club; Mrs. J. Bond Smith, Takoma Park, members of the executive committee.

Miss Elizabeth Wheeler, daughter of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, and organizer and vice president of the Young Democrats Club, told the gathering that the young people of today are demanding more liberal legislation. "They are tired of the reactionary policies of the Republican party," she declared.

Fire Policy Rates Cut in Bethesda

Reduction Is Announced After Improvements to Department.

Fire insurance rates in Bethesda have been ordered reduced because of the recent additions and improvements to the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department, it was announced at a meeting of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce last night in the Bethesda County Building. A letter from the underwriters announcing the reduction was read by John L. Imirie.

County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner told the chamber that the State roads commission had informed him that it planned opening Elm street to Wisconsin avenue in the near future, and also correction of a bad culvert on Old Georgetown road, called to the attention of the chamber by G. Wady Imirie. The roads commission said its available men had been ordered to the Rockville pike construction, making it impossible to care for several minor projects.

G. Wady Imirie was elected delegate to the Bethesda Fire Board. Thomas E. Hampton, president, presided. Attention was called to the special meeting to be held Friday night at the Chevy Chase-Bethesda High School, at which Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, will preside, and Representative Louis McFadden, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House banking and currency committee, will be principal speaker.

New Buses Ready On Alexandria Line

Permission for Routing of Cars Not Asked, However.

Announcement was made yesterday that several buses had arrived in this city for thte new Alexandria-Washington Bus Co., and it was reported that the new line would start operations today. City Manager Wallace Lawrence stated, however, that no request had been made for routing over the city streets, and permission of city council will be necessary before starting the line.

Charles P. Orr and George Strahorn, both of Washington, appeared before city council on November 5 last and notified that body of their desire to start a new line of communication between Alexandria and Washington; also that their request for permission to operate was then pending before the State corporation commission. They also stated they planned to start operations on December 1.

Council notified them they would have to submit a petition in writing, asking a route over the city streets, for their buses.

Hoover Reassures Colored Delegates

Equal Rights League Told He Denied Segregation on Large Scale.

William Monroe Trotter, secretary of the National Equal Rights League, at its session last night in the auditorium of the John Wesley Church, reported the results of a conference with the President yesterday at the White House by a committee of twelve. The President, he stated, was of the opinion that the national administration was not as unfavorable to the Negro as the committee believes it was.

With reference to Negro Army units, Trotter stated that any intention to destroy them on part of the Government, was denied. As to segregation of Negroes in Federal service, he reported that the President was of the opinion that such segregation did not exist on a large scale, but only where its existence made more employment available for colored men.

Representative Oscar DePriest and Dean Kelly Miller, of Howard University, will address the meeting tonight, as will Bishop W. J. Walls, of Chicago.

PINCHOT DEMANDS THAT U. S. AID IDLE

Pennsylvania Governor Also Hits Protection of Rich in Talk to Women.

A flat "demand" for Federal aid in the present unemployment emergency last night was left on the administration's threshold by Gov Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania.

Addressing the District of Columbia Women Voters at the Raleigh Hotel, he demanded Federal relief for the unemployed, and insisted that the Nation's wealthy be made to pay for it by "heavily graduated" income and inheritance taxes.

"Federal relief can be raised from the wealthy so that the purchasing power of the millions of average citizens will not suffer," he said. "Federal relief can be spent in such a way that unemployment and distress will be defeated and the entire Nation started well along the path to a permanent and balanced prosperity."

The local League of Woman Voters planned to put a speaker on the program who would sponsor local relief as opposed to Federal aid, but at the last minute announced a change of plans.

Street Urges Local Aid.

They presented, instead, Elwood Street, director of Washington's Community Chest, who made haste to declare he had no intention to offer himself as meat for "the lion from Pennsylvania."

He likened Gov. Pinchot to a weather forecaster predicting a drought, and himself to a farmer experiencing its results. Gov. Pinchot, evidently appeased, avoided an attack.

"Local relief," Gov. Pinchot said, "means making the poor man pay. Local relief serves to weaken further our national consuming power and block any hope of permanent recovery. Local relief is part of a vicious policy to shield concentrated wealth—a policy which brought on the depression and has kept it with us for two long years. Local relief means release for the rich, not relief for the poor."

The Governor of Pennsylvania, himself mentioned as a Republican presidential possibility, attacked the administration's relief program as inadequate, and denounced its reported plan for meeting the Treasury deficit with a selected sales tax as "simply another way of putting the burden on the men and women with small incomes."

Merely Protects Wealthy.

"The sales tax, like the Treasury plan to include smaller incomes under the income tax, is merely another device to shield the rich," he declared. "It is another way of seeing to it that concentrated wealth shall remain concentrated at any cost.

"I demand," he said, "that the tax rates on the upper bracket incomes be increased. In their name I demand that the graduation of the inheritance tax be steepened. And in their name I demand that the exemptions and the lower bracket tax rates be left untouched. To meddle with them is to trifle with disaster and to invite the depression to stay."

On one point Gov. Pinchot and Dr. Street agreed, although they came to loggerheads on none. Dr. Street said: "Unemployment is hell." The governor apparently was willing to let it stand at that.

Pinchot Would Give Idle Fourth of Gross Income

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The Pinchot-Davis correspondence over personal contributions to unemployment relief became more caustic today with the promise that the Pennsylvania governor would give one-fourth of his annual gross income.

The governor, giving his 1930 gross income as $52,650.46, dismissed as "fantastic" the senator's proposal that Gov. and Mrs. Pinchot and Senator and Mrs. Davis give their entire annual incomes. The proposal, he said, "was obviously not in good faith and requires no further attention."

From Washington, Senator Davis greeted the Pinchot promise with the terse statement, "P. T. Barnum, the master showman, also always had a way out."

The governor, saying he proposed to proceed without Davis, quoted United States Treasury Department figures as placing his 1930 net income at $37,139.49 and the gross at $52,650.46.

Census Bureau Cut Of 700 Announced

Separations in December Highest Since 1930 Count Began.

Approximately 700 employes of the Census Bureau will lose their positions by December 31, Director W. M. Stewart announced yesterday.

This number is the largest reduction made for any month since the tabulation of the 1930 decennial census began. By the first of the year the Census Bureau force will be down to 3,000, which is about half of the highest number employed during the peak of the work.

Of this number about 500 are the expirations of temporariy appointments, 30 are resigning and 170 are employes whose terms of employment expire during the month.

Director Stewart said practically every division will be affected by the reduction. Had the reductions not been made, he said, the bureau would have faced a $400,000 deficit at the end of next year.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

PROBABLY in future days long distant from the present some wise-cracking commentator will refer to next week in the local picture palaces as "the week of the great White plague!"

It is doubtful if when they started it the Warner Brothers' publicists expected their "Blonde Week" to spread to others of the downtown, first-run houses, but whatever their expectations may have been Marjorie White will open a week of personal appearances at the Fox Theater on Friday next, getting away to a one day's lead over Alice White, who, on Saturday, comes into the Earle for a similar period of song, dance, jest and what have you?

Each of these vibrant young blondes avails herself of the assistance of a stage partner and both rely to large extent upon the "pepper" inherent in their natures to get them "over" to the audience.

Marjorie White you will, of course, recall as that hoydenish young comedienne in several of the more ebullient of the productions emanating from the Fox lot—including "Sunny Side Up," with Farrell and Gaynor, the "Fox Movietone Follies" and "Just Imagine," and Alice White you will naturally remember as the former script girl who made her screen debut with Milton Sills in "The Sea Tiger" and then achieved stardom under First National guidance until the Warner executives guessed wrong and let her get away. Now they are trying to get her back—so I am told—for no other reason than that her tour of personal appearances has proved that she has a definite and a loyal and profitable following among the fans.

Well, it ought to be a nice race, but you will have to make your own odds!

It is gratifying to record that the Saturday afternoon and evening repetitions of "The Real Hollywood," Burton Holmes' highly diverting pictured travel revue of the film capital, at the National Theater, attracted large audiences, precisely as this column predicted it would five weeks ago. (Adv.)

A quartet of expert stage craftsmen share honor in the success of "The House Beautiful," the romantic drama which comes to the Belasco Theater next Monday night.

First, credit for making this splendid production goes to Crosby Gaige, an outstanding figure among Broadway showmen, who in past years has personally sponsored such successes as "The Enemy," "Silence," "The Butter and Egg Man," "The Shannons of Broadway," and "Beware of Widows."

Second honors go to Channing Pollock, the author, for his well written play, which critics have acclaimed one of the best representative dramas since O'Neill's "Strange Interlude." "The House Beautiful" is but another link in the chain of successes in Channing Pollock's great record as a dramatist, for it was he who wrote "The Fool," "The Enemy," "The Sign on the Door," "Roads of Destiny," "Little Grey Lady" and "Such a Little Queen."

The third deserving compliment is none other than Worthington Miner, who directed the production. Mr. Miner was the master hand who staged "Up Pops the Devil" and "Five Star Final," two of last season's biggest hits, and he also had a hand in the direction of "The Front Page" and "Uncle Vanya."

Last, but not least, special mention is due Jo Mielziner, scenic designer, for his perfect stage settings and his mechanical solution of quick changes of full stage sets in total darkness, without the use of the revolving stage.

I'm glad to hear that about the revolving stage. The last one we had here didn't do so well!

Katharine Cornell will act the role of Elizabeth Barrett in Rudolf Besier's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" in the Empire Theater, New York, for the 300th time on December 5. This includes her performances in Cleveland and Buffalo.

There are at present four companies appearing in the Besier drama. The London company, which gave the premiere of the play at the Malvern festival on August 20, 1930, has presented it in the Queen's Theater continuously since September 23, 1930. Another company is playing the English provinces, and a third, Sir Barry Jackson's English repertory company, is now touring Canada.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer evidently have no intention of letting the grass grow under their feet or the feet of any of their players. Shooting schedules in the West Coast studios of the company indicate that production is at its peak. Six new pictures will start production within the next fortnight.

Among those now in work are "Courage," "Tarzan," starring Johnny Weissmuller; "Freaks," "City Sentinel" and "Emma," starring Marie Dressler, supported by Jean Hersholt, Myrna Loy and a stellar cast. In preparation are "Arsene Lupin," "Polly of the Circus," "The Wet Parade" and others yet untitled.

"Arsene Lupin" and "Polly of the Circus" sound strangely like a resurrection of the stage of two decades or so ago—or don't you remember?

This fellow Benny Davis, whose "Birthday Party Revue," featuring the Broadway stars of tomorrow, is one of the oldsters of the younger school—if you know what I mean—who by dint of a keen sense of showmanship, unusual endowment as a composer of hit ballads and a vast enthusiasm for his work and that of his juvenile associates, always manages to keep his acts 'way out in front.

Benny has not only written single song successes, but has composed entire musical comedy scores, "Sons o' Guns," for instance, created acts, sat in on revues, been a night club proprietor and in addition is by way of being quite a piano-playing-and-singing comedian on his own account.

Besides all that, he is a right guy, devoted to a charming and talented wife.

Remind me to drop in on him this afternoon, will you please?

Well, I see May—this is a month I'm talking about, not a moll, you dope—is back again, but that was certainly a tough winter we had while it lasted!

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

By NELSON B. BELL

"ZIEGFELD FOLLIES OF 1931." Ziegfeld, Ltd., presents a revue in two acts and twenty-two scenes, with music and sketches by Gene Buck, Mark Hellinger, J. P. Murray, Barry Trivers and Ben Oakland, Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, Mack Gordon and Harry Revel and Dimitri Tiomkin. Dances staged by Bobby Connolly; dialogue by Edward C. Lilley. Rasch numbers staged by Albertina Rasch; scenery by Joseph Urban. Produced by Florenz Ziegfeld, assisted by Gene Buck, featuring Harry Richman, Jack Pearl, Mitzi Mayfair, Hal Le Roy, Gladys Glad, Frank and Milt Britton and "Gang," Wini Shaw, Dorothy Dell, Cliff Hall, Jack Hubert, Joe Toner and George Lamar. At the National Theater.

Mr. Ziegfeld, in addition to a keen eye for feminine beauty and striking pictorial effect, possesses a surprising change of pace.

Abandoning for the nonce the dignified and colorful pageantry that has characterized so many of his previous productions in the same series, in his current, or twenty-third, edition of his celebrated revue he has gone in lustily for almost ceaseless motion, clattering dances, smashing tunes and high-power and sometimes risque sketches. Only occasionally does he revert to the placid beauty and stately dances that laid major stress upon the genius of Joseph Urban and the grace of Terpsichorean artists fashioned to the classic mold. The "Follies of 1931" is a rapid, rollicking, roistering revue gaited to the syncopated frenzy of a wild era in the theater.

With the penchant for pulchritude that has become his trade-mark, the "old master" opens and closes his revue with a stage swarming with beautiful girls. At the very beginning Faith Bacon, famous for her fan dance in a similar gaucherie under rival auspices, portrays "The Spirit of the Follies" in the bold glare of a revealing spotlight, but the promise is not wholly kept. Mr. Ziegfeld has seen fit not to exceed the limits of latter-day stage propriety in the matter of cutaneous display.

He has seen fit, also, to assemble a corps of principals, highly skilled in the purveyance of those elements of entertainment in which the public revels. Harry Richman is a tower of strength as straight man, monologist, character comedian, black-out artist and singer. Jack Pearl supplies a priceless comedy note in a dialect strongly reminiscent—at least to the old-timers in the audience—of Sam Bernard, whom he impersonates in one scene. Wini Shaw acquits herself with far more than average credit in some of the songs originally sung by Ruth Etting, which, by the way, she sings after the manner of Helen Morgan. Nieta Goodelle does the others. A full-voiced double male sextet lends vocal body to more than one scene, and Frank and Milt Britton and their lunatic band put on their cataclysmic interlude that ends with the apparent demolishment of every one concerned and all their instruments. Gladys Glad is a vision of blonde loveliness who threads her way through the movement of the two acts in all manner of divestitures, divertissements and disguises—and so it goes down a long list impossible to catalogue in its entirety.

Two such dancers as the youthful Miss Mitzi Mayfair and the juvenile Mr. Hal Le Roy will not be seen again until this same precious pair return to our local boards in this or some other offering. They are two incomparable youngsters whose agility, sense of rhythm, speed and coordination are seen only once in a generation.

The skits are frequent and amusing, "Broadway Reverie," reviving glimpses of the Broadway that is gone; "In Africa," a burlesque of "Trader Horn," and "Victim of the Talkies" are no less pungent and pointed than the earlier travesty of "Grand Hotel." None concerns itself too much with decorum.

The two most striking sets are the "Sunny Southern Smile" scene and the "Buckingham Palace" ensemble in which a stunning effect is obtained by garbing the entire chorus in the shakos, red jackets and kilts of the Highlanders. The most bizarre ensemble dances are the "Fandango-Bolero" and the "Illusion in White," by the Albertina Rasch girls.

Harry Richman's best numbers are "Help Yourself to Happiness," "Doing the New York" and "I'm With You," with Wini Shaw, and "Clinching the Sale," with Dorothy Dell. Miss Dell scores individually with "Was I Drunk, Was He Sore and Did My Mother Give Me Hell," and "The Picture Bride."

Altogether a revue which lives up to most of its advance notices, as was made plain by the first capacity audience of the season—an enthusiastic horde that roared its incessant approval throughout the evening, thus saving this department a vast amount of effort and a pair of bruised palms!

GAYETY

"THE TALLY-HO GIRLS." A presentation of the Columbia Mutual Burlesque Association with Johanna Slade, Eddie Lloyd and George Carroll. Fritzi White and Marie Oliver as guest stars for this engagement only. Reviewed Monday night by William L. Wright.

Several times each season there comes to this popular playhouse an attraction that has nothing very spectacular to boast about, but is excellent entertainment nevertheless. Such is the "Tally-Ho Girls," now playing at Jimmy Lake's emporium on Ninth street.

The comedy is new and funny. Eddie Lloyd and George Carroll play their parts well and cause outbursts of spontaneous laughter in all parts of the house. Jack Ward, Milton Hamilton and Johnnie Goodman appear in many of the comedy skits and are apt foils for Lloyd and Carroll.

"Rambling Rosie," "Barnum Was Right" and "Taking a Talkie" were well staged and offer a brand of humor that makes a big hit.

This show can boast of an unusually large array of feminine leads, seven to be exact, and all good to look at. To choose any one or two for special mention would be unfair to the others as the graceful dancing and catchy songs offered by all can hardly be surpassed.

Tall Johanna Slade, a platinum blonde, little Angeles Lee, a pretty brunette, and graceful Charbie Bonneau were particular favorites as evidenced by the applause following their many numbers. A toe dance by Virginia Wheeler was gracefully executed while Madelyne La Verne can certainly play a hot piano-accordian. The work of the guest stars, Fritzi White and Marie Oliver, while not having the dash and sparkle of other guest stars, received much well-earned applause.

U. S. Seeks Hippodrome Enjoyment.

Kansas City, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—America has drifted toward the Roman or hippodrome type of enjoyment rather than toward the Greek, wherein those who enjoyed were those who participated, Dr. E. H. Lindley, chancellor of the University of Kansas, said in an address here today.

CURES PUT FORWARD AT JOBLESS PARLEY

Norman Thomas, Dewey and Minneapolis Mayor Suggest Plans.

"The cure for unemployment lies in planned production and distribution for use, not profits, which is socialism," declared Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, yesterday, speaking at the luncheon of the conference on the unemployment program for Congress now in progress at the Hamilton Hotel.

Mr. Thomas went on to say that progressives must set themselves like flint against any effort to get "us out of depression by having us finance and outfit war between Japan and China."

"Unrestricted trade with Japan, if Japan persists as an aggressor nation is not neutrality but economic alliance," he continued. "It is not the road to peace but to war."

Dewey Warns of Violence.

Other speakers on the opening day of the two-day conference included Prof. John Dewey and Mayor William A. Anderson, of Minneapolis.

In scoring the Government Prof. Dewey said: "Up to the present time, when asked for bread it has given only words with which it has been most generous. And, to all appearance, if its inaction drives men in despair to violence, it is getting ready to give them bullets instead of forestalling violence by constructive aid."

Mayor Anderson said in part:

"Various proposals have been submitted whereby the Government should issue bonds in the aggregate of billions of dollars, the proceeds thereof to be loaned to the farmers of the Northwest. Frankly, I am of the opinion that the farm problem must be solved in some other way. The farmer of the Northwest today is suffering from too much credit rather than too little.

"My proposal is that as quickly as possible the national Government should eliminate all tariffs from goods that are now protected.

During the afternoon a committee from the conference met several senators and representatives in the room of the Senate committee on Indian affairs to discuss the best methods to get the legislative program of the committee on unemployment enacted.

Long Work Day Denounced.

Louis Waldman, of the public affairs committee of the Socialist party, discussing the "short day and week," said that in the steel industry as a whole in 1929 the average work week was 54.6 hours, and "cotton manufacturing, automobiles and many other industries still compel their workers to toil nine and ten hours a day," while in New York hundreds of thousands of workers, including 35,000 transit employes, are employed 60 hours a week. The shorter the work day and week can be accomplished only by Federal and State legislation."

Dr. I. M. Rubinow, secretary of B'Nai B'rith, of Cincinnati, said that four things must be done in the present crisis: "1. Immediate relief must be provided because the efforts of the Community Chests and local governments are insufficient. 2. Effective measures must be taken to facilitate recovery from the present crisis. 3. Prevention of similar crises in the future must be considered. 4. The most effective way to meet the certain future depressions is a system of unemployment insurance, and the Federal Government can do a great deal to stimulate State systems of unemployment insurance throughout the country."

Churches to Plan Chest Cooperation

Protestant Subcommittee Will Map Organization Tonight.

Definite plans of organization of the Protestant churches of the city will be discussed at tonight's meeting of the Protestant subcommittee of the Community Chest committee on church cooperation at Calvary Baptist Church, Eighth and H streets northwest. Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, pastor of the First Congregational Church, will preside. Representatives of all Protestant churches will be welcome.

Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, will outline the plan embracing the work of all churches, after which the plan of organization will be taken up. The purpose is to avoid duplication of effort, not alone among the various denominations, but also between the churches and the social agencies. The committee will make an effort to place before each in their groups the importance of consulting the Chest in handling cases which appeal to them for aid. They will be taught the use of the Social Service Exchange and the use of the tickets issued by the Chest for adequate relief for any applicant.

Tonight's meeting is one of a series being held by Catholic, Protestant and Jewish committees for the purpose of developing better cooperation between the churches and the Chest agencies in the carrying out of the city's social work program.

We recommend a General Electric Refrigerator as one of the BEST INVESTMENTS YOU CAN MAKE.

A General Electric is a guaranteed investment! For three whole years the complete refrigerator is guaranteed against service expense. The average investment pays you only a money dividend, that is dependent upon varying conditions. A General Electric pays you regular guaranteed dividends of time, labor, health, happiness and money! You can not lose! But you need not take our word for this. Ask any one of the thousands of satisfied owners. Come to our display rooms and learn the facts for yourself. See the many models—a size and type for every use. Compare the General Electric with any and all the others. Let us show you why the General Electric is in every way superior to other electric refrigerators. Then you will know why there should be a General Electric in your home. We use no high-pressure sales talks, make no absurd claims. We say that General Electric Refrigerators are the best electric refrigerators on the market—and we can prove this to your satisfaction!

It is easy to own a General Electric Refrigerator. A modest down payment from your Christmas Savings will install your choice of models in your home. Small monthly payments from income pay the balance. Savings from perfect preservation of food and freedom from service expense will aid in making these payments. Investigate our easy payment plans now.

There is no installation expense to a General Electric. It is delivered, placed in the desired place and attached to the nearest electric floor plug. Immediately you enjoy all the benefits of the best electrical refrigeration. Your food is kept in an unvarying temperature of below 50°. You may leave town for the week-end and find your food perfectly preserved on your return. The freezing compartment, kept at a temperature of 20° to 25°, will enable you to enjoy many frozen desserts that were impossible before. The joys of owning a General Electric are endless.

The Monitor Top, in which all mechanism is hermetically sealed in oil, assures you of continuous perfect service. Sliding shelves, acid-resisting interior of spotless porcelain, the roomy, all-steel cabinet, the simple modern lines, are only a few of the features of the General Electric—the refrigerator you will choose when you buy wisely this Christmas.

AN INVITATION TO THE SECOND NATIONAL ELECTRICAL SHOW

The tremendous interest aroused by the first "National" Electrical Show and the favorable comment of our many friends prompt us to announce the SECOND "NATIONAL" ELECTRICAL SHOW —running from November 27th to December 5th, inclusive.

We invite you to visit us. We promise you an interesting time. See and hear a demonstration of Washington's new and up-to-date Radio System for Police Scout Cars. HARVARD AND PITT PLACE 2 ON ALL-EAST ELEVEN

Wood, Booth Selected in Back Field

Associated Press Also Names Viviano and Hinkle as Backs.

Orsi, of Colgate, and Riblett, Penn, Win End Positions.

RATED as the East's two strongest football teams, Harvard and Pittsburgh each place two representatives on the 1931 All-Eastern team selected by the Associated Press, presented herewith today. The consensus of experts selecting the team finds the remaining seven positions filled with representatives of other outstanding Eastern elevens.

Barry Wood, outstanding quarter back of the year, and Henry Myerson, guard, were selected from the brilliant Harvard Crimson which was defeated only in its final game by Yale. The Pittsburgh Panthers place two from their great forward wall, Jim McCurdo, tackle, and Ralph Daugherty, center.

Wood Selected for Quarter.

Wood was selected over Bill Morton, quarter back and forward pass specialist of Dartmouth; Parker, of Yale; Ferraro, of Cornell; O'Connell, of Holy Cross, and Hewitt and Montgomery, of Columbia, all of whom received votes from the experts. Wood's steadiness under fire, his judgment in directing Harvard offense, his superfine passing and his accurate place-kicking for extra points were the qualities that impressed the experts.

Paul Riblett, who is a track star as well as Pennsylvania's best football end, and John Orsi, Colgate's crack flankman, won the positions at the wings over such stellar ends as Jose Martinez-Zorilla, of Cornell; Cavalieri and Colucci, of Holy Cross; Donner, of Dartmouth; Corres, of Yale; King, of Army; Sawyer, of Brown, and Hugret, of New York U.

McMurdo and Price, in the tackle positions, held an edge over an equally large number of competitors for the honor team, prominent among whom were Sokolis and Colehower, of Pennsylvania; Chris Martinez-Zorilla, of Cornell; Sadausky, of Western Maryland; Concannon, of New York University; Quates, of Pittsburgh; Hardy, of Harvard; Wilbur, of Yale; Mackesey, of Brown, and Lombard, of Syracuse.

Dubofsky, G. U., Receives Votes.

Maurice Dubofsky, Georgetown's great guard and captain, received a number of votes for one of the guard positions, which finally were awarded to Myerson and Zyntell, of Harvard and Holy Cross, respectively. Others receiving votes for the guard berths were Underwood, of Navy; Trice, of Army, and Rotan, of Yale.

Daugherty, of Pittsburgh, won the center position in competition with MacDuffee, of Columbia; Penny, of Cornell; Ducanis, of Carnegie Tech; Tuttle, of Navy; Chalmers, of New York University; Hawley, of Davis and Elkins, and Downes, of Boston College.

Hinkle, of Bucknell, in the fullback job, beat out Abee, of New York University; Perina, of Pennsylvania, and Grossman, of Rutgers.

Half backs who contested the selections of Booth, of Yale, and Viviano, of Cornell, were Kline, of Cornell; Crowley and Lassiter, of Yale; R. McNamara, of New York University; Murphy, of Fordham; Moran and Fishel, of Syracuse; Heller and Reider, of Pittsburgh; Crickard, of Harvard; McCall, of Dartmouth; Battles, of West Virginia Wesleyan, and Wilson, of Washington and Jefferson.

Player.	Position.	School.
Daugherty	Center	Pittsburgh
Zyntell	Right guard	Holy Cross
Price	Right tackle	Army
Orsi	Right end	Colgate
Wood	Quarter back	Harvard
Booth	Left half	Yale
Viviano	Right half	Cornell
Hinkle	Full back	Bucknell

Outstanding Gridmen Selected on Associated Press' 1931 All-Eastern Eleven

30 Central Tossers Seek Berths on Team

Central High School's basketball squad began its tuning up for the high school series and subsidiary games yesterday afternoon, with Bert Coggins, recently relieved of football tutoring, at the helm once more. A covey of about 30 players are seeking berths.

Central, which divided the high school championship with Eastern last year, will be without the services of Downey Rice, center; Henry Broadbent, all-high guard, and Ed DeLisio, guard, all of whom have graduated. Back in harness will be Bill Burke, forward; Frank Cumberland and Gene Swift, guards.

MARINES OUT TO DOWN BEARS

Coast Guards, Choice, Promised Battle in Cup Game.

ALTHOUGH the Marines are likely to be on the short end of the odds when they tackle the unbeaten Coast Guard eleven in the President's Cup game Saturday at Griffith Stadium, their past record in the cup series is such that they certainly have a chance to upset the hopes of the Bears. The Leathernecks have played for the cup six times and have won it every time but once, no matter what kind of a previous record they had.

Three times the Marines trimmed the Army representative before finally losing to Navy in 1928. Following their success over the Leathernecks, the Navy withdrew from cup competition and the Coast Guard Team replaced them, following an official invitation from President Hoover to enter the competition.

Guards Have Yet to Beat Devil Dogs.

The Guardsmen know that the Marines are mighty tough to beat, for they haven't beaten them yet. In 1929 they went down to defeat by 19 to 0 and last fall the Marines again took them into camp, but only by 7 to 0. Their improved showing in these two games and their most impressive record this fall has installed them the favorite.

In the game last year neither team was able to do anything to the other and it looked like a scoreless tie would result, but the Marines finally were able to shake loose Bobby Gotko, their speedy ball carrier, who galloped 39 yards to a winning touchdown behind some perfect blocking by his team mates.

This year, however, the Marines have no Gotko, as he has been transferred to Parris Island, but they are hoping that history can repeat itself so that they can shake one of their other speedy backs away for a decisive dash.

The Leathernecks' record this fall:

Marines, 32; Navy Apprentice School, 0.
Marines, 14; St. Thomas College, 7.
Marines, 0; Langley Field, 0.
Marines, 18; Campbell College, 0.
Marines, 76; Fort Dupont, 6.
Marines, 51; Baltimore Firemen, 6.
Marines, 41; Carlisle Barracks, 0.
Marines, 20; Gallaudet, 12.
Marines, 0; American Legion (Philadelphia), 14.
Marines, 0; Davis-Elkins, 7.
Marines, 13; John Carroll, 0.

Notre Dame Hails Vanquished Team

5,000 Students and Citizens Greet Beaten Squad With Cheers.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Notre Dame today welcomed back her twice vanquished football team with a riotous greeting usually reserved for her conquering elevens. Five thousand students and citizens of South Bend participated in the reception.

Classes were dismissed and the students gathered at the campus postoffice from which they marched in a body to the railroad station, three miles distant, to await the arrival of the fighting gridiron heroes who fell in defeat before the Army Saturday.

As the players hopped off the train, they were greeted enthusiastically and escorted through the streets of South Bend to the Notre Dame campus. Notre Dame traditionally meets her grid team as the players return from the clash with the Army and the greeting today was no less colorful or sincere than on victorious arrivals in the past.

Canzoneri to Risk Title With Singer

Singer has been waging a comeback campaign since Canzoneri stripped him of his title in one round in the Garden in November of 1930. After knocking out Sammy Mandell to gain the championship in a round, Singer withstood only one punch, a left hook that flattened him completely, in his brief engagement with Canzoneri.

GIBSON TO BE MANAGER OF PIRATES

Coached Washington in 1923; Succeeds Jewel Ens.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The managerial reins of the Pittsburgh Pirates today were turned over to George Gibson, Mount Bridges, Ontario, former pilot of the Buccaneers.

Gibson managed the Chicago Cubs five years ago and since his retirement has been spending his time on his farm near Mount Bridges.

He formerly managed the Pirates in the spring of 1920 in succession of Hugo Bezdek, now physicial director at Penn State College. He first cast his lot with the Bucs in 1905 after being purchased in 1904 from the Montreal club of the old Eastern League.

Starred as Catcher Until 1915.

Gibson starred as at catcher until the end of the 1915 race, leaving the club in 1916. The next two years saw him as coach of the New York Giants.

In 1919 he was manager of the Toronto club of the International League. He left the Pirates in the middle of the 1922 season and the next year was coach of the Washington American League club. He was out of baseball in 1924 but returned to the wars in 1925 as coach under Managers Bill Killifer and Rabbit Maranville of the Cubs.

Gibson retired in 1926 when Joe McCarthy was named Cubs' manager.

Boston Col. Denies Game Was 'Racket'

Retraction of Broadcast Following Charity Game Is Demanded.

Boston, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The Boston College Athletic Association today sent a formal protest to Lowell Thomas, radio news broadcaster, against his alleged statement that the Boston College-Holy Cross football game was a "racket." The statement was alleged to have been made by Thomas in his broadcast over a Nation-wide hook-up last Saturday night.

Only 24,000 persons attended and the receipts were approximately $12,000 less to each college than in other years.

In Curley's message to Thomas he said:

"Boston College and Holy Cross play their annual game on the Saturday following Thanksgiving Day at Fenway Park, which seats over 32,000. The game is generally a sell-out, and as many as 43,000 have attended. This year, at the request of the Mayor of Boston, and through the kindness of President Lowell, of Harvard, the game was transferred to Harvard Stadium, where 60,000 can be accommodated. The two colleges were to receive the returns on 32,000 tickets, pay all expenses and every cent over the return on these tickets was to be turned over to charity.

"If the game went over as expected, over $75,000 could have been realized for charity. As it is, Boston College and Holy Cross stand to take a severe loss and here at Boston College the receipts of this game carry our entire athletic program, which now faces a heavy deficit.

"We do not conscientiously believe we were sponsoring any 'racket' and think your remarks on last Saturday evening were a gross misrepresentation of the facts and figures and of a most libelous nature."

Kid Chocolate Arrested After His K. O. Victory

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Kid Chocolate, Cuban lightweight star, came back from his failure to win the 135-pound title from Tony Canzoneri and knocked out Maxis Leiner, of New York, tonight in the first round of a 10-round bout at the St. Nicholas arena.

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Following his knockout victory over Maxie Leiner in the St. Nicholas Arena tonight, Kid Chocolate, Cuban lightweight, was arrested and taken to the Federal Detention House on West street to await extradition to Havana on an assault charge pending against him there.

CAREER SEEN AT END FOR BOOTH

Yale Star Is Sent to Sanitarium With Lung Infection.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 30 (U.P.).—Albie Booth, the "mighty midget" who captained Yale's 1931 big three championship football team and who for two years has been a star on Yale's varsity basketball and baseball teams, may never engage in athletic competition again.

As revealed exclusively by the United Press today, Booth's illness, developed while he still was celebrating a long-sought football victory over Harvard, is more serious than has been revealed. The Yale star is suffering from pleurisy with effusion, an infection of the lung covering, resulting in a serious lung disease "80 per cent of the time," according to medical authorities.

Yale Minimizes His Ailment.

Yale officials have made a strenuous effort to minimize Booth's ailment, but after the United Press announced the exact nature of the illness and that Booth probably would have to retire to a sanatorium to recuperate, the following official statement was released by the university's department of health:

"The health department of Yale University, realizing the general interest in the condition of Albert J. Booth, jr., with his consent, wishes to make it known that Booth developed pleurisy with effusions on November 25. It seems wise to treat him conservatively and within a short time he will go to the Gaylord Farms Sanatorium in Wallingsford, Conn., for a period of rest.

"There is no evidence of any trouble with his lungs."

Dr. Lyman Authority On Lung Diseases.

Although Booth is a headstrong youth and may indulge in athletics after his release, physicians say participation in any strenuous sport would endanger his health permanently. He has been in training for one sport or another ever since his high school days and the strain has taxed his small but robust physique.

Revenge Aim Of Old Line Gridmen

Injuries Help Wreck Team That Won in 1929, 1930.

By JACK ESPEY.

THEY are singing the blues, those Green Terrors up at Western Maryland College, and sadly they view the coming Saturday when they must meet Maryland's Terrapins in the Baltimore Stadium.

A study of the facts shows quite clearly just why the Terrors feel so bad, and one might sympathize with them if one happens not to be a Terrapin supporter. Out at College Park, where the Terrapins are girding for the fray, the boys look forward to a day of revenge. They anticipate ample balm for the stinging defeats the Terrors handed them in 1929 and last year.

In the center of the gloomy picture up at Westminster, the Terror stronghold, is a woeful lack of backs where once Coach Dick Harlow had them by the carload. Injuries and graduations have cut into the ball-toting ranks like a mammoth cleaver, reducing the number Harlow can call upon to a mere five.

Hopes Depending On Quintet.

The quintet on whom Western Maryland must depend are Floyd Doughty, Raleigh Brown, Carl Jones, Howard Bolton and Harold Koppe. One of them will have the doubtful distinction of being the lone back field reserve. Just how Harlow will employ them is a problem he is yet unable to answer, but it is thought likely that he will hold Koppe, a mighty line plunger, in reserve.

Also figuring in the sad situation is the fact that some of Harlow's best linemen are not in the best of condition. Among them is Capt. Tiny Pincura, 210-pound tackle. John O'Lear, another veteran tackle, also is ailing.

The injury jinx struck Western Maryland following its game with Georgetown on October 3 and the Terrors never once have flashed the fine football that marked their 1930 season.

Subsequent to the losing performance against Georgetown, they lost to Washington and Jefferson and Boston College, and the best they could do against Duquesne and Loyola was to hold the opposition to a tie.

Lou Little Names All-American Team

By LOU LITTLE
(Head football coach, Columbia U.)
Written especially for the Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—After looking the field over and talking with other coaches who have come here from all parts of the country, these are my selections for the 1931 All-America Football Team.

Position.	Player.	School.
L. E.	John Orsi	Colgate
L. T.	Irad B. Hardy, jr.	Harvard
L. G.	Clarence Munn,	Minnesota
C.	William McDuffee,	Columbia
R. G.	John W. Baker,	S. Calif.
R. T.	John M. Price	Army
R. E.	Gerald Dalrymple,	Tulane
Q. B.	Eugene McEver,	Tennessee
L. H.	M. Schwartz,	Notre Dame
R. H.	Erny Pinckert	S. Calif.
F. B.	E. Rentner	Northwestern

Perhaps I should explain why I picked McEver instead of either Barry Wood, of Harvard, or Bill Morton, of Dartmouth for quarter back. It's simple enough to me—he is a better all-around back.

Wood is a fine field general, but neither he nor Morton compares with McEver as a runner and blocker. The Tennessee boy also can pass and kick, if necessary, and he has had greater experience, in my opinion, calculated to make him a first-rate field general. Besides he came back after a year's layoff to play great ball.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

DECEMBER 12 will be bargain day for Washington football fans. For the price of one admission, the varsities of Georgetown, George Washington and Catholic universities will be on view, arrayed against the Alabama Rose Bowl team which made history in the Tournament of Roses last year.

"Shoot the works" will be the theme of the attack of the Washington teams against the Southerners, who were unbeaten last year. No need any longer to hold back surprise plays for future games on the schedule. Every play in their repertoires will be at the command of Coaches Tom Mills, Jim Pixlee and Dutch Bergman. Scouts have hibernated for the winter and offensive strategy may be safely displayed.

The three Washington institutions which will face the Alabama team in three distinct 20-minute games; each will be shooting the works in an effort to gain recognition as best of the local college group. This much-mooted question will be up for final and decisive decision on December 12 at Griffith Stadium and all three are keen to establish their claims which will have direct bearing on the competition for the attendance of Washington fans at next season's games. They meet on a parity December 12 against a common foe.

No need to waste sympathy on the Alabama team that is to face all three Washington varsities. The Crimson Tide squad which the Alabama coaches are bringing here for the game shapes up as vastly superior to any of the local elevens. The fact that the Alabamans will face fresh teams imposes no great hardship on the Southerners, who have been allowed the free use of substitutes without regard to rules restrictions.

Alabama will bring the greatest team ever to invade Washington. The fact that many of the players have been out of college a year is offset by the fact that most of them have been active as coaches and are in condition to play.

The invading team differs from the usual collection of all-star players. The debacle of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen, marshaled again for a charity game in New York last year, is still fresh in the memory of this column. The Horsemen were powerless against the New York pros. But the Horsemen were six years removed from their halcyon days of 1924. With the invading Alabama Team it will be merely a case of polishing up the same plays that were used last year to beat back every opponent and then crush Washington State, 24-0, in the Rose Bowl.

Tom Mills is the author of the best story about dumb football players. He tells of an especially thick-headed candidate for the team who muffed every play, missed most of the singles and otherwise threw the coach into a panic.

The squad was not dismissed from practice one day until long after dusk and the dense young man was wending his way home alone. As he crossed a small stream on a bridge that was probably rustic, he gazed down into the river and saw there the reflection of the moon.

Puzzled, the young man halted to admire the phenomenon. Then, hailing a passerby, he asked, pointing into the stream, "Is that the moon down there?" Told that it was the moon beyond a doubt, the player scratched his head, gazed inquiringly at his informant and muttered, "Then howinell did I get up here!"

Organized Cheering Yells As Practiced by Colleges Shame Childish Gibberish

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Organized cheering, as practiced in the United States, especially in the colleges and most vociferously on football occasions, seems to be a development of the European operatic claque. The claque, however, was organized as an artificial stimulus to the career of the artist, on whose behalf it created a laudatory uproar, whereas the original intent of organized, or merely concerted, cheering in sport in this country was not constructive. The intent was to rattle the opposing pitcher in baseball.

An authority on the opera, connected with the Metropolitan Opera House, reports that a nervous lady, lacking confidence on the eve of an important appearance in Florence in 1820, obtained tickets for about 50 of her friends, who were seated among the audience. At appropriate moments during the performance they did their duty, and a doubtful enterprise became an artistic triumph. Subsequently anticlaques were organized in Italy to meet every cheer with a hiss, and these are said to have become a great nuisance. I am not an authority on the state of the opera in Italy, however, and submit this merely as reliable hearsay.

It may be assuming too much to say that the originators of the American cheering system consciously borrowed their principle from the lady in Florence. But certainly the principle was not original with them, for organized cheering was not conducted at sports events as recently as 1877, when intercollegiate sport was just beginning, and A. Lawrence Lowell, the present president of Harvard, was an undergraduate. Dr. Lowell confided to a convention of musicians in Boston in 1911 that organized cheering was his idea of the worst means ever invented to slow emotion and added that it was virtually unknown when he was in college. However, it might be added that the occasion for it had not yet become apparent to the students, because intercollegiate football was less than ten years old and not much exploited at the time of his graduation.

Woodrow Wilson, who is said to have been a football coach in the very early days of the game as an intramural sport, did not enter a controversy with the president of Harvard on the sense or absurdity of premeditated cheering, but, in discussing President Lowell's remarks, one of the thoughtful magaines of the day dragged in an observation of Dr. Wilson to the effect that five years was time enough to mature a tradition in the American college. We grow our moss and ivy in forcing beds in this country. Wine is aged in 30 days, as against the years required for the same purpose on the other side, 30 minutes is a venerable age for gin.

Rockne, Fearing Reaction, Foresaw Two 1931 Defeats

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne eight months ago foresaw the break that was bound to come in the march of Notre Dame's football forces, checked by Southern California and routed by Army.

"Don't expect us to keep up the pace we have set in the past two seasons," Rockne told the Associated Press at Miami, Fla., in one of his last chats on football. "In the first place, we have lost key men like Carideo and Brill. Secondly, there's always a reaction to any winning streak that may come at any time. Finally, our opposition for 1931 is going to be unusually tough.

"I would not be surprised if we lost two, maybe three games to teams like Northwestern, Southern California and Army."

Rockne's death did not prevent similar views from being held by his successors, Jesse Harper and Hunk Anderson, but through the early stages of the 1931 campaign and well on into November it seemed Notre Dame was "on fire" and headed toward another unbeaten season. Consequently the machine's sharp decline, starting with the final quarter of the game with U. S. C., caught the football world by surprise.

The answer, as gathered from about a score of famous coaches who watched the Army's decisive victory in astonishment, is that "the inspiration ran out," from the combined effects of a stiff schedule and the last-period defeat of Southern California.

As to West Point, Lou Little, of Columbia, voiced a consensus of views when he remarked: "No team and no system would have looked good against the Cadets. It wasn't so much that the Army adopted the

Minors Seek Majors' Aid By 'Farms' and Radio Pool

WEST BADEN, Ind., Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Radio revenue and a modified program of the celebrated "farm system" of baseball may keep America's minor leagues from going over the hill to the poor house.

Both proposals were advanced today as the leaders of sixteen surviving minor circuits went into frequent huddles to discuss means of weathering perhaps the gravest financial crisis in their baseball experiences.

Under one propsal, the major league clubs would be asked to charge the radio broadcasting stations so much for broadcasting privileges, the proceeds of which would be lumped into one pool and doled out to the most needy minor leagues and clubs. The proponents of this plan suggested that radio broadcasts of major leagues were exceedingly harmful to minor league attendances, and that it would only be fair to ask the radio stations to help them out through the major league clubs.

Dale Gear, president of the Western League, was author of the modified farm system under which each major league club would contribute $500 or $600 monthly during the playing season to a sponsored minor league team with the privilege of selecting two players each season.

"By doing this both the major league and minor league clubs would receive benefits," Gear said. "It would not be a farm system except in a modified form. My suggestion would be that for the $500 or $600 monthly the major league club would be given a choice of the first best prospect and the third most promising prospect, giving the minor league owner a chance to sell the second best."

Gear said he planned to submit the plan to Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of organized baseball, despite the knowledge that it has been the commissioner who has fought the farm system in every shape and form.

PILATE ROMPS HOME AS CHARITY RACES END BOWIE MEET

Cooney's Colt Wins by 3 Lengths

Blind Lane Is Second as Slim Crowd Sees Races in Rain.

Horatia Wins First Race; Faylin Best in Final Event.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 30.—Bowie lowered the curtain on Eastern racing today in the rain, with a muddy track, by putting Maryland race tracks over the $100,000 mark in contributions for charity. Ten thousand people were here for the finish, fighting for long shots and charity, and were successful in both.

Featuring the program was the Belvedere Hotel Handicap, and E. F. Cooney's Pilate, the even-money choice, returned to good form by winning, leading the mile and seventy yards, with Jockey Ambrose up. Goodstone Stable's Blind Lane was second, beaten three lengths, but leaving Foxcatcher Farm's Frigate Bird four lengths back for third. Bonnie Prince, coupled with Pilate, was fourth.

Gate, Mutuel Take and Tax Go to Fund.

Going to the unemployment fund of Maryland were the gate receipts, everybody paying admission; 8 per cent on the money handled in the mutuels, which for the first four races totaled $171,431, and the State tax for one day, an additional $6,000, which was to be refunded by the Maryland Racing Commission.

Success has marked the entire racing season in Maryland this fall and Bowie has passed all records for the Prince Georges track. It was an act to commend that so many people disregarded their own comfort to attend the charity racing in a cold rain under the worst conditions.

Gary T. Grayson's Gay Party, an outsider, won the Southern Hotel Purse, secondary feature, well in hand, with J. Renick up. Preston Burch's General Lejeune was second. San Kai was third, beaten four lengths. Blaze White was fourth. Most of the favorites again were out of the picture, especially Dark Seeker and Chatmoss. The winner paid $26, and the time was 1:12 4-5, six furlongs. Wild Kitty had early speed. Dark Seeker, the favorite, was close up on the back stretch, with Gay Party third. Gay Party went to the front in the stretch.

Man o' War Filly Wins Opener.

Preston Burch saddled the first winner in Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Man o' War filly, Horatia, with George Fields up. After racing How into defeat, Moratia galloped home, finishing six lengths in front. How held the place by a length from R. L. Gentry's Goober. Floor Walker was fourth. The time for the mile and 70 yards was 1:48 1-5, showing the bad track. Happen was close up until she tired. The winner paid $11.40.

Capt. Ral Parr's Lillybet, the favorite, scored by a head in the second race for 2-year-olds foaled in Maryland, in a bunch finishing among the four leaders. S. W. Labrot's Kay Frances was second and a nose back Grand Acre was third. Thunderspeed was fourth. Single Foot, which a few years ago won his first race at Bowie and many stakes later in his career, is the sire of Lillybet. The winner paid $5.70. E. Watters out-rode D. Meade, who had the mount on Kay Frances, leader most of the way. Single Kay was close up on the back stretch. The time was 1:14 2-5, 6 furlongs.

Bowie Charity Day Card Nets $30,000

Brings Maryland Tracks' Total Gift to Unemployed Close to $130,000.

Bowie Race Track, Nov. 30.—The Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, operator of the Bowie Race Track, responded nobly today to the call for relief of the unemployed. Joseph B. Boyle, general manager, and Thomas K. Lynch, assistant and treasurer, reported unofficially tonight that the net receipts would amount to between $28,000 and $30,000.

An official statement of the association's second charity day will be prepared immediately. The first was held March 30, when $17,164 was raised.

Unofficial figures place the total funds raised by the five charity race days at between $125,000 and $130,000. The official figures will be available when all reports are made to the Maryland Racing Commission.

Betting today at Bowie, despite the rain that kept the size of the crowd down to 4,131 paid admissions, reached the unexpected total of $338,196. The first charity day at Bowie also was disagreeable, and, it being the first of the season, only $236,673 was wagered. The total gate receipts today were $6,201. Almost 6,000 programs were sold.

Unofficial reports from Havre de Grace show that more than $35,000 comprised the receipts there, with more than $25,000 at Pimlico, about $20,000 at Laurel, and Bowie's spring day, would pass the $98,000 mark.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HORATIA, $11.40, $7.10, $5.60; HOW, $8.40, $5.80; GOOBER, $6.20.

HORATIA, taken to the outside of the stall barrier when acting fractious, was outrun for the first six furlongs, improved her position on the outside, sprinted into a good lead when straightened into the home stretch and held sway thereafter. HOW raced SALAMA into submission, dropped back midway of the final turn, but came again and outstayed GOOBER. Latter, well up throughout, finished with good courage. FLOOR WALKER weakened in the final half mile. HAPPEN, sluggish in the early racing, closed a good gap in the final drive. FAST STORM hung when the final issue came. SALAMA stopped badly. CORPORAL QUEEN and IMA MARTIN were away poorly.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 2-year-olds foaled in Maryland. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:31. Off at 1:32½. Winner, R. Parr's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LILLY BET, $5.20, $2.80, $2.40; KAY FRANCES, $2.90, $2.70; GRAND ACRE, $3.00.

LILLY BET, forced back when leaving the back stretch, responded stoutly when shaken up and, finishing in determined fashion, was up in the concluding strides. KAY FRANCES, quick to get going, raced GRAND ACRE into defeat, saved ground the entire trip and held on stoutly until the end. GRAND ACRE made a bold effort entering the home stretch, but went wide and weakened slightly in the final test. THUNDERSPEED worked his way up on the outside and finished gamely. SINGLE KAY lacked early speed. The others were outrun.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:03. Off at 2:07. Winner, F. Eaton's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GUILDER, $20.70, $11.20, $5.80; BABOO, $24.50, $10.60; ANGRY PLUME, $3.50.

GUILDER, away in the first flight and showing good ability in the going, saved ground wherever possible and, holding on willingly when placed to pressure, held BABOO safe. Latter, breaking from outside the stall gates, followed in closest pursuit of the winner and continued gamely after swinging wide into the home stretch. ANGRY PLUME improved her position on the inside, but weakened when the real test came. RAIN OR SHINE broke slowly, was rushed hard to reach a forward position, but could not menace the leaders. ONCORA was unable to threaten the leaders at any stage. FANTAD had no mishaps. SUN PARCHED bolted to the outside entering the home stretch and was pulled up.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; allowances. The Southern Hotel Purse. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:36. Off at 2:37½. Winner, C. T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GAY PARTY, $26.00, $10.50, $7.60; GENERAL LEJEUNE, $6.60, $5.80; SAN KAI, $9.60.

GAY PARTY raced WILD KITTY into early submission, saved a lot of ground entering the home stretch to draw clear and had speed in reserve at the end. GENERAL LEJEUNE broke slowly, worked his way up on the outside and, with a belated rush through the final stages, SAN KAI moved up with good speed approaching the home stretch and closed gamely. BLAZE WHITE went to the leaders with a stout effort, but weakened during the closing furlong. CHEELA broke slowly, settled in her stride after the opening furlong and closed a good gap. STEPPING SISTER tired.

†A. Schuttinger-E. F. Cooney entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PILATE (E. F. Cooney entry), $4.00, $2.90, $2.20; BLIND LANE, $3.30, $2.40; FRIGATE BIRD, $2.30.

PILATE, at home in the going, sprinted into a safe lead at once, raced along under stout restraint until reaching the home stretch and finished with considerable speed in reserve. BLIND LANE made a stout effort when nearing the final turn, was placed to punishment, but was no match for the winner. FRIGATE BIRD entered contention on the outside rounding the far turn, came to the inside during the stretch run, but was held perfectly safe. BONNIE PRINCE threatened with a stout effort entering the home stretch, but lost much ground. SANDWRACK was done after five furlongs.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For all ages. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 3:42. Off at 3:44½. Winner, J. Goff's b. g. (3), by My Play—Necklace. Trained by F. Williams. Value to winner, $500; second, $70; third, $30. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 3-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:43 2-5, 1:58.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SQUEEZE PLAY, $12.60, $5.50, $4.10; SIR BYRON, $5.00, $4.00; HOLD ON, $6.20.

SQUEEZE PLAY, going in his best form and showing a liking for the footing, sprinted into a good lead, saved ground and had enough left in the final stages to withstand SIR BYRON. Latter, rated forwardly, responded when put to a drive and was gaining steadily approaching the finish. HOLD ON, rushed into a contending position, held on courageously when the final test came. OLD TIMES weakened during the final three furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and three-sixteenths miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year- olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:17. Off at 4:18. Winner, A. J. Gericke's b. f. (3), by Dunlin—Fay. Trained by A. Gilmore. Value to winner, $500; second, $70; third, $30. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49, 1:15 2-5, 1:43, 2:04 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAYLIN, $38.40, $13.70, $7.10; RUANE, $4.20, $3.00; STRETCHER, $5.30.

FAYLIN drew out into a long lead when reaching the back stretch, was steadied until reaching the home stretch and, put to a stout drive, outstayed RUANE. Latter, slow to get going, saved ground at the first turn, improved his position on the inside until approaching the home stretch, came to the outside thereafter and closed stoutly. STRETCHER, rated close up, was unable to menace the winner in the final test. BOUNDING DEEP was held safe when called on. ALGARA raced well.

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WITH the closing of Bowie, Jefferson Park will hold the racing spotlight until December 26; when Florida inaugurates its 72-day session. Oriental Park in Havana will enter the field on December 19.

A program composed of six claiming events will support the Carrollton Purse, an allowance affair for 2-year-olds, on today's card. This feature has attracted a field of ten juveniles which will contest the $900 purse over the three-quarter-mile route in the sloppy going which will undoubtedly prevail.

STIMULATOR, a fast-stepping youngster in the R. H. Fairbairn Stable, showed considerable promise in his New York campaign and against this mediocre field is selected to gain the honors. COTTON TIME has trained well since his Kentucky races and should furnish stern opposition. PRINCE FARTHING, from the J. Leiter string, has raced with the leading juveniles and must be accorded a chance in this group.

FIRST RACE—The opening event will bring a limit field of 4-year-olds and upward platers in a 6-furlong dash. ALAMAE has shown the most consistent form of this band of claimers and is given the call. MATTHEW, a superior mudder, should improve in the sloppy going. DIODORO appears next best.

SECOND RACE — SMOLDERING will favor the 6-furlong distance, and on his recent form should annex the purse. McTINKLE has demonstrated his ability to negotiate heavy going and is favored to gain the place, with MERIDIANESE selected for the show money.

THIRD RACE—In this 1-mile gallop BANJO is favored to show the way. GERTRUDE READE and DOWNPOUR, two fancied mudders, should account for the remainder of the purse.

FOURTH RACE—HIGH POCKETS and PRINCESS BLACK are closely matched in the fourth number, which is fashioned for 3-year-old maidens at the mile route. The former is given the call on his recent effort. WELL BEHAVED has trained briskly and should have the show.

SIXTH RACE—HARPOON, a consistent plater, has shown speed in soft footing and is the choice. OLD BILL and GOLD MINT should battle it out for the place and show awards.

SEVENTH RACE—SAM COLE appears to have a slight edge over TOMMY TICKLE. The latter has not raced recently and may need this as a conditioner. STOP GAP is rounding to good form and should gain a part of the purse.

PEGLER SAYS CHEERING IS CHILDISH

Organized Yells Criticised by Lowell Back in 1911.

and a little brown jug or an ax becomes a historic trophy of an intercollegiate rivalry well within Dr. Wilson's conservative estimate of five years.

In 1884, seven years after Dr. Lowell received his A. B. at Harvard, the undergraduates at Yale were chanting the frog chorus from a comedy of Aristophanes as a college yell. They are chanting it yet, and, among the old grads who chant with them on Saturdays in the fall is Prof. William Lyon Phelps, who barked the same strange sounds, come down from 400 years B. C., in its original rendition as a taunt, boast and defi of the Yales in 1884.

Without its classical label—if such a jargon as O-op Parabalou had been written just last year by a Yale freshman—the Yale yell might be quite as absurd as the worst of the gibberish cries, the childish rig-a-jiggers and ali-padadas invented by the undergraduates of other schools who apparently felt a need of some sound just as idiotic to express their warlike enthusiasm.

Dr. Phelps has explained the how come of Yale's favorite cry. Aristophanes intended to simulate the call of the frogs. The class of '86, in the fall of their sophomore year, were studying the comedy, under Prof. Tarbell, and one of the students, John C. Schwab, himself a professor at Yale in later years, was so fascinated by the rhythm that he found himself saluting his classmates with it on the campus. It became a class fad, and in the spring of 1884 the class used it spontaneously in an attempt to rattle a pitcher opposing the Yale varsity. The whole attendance took it up:

Brekekekex, ko-ax, ko-ax,
Brekekekex, ko-ax, ko-ax,
O-op, O-op, Parabalou,
Yale, Yale, Yale.

There had been some primitive organized cheering before that time, largely consisting of rah, rah-rah, derived from hoo-rah, descended from hurrah, the son of huzzah, which the encyclopedia traces back to the sailors' word, heeze, meaning to hoist, with the remark that this word heeze probably was used as a cry for unison, in hoisting and hauling, like the later yo-heave and heave-ho.

Some of the Yales, already, in 1884, regarding rah-rah-rah as a traditional Yale cry, protested against the adoption of the frog chorus, but sentiment did not support them, and Yale had taken on a terrible responsibility. There is no evidence that any school had used gibberish in a yell before this time, and the baby-talk, the maniac sounds, which have been invented and even set down in a solemn textbook for cheer-leaders, probably represent attempts to imitate Yale without resort to actual plagiarism. Not that student bodies are above the most arrant plagiarism in such matters.

Harvard Decides on Rah-Rah-Rahs.

Harvard at that time, so soon after the graduation of A. Lawrence Lowell, had pretty well decided upon the rah-rah-rahs which still constitute the regular Harvard cheer, an undistinguished yell with no indigenous quality.

Notwithstanding its high intellectual sanction, the Aristophanic gibberish, on direct comparison, seems no less absurd than some of the native American imitations, the least worst of which are like to curl the hair with sympathetic shame and mortification when yelled by groups of college men and women supposed to represent the most successful experiment in the improvement of the human race. Such phrases as beebibby-ba-ba, all-padada and eendicka, feen dicka, feen dicka fa, are yelled unblushingly on Saturday afternoons in the fall to inspire football teams whose members can hardly be congratulated on the fact that they do find such cries to be inspiring, if they do.

COLLEGE GRID COACHES PLAN DRILLS FOR ALABAMA GAMES

Ticket Sales For Contest Are Brisk

Period for Reduction in Prices to Expire Today.

Mills Allows Crippled Georgetown Squad Week of Rest.

WITH the limited period for reduced prices nearing expiration, the public yesterday showed more interest in Washington's big charity football program, scheduled December 12, than on any previous day since tickets first were placed on sale.

More than 1,000 tickets were purchased yesterday at the several distributing centers, thus bringing the advance sale up to the $5,000 mark, with the game yet almost two weeks distant. During the forenoon a long line of purchasers streamed by the box office window at Griffith Stadium, while large groups also kept sellers busy at Spalding's, 1338 G street northwest, and at George Washington, Georgetown and Catholic Universities.

Reduction Offer Ends Today.

Today is the last day of the special reduction offer. Pastboards purchased today will cost 50 cents less each than will be charged beginning tomorrow and up until the game. The established prices are as follows General admission, $1.50; reserved seats, $2; box seats, $2.50. The sale today and until further notice will be conducted exclusively at Spalding's and Griffith Stadium.

The football teams of George Washington, Catholic and Georgetown, which will participate in the charity affair in 20-minute contests with the 1930 Rose Bowl champions of Alabama University, were allowed to rest yesterday by their respective coaches. Coach "Dutch" Bergman, of Catholic, plans to call his men back to prictice today if the weather is suitable, while Coach Jim Pixlee, of George Washington, has announced that the Colonials will resume work tomorrow. Coach Tommy Mills, of Georgetown, has given his players the entire week off, although he said last night that he might possibly resume drills on Friday or Saturday.

Georgetown's squad has been hit hard by injuries this season and this sort of bad luck followed the Hilltoppers even into their final regularly scheduled game last Saturday. Johnny Shimmins, reserve full back, sustained water on the elbow in the finale with Detroit.

However, with five or six days of complete rest, Mills hopes his men will regain normal condition, including not only Shimmins, but Mack Stanley, righ half back, as well. The latter suffered a leg injury in the Villanova game of November 21.

The Rose Bowl champions (22 of them), who participated in Alabama's 24-to-0 conquest of Washington State, at Pasadena last New Year's Day, are being organized in Tuscaloosa, Ala., by Coaches Frank Thomas and Hank Crisp. Practically all of them have been either playing or coaching this season, this fact giving assurance that the local teams will meet worthy opposition.

ROCKNE PROPHESIED TWO LOSSES IN 1931

"Army's forwards were across the line of scrimmage so fast that it was impossible for Notre Dame to get plays in motion. Army's 6-3-2-defense, with the center going with the Notre Dame shift, was and always has been effective against the Rockne system of play. It looks great when it works but I have known times when it wouldn't look so good.

"I don't think mud and weather had much to do with the outcome. Aggressiveness by the Army was the deciding factor. The Cadets were breaking up plays before they started.

From West Point today came no revelations of secret inspiration or any "inside" explanation of Army's sharp reversal of form.

"It was just another Notre Dame game for us," remarked the Army's official spokesman, quite calmly. "We have always given their best teams a good run and what did we have to fear this time? Look over the scores and you will see that in four successive years, Army scored 24 points to Notre Dame's 26."

Princeton's Paper Urges New Coaches

Present Staff "Outmoded" Says Student Publication's Editorial.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 30 (U.P.).—Complete reorganization of Princeton's football coaching staff, which is termed "outmoded" was urged editorially today by the Daily Princetonian, campus newspaper.

The editorial reflected undergraduate sentiment that has been brewing throughout the disastrous season, climaxed Saturday by the crushing Yale defeat.

CASEYS OPEN SEASON.

The Knights of Columbus unlimited basket ball team will open its season tonight when the Chevy Chase Grays invade the Caseys' lair for a game.

PENNANTS TO DRILL.

The Petworth Pennants will drill tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the Iowa Avenue Playground in preparation for Sunday's game with the Northerns in the Capital City League. All players are requested to report promptly.

C. U. REPORTS PROGRESS ON COURT

Short Passing Game, Man for Man Defense Planned.

SHORT, choppy, passing, smacking of the professional variety and an up-to-the-minute man for defense will be installed in Coach Forrest Cotton's basketball machinery when Catholic University launches its 1931-1932 schedule. Using the system made famous by "Doc" Meanwell, Cotton, in his debut as court mentor at C. U., hopes to turn out a team far superior to that of a year ago.

Yesterday at Brookland the Cardinal basketers launched serious drilling for their impending games against St. John's, of Brooklyn, and City College, of New York, in the big town Meeting these foemen in the sequence mentioned on December 11-12, Catholic must make the most of a makeshift line-up.

Because a majority of his players are to represent the Cardinals in their portion of the charity football game against Alabama's 1930 Rose Bowl champions at Griffith Stadium, December 12, Cotton today is making every effort to band together a capable club for the New York invasion.

Mohaks, Apaches To Go A-Scalping

Grudge Game Promises Fans Lots of Fiery Football Sunday.

Although the Mohawks and the Apaches would not object if some 5,000 fans turned out Sunday to witness their game at Griffith Stadium, there will be something more than gate receipts involved. The contest, which doesn't come under the South Atlantic League, is purely a grudge battle which had its inception as such and is likely to provide more than mere football, perhaps a little work for the blue coats.

It seems that the Mohawk and Apache players were none too friendly after the first meeting in which they tied, 7-7. Following the contest in which the Celtics swamped the Apaches, Mohawk players were said to have doubted the courage of the Apaches. The Apaches came back mad enough to defeat the Mohawks, 13-6, in an upset, following which the Apaches did a little wild talking themselves. A lot of "I'll betchas" resulted in the rival managers letting the players talk them into another clash. Sounds like a wrestling match, but it's the right dope.

That the Apaches are taking the game seriously is evidenced by the fact that they are practicing each night this week under the lights at Griffith Stadium.

Catholic U. Honors Grid Heroes Tomorrow

By way of paying fitting tribute to Catholic University gridironers who this season are closing their careers a special football rally has been scheduled for tomorrow at McMahon Hall. The exercise gets under way at noon promptly.

Griffith to Attend Minor League Parley

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, will leave this afternoon for West Baden, Ind., to attend the annual minor league meeting. Scout Joe Engel, who also is head of the Chattanooga Club, also will be on hand to look after the Nationals' interest.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

. . . And now, after everybody from the pin boy down to Aunt Minnie back home in Podunk has contributed their reasons for the shrinkage of Howard Campbell's bowling average, comes the real reason for the slump of the local ace. His decline has been ascribed to several causes, the most popular and generally accepted of which is his footwork. The real reason, it has been learned from a reliable source, is that he is suffering from neuritis in the left arm and shoulder. Consequently every time he delivers a ball an excrutiating pain shoots through the bum wing. He has been ailing for the last eight months, but rather than quit he has stuck grimly to his task in the face of adverse criticism. Now, however, he is contemplating a sojourn at Mount Alto Hospital in the near future for treatment. In addition to his own illness, Campbell has been worried by the illness of his wife and daughter. It is only reasonable to expect a man to drop off a bit when laboring under such circumstances. So the next time someone goes to the trouble of explaining just why Campbell's average is not so big of late, you will know the right answer.

"Slim" Dykes and his Photo team cleaned up in the Engineering Reproduction Plant League at Arcadia last night. "Slim" hit the bottles for a game of 141 and came right back with a 383 set to clinch individual honors. The team piled up a game mark of 517 and set total of 1,541; to knock down team honors for the night.

George Miller's 154 garnered individual game honors in the Men's Federal League at Arcadia. Jim Jolliff, however, nosed his rival out of set laurels with a 384 score. Miller was the big gun for the Public Parks and Buildings team. Jim's work aided Internal Revenue, which captured team honors by virtue of its 589 game and 1,734 set.

Huntington, of Cooperation, won the individual honors in the Men's Agricultural League at Columbia. He cracked the wood for a game of 138 and set of 347. Nomics took high team game with their 529, and Grain and Horticulture finished in a dead heat for the set laurels with 1,542 each. The Nomics took the odd one from Cooperation. Grain won all three from Crop Estimate, Standards nosed out good old Fruits and Vegetables, and Horticulture raked Farm Management for a trio of wins.

STOCK PRICES RALLY AFTER LONG DECLINE

Day's Rise Is Best in Weeks; Dealers Welcome Change From Losses.

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—The decline in stocks was broken today by a rally which Wall street assumed to be technical, although it was none the less welcome, especially since it started from a level that was perilously near the October 5 lows.

The advance averaged into a net rise of 2.6 points, the best gain in about three weeks, and was accomplished against an unusually large break in sterling exchange and a weak foreign bond market. Wheat, corn and cotton rallied, a fact that doubtless had something to do with the retreat of shorts on the stock exchange.

Nevertheless, the market's ability to turn after an early sag had made an escape from last month's average lows seem doubtful relieved some of the gloom, although Wall street was unwilling to put too much weight on one day's performance. The presence of a large short interest has been generally conceded, but brokerage circles were wondering whether a rise was possible without the help of outside influences.

Pound Drops 13 Cents.

Sterling suffered an extreme drop of about 13 cents, to the lowest rate in a decade. The decline was ascribed to the same series of factors which were held responsible for last week's break, including withdrawal of French balances from London and seasonal considerations; but in addition there were rumors of an impending increase in the Bank of England's fiduciary note circulation. It was pointed out, however, that such a move would probably only accompany further gold payments on the Franco-American credit and so would not involve inflation.

A rumor or two, circulated through the financial district, appeared to have stimulated the covering. One said the Interstate Commerce Commission was likely to agree in principle to the railroads' amended freight rate petition. Another report, which met with denial, said the stock exchange was planning to forbid the loaning of stocks to shorts, a move that would eliminate short selling.

The markets face the last month of 1931 with numerous problems awaiting solution. In recent years the question of Germany's debts, both private and international, has probably been uppermost in the financial community's mind, and the forthcoming conference bearing on those obligations will be watched intently.

Other Factors Involved.

There are also the railway wage matter and the mounting Treasury deficit. Unusual interest will be taken in the Government's mid-December financing plans.

Before the rally several prominent stocks, including U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, New York Central, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Western Union, Westinghouse and Radio touched new lows. Steel, however, climbed from 53 to 57⅝ and closed at 56¾, up 3⅛. American Telephone was strongly supported, gaining about 4 points net, while New York Central had an extreme advance of more than 4. Atchison's best was a rise exceeding 6 points, which was reduced to 3⅝. Gains of 2 to 3 were numerous in all groups. Sales totaled 2,042,459 shares.

Bullish weather news and Argentine crop reports brought net gains of 2⅛ to 2⅞ cents in wheat. Corn's improvement amounted to something more than a cent. Cotton fell back considerably from the top, but was up 1 to 7 points net.

FOREIGN BONDS DROP AS RAILS SCORE RISE

Utilities Record New Lows in Market Turnover of $12,396,000.

New York, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—Indications of resistance were visible in a decidedly erratic bond market today.

While the utilities and foreign obligations plumbed the depths for a number of new low records, the badly pounded rails snapped back just before the close enough to enable the average of 60 corporate issues to show a slight gain over Saturday's session. Sales totaled $12,396,000.

The entire foreign list was unsettled by a sharp break in German government loans. The German 7s were down more than 7 points at one time, but they rallied sufficiently to register only a net loss of 4½ points. British 5½s were also heavily liquidated. With the exception of Argentines, which were strong, the South American obligations were off. Japanese loans gave ground slightly in light trading.

Colombia government and municipals recorded declines of several points following receipt of reports that the Municipality of Medellin had decided to declare a moratorium on the service of its two loans outstanding at approximately $11,000,000.

The irregularity of the rails was exemplified by Baltimore & Ohio loans. While the majority of these advanced, the 5s, series "D," of 2000, shed 9 points for a new low. Gains were registered by such lines as Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Denver & Rio Grande, Illinois Central, Kansas City Southern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central and other high-grade carriers.

Western Union 5s were off from ⅞ to 3½ points, but most American Telephones showed quiet strength and International Telephone issues advanced from 1 to 4¾ points. Convertible bonds of various classifications were dealt in at higher figures.

United States Government issues were soft, investors apparently waiting word from Washington on the terms of new financing which must be negotiated to meet heavy December maturities.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 30 (A.P.).—In spite of a savage break in sterling exchange rates, all grains jumped upward here today, wheat more than 3 cents a bushel. Aggressive speculative buying of domestic varieties of wheat was a stimulating factor, with considerable of the purchasing attributed to a Chicago trader who a few months ago was reputed to have made a huge profit in corn. Although the fall of British exchange was to the lowest levels yet since England slipped down from a gold basis, the spread in the latter ignored as being about offset by upturns of wheat values at Liverpool.

Wheat closed unsettled, 17⅛@3 cents higher than Saturday's finish; corn, 1¼@1⅝ up; oats, ⅝@1 advanced, and provisions unchanged at 12 cents off.

Giving particular incentive to wheat buyers was a continuance of unfavorable crop conditions in Argentina, notably temperatures as high as 105, with rains extending northward into harvest regions. There were also adverse crop advices from European countries, together with 2,496,000 bushels decrease in the amount of wheat on ocean passage and likewise a decrease of 1,568,000 in the United States wheat visible supply. It was further contended that drought in domestic winter wheat territory Southwest had been relieved on the outskirts only.

During much of the day offerings of wheat futures were relatively scarce and the market gave indications of an oversold condition. Bulls asserted that a natural reaction upward was overdue and that bearish features had been fully allowed for. In some quarters stock market rallies were given credit for a good deal of the buying that developed in wheat, although frequently wheat was advancing when stocks were doing the reverse. On the other hand, much of the recent weakness of grain has apparently been a reflection of semidemoralized aspects of the security market.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Shipping demand here for corn was better, and no cause at all was reported as having been brought to arrive.

Provisions sagged, responsive to downturns in hog values.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, generally fair and colder Tuesday and Wednesday; moderate winds, mostly northwest.

For Maryland, generally fair and colder Tuesday and Wednesday, except light rain, changing to snow flurries in extreme west portion Tuesday; moderate to fresh west, shifting to northwest winds.

For Virginia, generally fair and colder Tuesday and Wednesday, except possibly rain on the coast Tuesday; moderate to fresh northwest or north winds.

The extensive northern disturbance has moved eastward and now extends from Hudson Strait southward to Virginia. Hopes Advance, Hudson Strait, 28.92 inches, and pressure remains relatively low from Virginia southwestward to the western Gulf of Mexico. Vera Cruz, 29.76 inches. This disturbance has been attended by rain in the west Gulf States and in most sections east of the Mississippi River. The rainfall was heavy in Tennessee and northern Alabama. Birmingham reporting the greatest amount, 1.90 inches. Another disturbance is over the Gulf of Alaska. Cordova, 29.58 inches. High pressure prevails over the western California Province, Alaska, and the greater part of the United States west of the Appalachian Mountains, and in the vicinity of Bermuda. Boise, Idaho, 30.82 inches, Tanana, Alaska, 30.34 inches, and Hamilton, Bermuda, 30.22 inches. The temperature has continued to rise in the Atlantic States, and it has fallen in Tennessee, the middle and west Gulf States, North Dakota and Manitoba.

Forecast for Tuesday and Wednesday: General forecast for the Atlantic States, the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, and Tennessee: The indications are for rain in the South Atlantic States Tuesday, and in the extreme South Wednesday, and for light rain changing to snow flurries Tuesday from the lower lake region eastward to Maine. Otherwise generally fair weather is probable during the next two days. The temperature will be lower quite generally, except in extreme southern Florida.

FAMOUS SEER
THE MAN WHO KNOWS

Special Readings

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travels, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills; deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay. Copyright, Apr., 1931

When Washington Was Younger—No. 122

The above photograph, taken in 1903, depicts Fifteenth street between F and G in the days of foaming steins and free lunches. On the extreme left is the Riggs House, one of Washington's ancient hostelries, where many members of Congress were wont to abode when the House was in session. Beside it on the right is the Citizens National Bank, whose president, E. Kurtz Johnson, was one of Washington's leading bankers. Next door is the famous Metropolitan Bank which in 1904 merged with the Citizen's National Bank to form one of the District's greatest financial institutions. O. H. P. Johnson ably followed in his distinguished father's footsteps when he became vice president of the Metropolitan Bank.

Beside the bank is Ford & Graham's Lunch, colloquially known as the "Millionaire's Club" on account of the many wealthy citizens who dropped in in the wee sma' hours to drink a cup of coffee and rub shoulders with the hoi-polloi. Next to the lunchroom was McMahon's Saloon. On the extreme right is Bryan & Co.'s Haberdashery where the Beau Brummels of the day were wont to purchase their gala attire.

However, today finds the Metropolitan Bank as the only landmark of the "days that used to be." The Riggs House gave way to the present Riggs Building, while the clink of steins and the rattle of carriage wheels may be found only in a scene from the "talkies" at Keith's Theater, which now rears its stately facades on Fifteenth street.

RELIEF BODY TO PAY 500 MEN FOR WORK ON PUBLIC PROJECTS

Jobless to Be Assigned to District Engineer and Parks Office.

6-HOUR DAY, RATE OF 35 CENTS AN HOUR PLANNED

New Workers to Take Place of Per Diem Employes Just Discharged.

Five hundred jobless men will be employed within the next fortnight by the District committee on employment and will be furnished without cost to the District Engineer Department and the Office of Public Building and Public Parks, George J. Adams, jr., executive secretary, announced yesterday.

The announcement was made following conferences with park officials and with Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and Maj. F. M. Davison, highway maintenance engineer, representing the District government. The plan is to provide the District government with 300 workmen and the parks office with 200.

Work will be on a 6-hour-day basis and will continue probably for three months so far as the District government is concerned, Maj. Davison said. The wage scale will be 35 cents an hour.

Committee Furnishes Money.

The $45,000 to finance the scheme will be furnished by the employment committee.

Jobs will be available in the District about December 16, it is believed, while those in the parks may be ready next Monday.

The plan will enable the District Engineer Department to beautify grounds of many schools that would otherwise be neglected because of lack of funds. The major task of the 300 men will be to sod these grounds, Maj. Davison said. Donations of turf will be asked for this work.

In addition 500,000 asphalt blocks, assembled from repair jobs in all parts of the city, will be utilized by the laborers to improve roadways around municipally owned institutions such as Gallinger Hospital and the Home for the Aged.

Urgent street and alley repairs will also be made by these temporarily employed workmen.

Per Diem Workers Out.

The District Government will provide all necessary tools and implements for the work, but the employment committee will have to finance operation of trucks needed in hauling as the District can not use funds for unauthorized projects.

Officials of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks said that the 200 men to be assigned for park improvement will be used in various sorts of clean-up work. Dead timber will be removed from all parks to decrease the fire hazard.

Both the District Government and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks recently discharged per diem workers because of lack of funds to keep them employed all winter. The District dropped 400 workmen and the parks office released 200.

Girl Severely Injured When Hit by Auto

A possible fracture of the skull and injuries about the scalp and arms were suffered yesterday by Marie Franklin, 11 years old, of 1428 T street southeast, when she was knocked down by an automobile at Good Hope road and Fourteenth street southeast.

Police said the accident happened when the child dashed in front of a machine operated by Miss Roberta Harrison, 22 years old, of 636 D street northeast. The child was taken to Casualty Hospital, where her condition was reported as undetermined last night.

Car Truck Jumps Rails On New Klingle Bridge

About a dozen street cars of the Capital Traction Co. line were delayed for 45 minutes last night when two wheels of a rear truck on a northbound car went off the rails at the north end of the new Klingle Bridge. A wrecking car and crew got the car back on the tracks and service was resumed.

Automotive traffic was not delayed by the mishap. The car went off the tracks about 7:30 o'clock, some time past the rush hour. Some of the passengers left the blocked cars, but the majority waited patiently until service was resumed.

Holiday Lights Set For Seventh Street

Reichelderfer Will Start Merchants' Display This Evening.

Thousands of varicolored electric lights will transform Seventh street northwest from G to K street into a lane of gay brilliance when Commissioner Luther A. Reichelderfer gives the signal at 5 p. m., which will inaugurate the Christmas shopping season.

Other local officials are expected to be present at the opening of the shopping season on Seventh street. The lighting arrangements have been fostered by the Seventh Street Business Men's Association.

Sylvan King, of King's Palace, is president of the association; Dermott Nee, of P. J. Nee & Co., vice president; Howard Sigmund, of Sigmund's, vice president; John L. Sheads, of McCrory's, secretary, and B. I. Boudren, of the Riggs Bank, treasurer.

The committee in charge of the event is composed of Herman Carl, Cecil Kaufman, Harry Hahn, Edward Geazy and Leo Baum.

Street Car Fells Woman.

Knocked down by a street car as she was crossing in the 900 block of New York avenue northwest yesterday morning, Mrs. Lucy Groves, 43 years old, of 930 New York avenue northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital for cuts about her head. She returned to her home after treatment.

THE old Pension Office Building, now the General Accounting Office Building, located in the square north of the Courthouse.

G street northwest may be seen cutting across the picture above the building, intersecting Fourth street in the upper right-hand corner. The white-corniced structure with the flagpole, opposite the gabled roof of the Pension office, is the Typographical Temple.

The thoroughfare shown in the foreground carries F street traffic through the park between the office building and the Courthouse grounds.

Designed in 1882 by M. G. Meigs, plans for this old structure were approved by the then Secretary of War, Robert Lincoln, son of President Lincoln. The building first was occupied in 1885 by the Bureau of Pensions, which continued offices here until 1926. The bureau, subordinate to the Veterans Administration, now is located in the Interior Department Building. Comptroller General J. R. McCarl and his staff took over their old quarters.

Costing $902,569, this historic edifice has served as setting for Government functions of note, including inaugural balls of Presidents Cleveland, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft.

TAXICAB COMPANIES FIGHT METER ORDER

Bell and City Ask Injunction to Block Enforcement of P. U. C. Ruling.

The action of the Public Utilities Commission in ordering the metering of all taxicabs by January 10, 1932, was attacked in two separate complaints filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by the Bell Cab Co. and the City Cab Co., two of the major proponents of the zone system of cab fare.

The companies, although they filed two independent bills, met on mutual footing in that they attacked the validity of the order and the jurisdiction of the commission. The headings of the bills portray them to be "complaints to vacate, set aside, or modify an order of the Public Utilities commission and for an injunction."

The order that all cabs abandon the zone system and take up the meter system was issued November 6. It was directed at several thousand cabs now operating here on the zone system. The meters were denounced by cab drivers as constituting an unnecessary expense.

Because of the possibility that the petitions can not be acted upon on their merits until too late, the court is asked to grant the cab companies a temporary injunction against placing the order in effect.

Among other allegation, the companies charge that placing the order in effect will throw thousands of cab drivers out of work and that "it is not the duty of the commission to protect the street railway companies."

Police Holding Son In Woman's Death

Working on Theory Victim Was Beaten; Body May Be Exhumed.

Homicide Squad detectives are investigating information given them that Mrs. Emma Hoffman, who died on November 22 in her home at 935 K street northwest, was beaten prior to her death.

The detectives arrested and are holding for questioning her son, Beverly C. Hoffman, 31 years old, of the K street address, and Ethel May Harrigan, 31 years old, of 6600 Eastern avenue northwest. If the results of the questioning of these two warrant it, the detectives will submit the results to Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, coroner, who will decide whether the body will be exhumed for an inquest.

Mrs. Hoffman was buried at North Fork, Va., after the coroner issued a certificate of death from natural causes.

Policeman Hurt Starting Patrol.

The crank of the Second Precinct patrol slipped yesterday, slightly injuring Private J. B. Monroe, 25 years old, of 619 Lamont street northwest. Private Monroe was trying to start the machine to answer a call. He was badly cut about his right hand. After emergency treatment at a hospital he was sent home.

Eastern Star Goal Outlined At Assembly

Advancement of a spirit of fraternalism in this country and throughout the world was emphasized by speakers last night at a general assembly of the members of the Order of the Eastern Star of the District at Memorial Continental Hall.

The principal speakers were Amy C. Hollander, worthy grand matron; Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner; C. Fred Cook, most worshipful grand master of Masons in the District; Minnie E. Keyes, right worthy grand secretary; Joseph H. Milans, past grand patron, and Theodore C. Lewis, worthy grand patron.

Mrs. Hollander spoke of the importance of furthering the ideals of the Eastern Star of "truth, charity and loving kindness."

The keynote for the furtherance of a spirit of fraternalism was sounded by Mr. Milans. Gen. Crosby extended a greeting to the organization, and an address of welcome was also made by Mary H. Bayles, president of the matrons and patrons of 1931 and worthy matron of Washington Centennial Chapter, No. 26.

An impressive feature was a memorial service, during which the lights were lowered and the names of the deceased members read. Helen Turley followed this with the singing of "The City Over There."

The program was concluded with the presentation of the matrons and patrons of 1931. This was accompanied by a tableau enacted by Yeba J. Hall and Bess D. Pierce under the direction of Jeannette R. Smith, past grand matron.

Katherine C. Meritt, past grand matron, opened the program with the call to order. The invocation was given by the Rev. John C. Palmer, grand chaplain of District Masons. Julia N. Streater offered the tribute to the flag.

Autoist Sues Car Line For $36,076 Damages

The Capital Traction Co. yesterday was named defendant in a suit for $36,076.80 damages filed by Attorney William Wendell in behalf of Wilmer J. Lynch, of 4421 Iowa avenue northwest.

Mr. Lynch alleged that a street car struck his automobile at Fourteenth and P streets northwest on September 27, 1930, causing him to receive serious injuries.

G. P. O. Worker Retires After 37 Years' Service

After serving in the Government Printing Office for 37 years as a pressman and without once missing a day because of illness other than the regular annual leave of employes, James Edward Karnes, 63 years old, retired from Government service yesterday. Public Printer George H. Carter delivered a set of resolutions of felicitation on behalf of the Government and a radio was presented by fellow employes.

Mr. Karnes came here from Buffalo, N. Y. He lives at 1418 Longfellow street northwest with his wife, Mrs. Stella Karnes, and a son, Paul. Another son, Maj. James C. Karnes, also lives here.

Industry Proves Undoing Of Alleged Liquor Runner

"Cut out that light, you'll have the cops up here before you know it!"

But Albert Presten, 36 years old, colored, of 2007 Eighth street northwest, was just 30 seconds too late with that prediction. The "cops," or rather one of them, was already there, and it was Detective E. L. Baker, of the Second Precinct, who was flashing the light in Presten's automobile.

Detective Baker said he was walking in the 2000 block of Eighth street when he saw a car pull up to the sidewalk and three men get out. One of them leaned over the back seat and began to tug at something. He decided to have a look for himself, and two of the men walked rapidly away at his approach. Presten, however, was too engrossed in his task to notice, the detective said, and did not look around until the light flashed over his shoulder.

WILL SHOWS LARNER ESTATE IS $283,122

Bulk of Property Personal; Petition Is Presented for Probate.

John B. Larner, president of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., had real estate valued at $35,472.50 and personal property, including cash and bonds, valued at $247,649.61 at time of his death November 9.

That was shown yesterday when his widow, Anna P. Larner, and the Washington Loan & Trust Co., his executors, filed a petition for probate of his will.

The trust company is directed to hold a major portion of the estate in trust for Mrs. Larner for life. At her death income from the estate is to be divided between the five daughters of Mr. Larner, Ruth L. Oliphant, Margaret L. Wotherspoon, Isabella L. Scott and Anna S. Larner, of this city, and Lucy L. Banks, of Mifflintown, Pa.

As the daughters achieve the age of 35 they are to receive their one-fifth shares of the estate to do with as they please. Each of the daughters also receive ten shares of trust company stock.

The New York Avenue Presbyterian Church gets $1,000, the Presbyterian Home $500 and the law school of George Washington University $800 for a medal fund.

Representative Busby In Automobile Accident

Representative Jeff Busby, of Mississippi, yesterday figured in an automobile accident, but while police held the driver of the other car at fault and the representative's machine was damaged to the extent of about $25, he refused to take any action against the man.

The accident happened as the representative was making a left-hand turn from the Capitol Grounds into B street southwest, according to police reports. His car was in collision with a taxicab operated by Lewis L. Leatherman, 21 years old, of 1421 Twelfth street, which police said was in the act of passing on the wrong side of a street car as it proceeded west on B street. The taxi was undamaged and neither driver was injured.

THREE POLICEMEN CLEARED BY BRIDE IN BRUTALITY CASE

MOSTYN-LAFLIN PLEA FOR RETRIAL DUE TODAY

Refusal Will Allow Pair to Seek Appeals Review of Conviction.

Three Second Precinct policemen yesterday were absolved in connection with brutality charges filed against them by a prisoner. The absolution was made by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride in the cases of Privates C. R. Bremmerman, G. F. Tritington and B. E. Thompson, who were accused of injuring the arm of James Lester, colored, when they arrested him at his home, 1600 New Jersey avenue northwest. The case was reported by a friend of Lester a day after the Department of Justice had officially closed its investigation of "third degree" tactics in Washington.

Charges Held Unsubstantiated.

"My opinion is that no trial board action should be had in this matter due to a lack of corroboration and substantiation of the charges made against these members of our department," Mr. Bride said in a message to the precinct commander.

The date on which sentence is to be pronounced on James A. Mostyn and William R. Laffin, convicted last week of brutally beating James Henry Harker with their hands, remained indefinite yesterday.

Ask New Trial Today.

A formal motion for a new trial is scheduled to be filed today by James A. O'Shea, attorney for the two, and that will have to be disposed of by Justice James M. Proctor before the two can be haled before him for sentence.

In the event that the motion for a new trial is denied, the men still have recourse to the court of appeals for a review of their conviction. Both Mostyn and Laffin are still on a suspended basis in the Police Department, Mostyn as a precinct detective and Laffin as a private.

Injury by Backing Auto Causes Death of Man

Injuries received when he was knocked down by an automobile on November 28 proved fatal at Gallinger Hospital yesterday to Wilson Freas, 65 years old, William P. Hall, 38 years old, of 1126 Eleventh street northwest, is held in connection with the accident, pending action of a coroner's inquest at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Freas was injured when the automobile allegedly driven by Hall backed into him while Hall was parking on Ninth street, near I street northwest. The injured man was taken to Gallinger Hospital with injuries about the head and back, and died there yesterday morning about 11:30 o'clock.

Bride Will Suggest Rose Case Penalty

Contractor May Forfeit Woodridge School Building Job.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride will advise the District Commissioners this week as to what course of procedure they should take if the charges of the Washington Building Trades Council against the W. P. Rose Co., of Greensboro, N. C., are sustained. There is a strong possibility that the contractor may lose the Woodridge School job, which is the only one of his projects which is affected by the prevailing wage scale recently ordered by the Commissioners.

The union complaint was based on an affidavit signed by a former employe of the Rose Co. to the effect that the contractor had dismissed the workman when he refused to sign a statement that he had received the union wage when he had not.

Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, said yesterday that the company had denied the charge, but declined to submit a denial under oath. He and his associates are investigating the charge.

MEMORIAL FOUNTAIN PRESENTED

LOT REZONING PLEA IS WON ON APPEAL

Supreme Court Should Not Have Refused Case, Is Ruling.

The action of the District Supreme Court in refusing to entertain a motion for a mandatory injunction to compel the zoning commission to rezone lots 801 and 802, on the north side of K street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets northwest, was overridden by the District Court of Appeals yesterday.

The lots, owned by Henrietta B. Bugher, Frederick McLean Bugher and Alvin Untermyer, have lost their utility as residential property because of the high tax assessments, the court found, and unless the property can be turned into commercial uses the owners will be deprived of the lawful use of them, it was added.

The ruling found that the property on K street was in the nature of commercial property and that the District Supreme Court should have proceeded to hear the case on its merits, rather than affirm a motion to dismiss the bill for injunction. The case was sent back to the lower court for proper action under the circumstances.

A recent United States Supreme Court ruling was the basis for the Court of Appeals decision. This case decided that "while the court is not warranted in substituting its own judgment for that of the zoning authorities, nevertheless, the governmental power to interfere, by zoning regulations, with the general rights of the land owner by restricting the character of his use, is not unlimited, and such restrictions can not be imposed if it does not bear a substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals or general welfare."

Miss Doris Smith Named Foundry Players' Head

Miss Doris Smith was last night elected president of the Foundry Players, dramatic organization of Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church, for the coming year, while Edward Pence, formerly connected with the motion picture business, was renamed director of the group.

Martin D. Kirkpatrick was chosen vice president and manager, Ray Kurtz, treasurer, and Jean Watson, secretary. The first play of the season to be presented by the group will be "Wild Oats Boys" this Friday in the dramatic hall of the Foundry Church, Sixteenth and P streets northwest.

Citizens Protest Lights' Removal

Trinidad Group Points to Decrease of Accidents on K Street.

Objection was voiced last night by the Trinidad Citizens Association against the proposal of Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer to remove traffic lights from K street northeast, except at Fifth, Eighth and Thirteenth streets.

The association, at its meeting at the Wheatley School, appointed a committee to voice the objections of the association to Mr. Van Duzer. It was pointed out by speakers that before the erection of the traffic lights many serious accidents occurred on the thoroughfare. The number of accidents since the lights were installed, the association said, has been greatly decreased.

The association also passed a resolution favoring flat zone rates for all taxicabs, and opposed the meter system of fares. It was also decided to ask District authorities to erect a traffic sign at Bladensburg road and New York avenue, so that incoming traffic could be diverted from the busier thoroughfares in the Northeast section. George J. Cleary presided.

CURTIS IS CHAIRMAN FOR YULETIDE TREE

Will Invite President to Light National Emblem of Christmas.

It is expected that Vice President Curtis will this week invite President Hoover to light the National Community Christmas Tree, which will, on Christmas Eve herald the start of the holiday season.

The Vice President was yesterday named chairman of the national committee, it was announced after the first meeting of the executive committee for the Christmas tree celebration.

His willingness to serve as chairman was expressed before the executive meeting in the Franklin School Administration Building.

In the event of the President's acceptance of the invitation to attend, the exercises will be broadcast over a Nation-wide radio hook-up, as in former years.

The tree will be situated just south of the Treasury Building. The executive committee decided that the celebration will commence this year at 5 o'clock instead of 6, as before on Christmas Eve, to enable workers on their way home to attend.

Singing Christmas carols by persons chosen from the colleges churches, the Americanization School and the Federation of Music Clubs will be in charge of Mrs. Gertrude A. Lyons.

Dinner Will Honor Jasper Post Head

Comrades Pay Tribute to Retiring Leader at Feast Tonight.

A testimonial dinner and dance in honor of William A. Kehoe, retiring commander of Sergeant Jasper Post No. 13, of the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion, will be given tonight by fellow members of the post.

Among speakers and guests who will be present are Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs; Representative Royal C. Johnson, Capt. Watson B. Miller, Claude E. Babcock and Ferdinand G. Fraser, commander of the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion.

Under the leadership of Mr. Kehoe, Sergeant Jasper Post more than doubled its membership during the past year. He will be succeded by Edward L. Marthill.

Evangelist Begins Course of Sermons

The Rev. Guy West, of Bridgewater, Va., regional evangelist for the Church of the Brethren, last night opened a series of evangelical sermons at the Church of the Brethren at Fourth street and North Carolina avenue southeast.

The Rev. Mr. West will speak nightly at the church for the next two weeks. He was presented last night by the Rev. F. F. Holsopple, pastor of the church.

Fechet May Join Staff Of Flying Publication

Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, retiring chief of the Air Corps, will join the staff of Aero Digest, a monthly aeronautical publication, January 1, according to a statement coming from the magazine. He will be placed in charge of the Digest's Washington bureau, the statement said.

Gen. Fechet, who is on leave pending his retirement January 1, could not be reached yesterday for confirmation of this announcement.

Woman Rescued From Gas; Note of Farewell Is Found

Life of Mrs. Helen Viands, 27 years old, was saved yesterday when J. H. Price, resident of an apartment house at 61 Rhode Island avenue northeast, smelled gas issuing from her rooms and called police.

An emergency car from the Twelfth Precinct responded and police broke down the door of the bathroom. They found Mrs. Viands unconscious with gas issuing from a jet above her head. She was revived by members of the fire rescue squad and the Casualty Hospital staff.

The woman had written a note which read: "Dear Ones: I am sorry. Please try and understand. May God have mercy on my soul. Please forgive me."

TRADE GROUP BACKS BETTER VOCATIONAL SYSTEM IN SCHOOLS

Will Name Committee to Aid Educational Officials in New Legislation.

HIGHER SALARIES SEEN AS OUTSTANDING NEED

Campaign for Playgrounds Also Is Discussed, With View to Increase.

The public schools committee of the Washington Board of Trade threw its support behind school officials yesterday afternoon in their plans to obtain legislation at the forthcoming session of Congress for an improved vocational school system in the District.

On the suggestion of Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, John Lewis Smith, chairman of the Broad of Trade committee, announced that he would appoint a subcommittee to work with school officials and the Board of Education in their objective to ameliorate the vocational schools system.

Mr. Kramer announced that it is the plan of the school board and school officials to introduce legislation which would give the local vocational schools a better standing and to provide higher salaries, making it possible to employ "better teachers."

Will Confer on Personnel.

Mr. Smith will confer with Edward J. Murphy regarding the appointment of the subcommittee.

The schools committee of the trade board also cast its attention on character education and the playrgounds.

On recommendation of M. LeRoy Goff, Mr. Smith appointed a subcommittee to investigate the work of the Pathfinders of America in connection with character education in schools. Mr. Goff spoke highly of the Pathfinder system and referred to character education as important in schools as cooking and carpentry.

He voiced the opinion that the church is not fulfilling the part it formerly did in developing the character of children, and drew the conclusion that this is a phase of the education to which schools should give attention.

More Playgrounds Desired.

In regard to the playgrounds, Mr. Smith appointed a subcommittee to determine what jurisdiction the schools committee would have in campaigning for more playgrounds. There is some question as to whether the school committee can exercise this right as the playground department is distinct from the public school committee. Need for more playgrounds, particularly in the Northeast section, was called to the attention of the committee by Hubert Newsom, who was appointed chairman of the investigating subcommittee.

Harry O. Hine, secretary of the Board of Education, and a member of the school committee, reported that the kindergarten divisions of the public schools "are in as good a condition as they have ever been."

Churches Celebrate Curley's Anniversary

Baltimore churches yesterday celebrated the tenth anniversary of the assignment of the Right Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, to the Archdiocese of Baltimore. Bells on all Catholic churches were tolled at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and special masses were celebrated.

Archbishop Curley, in accordance with his usual custom, celebrated early mass and devoted most of the day to routine archdiocesan business. He has been confined to his residence with a severe cold, but came to the window last night to acknowledge the serenade by the St. Mary's Industrial School for Boys' Band.

Injunction Is Won By Garage Owner

Court Enjoins District From Revoking Cahill Certificate.

A decision of the District Supreme Court in permanently enjoining the District of Columbia, through its Commissioners, from canceling or revoking a certificate enabling Robert F. Cahill to use as a garage the premises at 1617 O street northwest was affirmed by the Court of Appeals yesterday.

The court found that the permit to use the building as a garage had been properly granted after a due and orderly investigation by the inspector of buildings, and that the Commissioners were thereafter estopped from revoking that permit because Cahill had been allowed to use the building as a garage for a year without protest and had spent several thousand dollars equipping it. Various Government departments had also from time to time ordered special equipment installed.

The court showed that these expenditures were incurred only after the permit had been granted and were made in good faith.

Takoma Park Fireman Fined on Parking Count

Theodore Raines, of Takoma Park, Md., a member of the Fire Department, was fined $15 and sentence suspended last night by Judge A. L. Wilson on charges of parking his automobile in the entrance driveway of the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department Building.

Raines was brought into Takoma Park Police Court on a warrant sworn out by Irvine H. Ware, president of the fire department, as a move in the campaign to discourage parking in front of the fire house doors.

Methodist Young People to Meet.

The December meeting of the Young People's Council of Religious Education of Fairfax County will be held this evening in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Herndon, Va.
